Same War God, New Face.
Red Petticoats, Good.
Meteor Showers.
If Ten Men Had 10 Billions.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE GOD OF WAR has changed his face, appearing now with a different kind of frown, eyes slanting upward at the corners. He is an Asiatic, but the same old god.

JAPAN SAYS:

"China attacked me, cruelly, wrongfully, when I wasn't doing anything at all."

China says:

"That's the way the wolf talked to the baby lamb in the fable when he wanted an excuse to eat it. How could we Chinese attack Japan when we are so busy attacking each other?"

RUSSIA SAYS:

"I am the one that is attacked. My feelings are hurt. The Japanese are trying to ruin my five-year plan. May the ghosts of Karl Marx and Lenin haunt and destroy them!"

WHEN YOU hear of people being killed they are usually Chinese, 50 here, 100 there.

Gen. Mah, a Chinese who seems most anxious to fight Japan, is said to have received 15 carloads of arms from Russia.

RUSSIA WILL NOT get into a war if she can help it. She is busy, and feels like an Italian image vendor with 40 plaster statues on a board balanced on his head.

But Russia will fight if she must.

China was buying silver in London yesterday, probably getting ready to hire some more soldiers. You must pay them if they fight.

THE EMPRESS Eugenie hat is dead.

Too many ladies looking out of one eye, under the brim, killed that fashion. Women want to be "different." According to one fashion writer, red flannel petticoats, such as Eugenie wore, but shorter, "of course, and tighter, will be fashionable for a while.

That is good news. Women freezing themselves injure their vitality, starving themselves they reduce vitality. Starving AND freezing they can't stand.

PERHAPS YOU didn't know that it is fashionable to have your toenails polished and dyed a bright red, green or blue, wearing sandals without stockings, to make the toenails visible.

That is fashionable, in certain places, and it is to continue. That's queer, but better than dyeing your teeth black. Some savage women do that.

NEXT WEEK, look out for showers of meteors, during the first four days.

The ancient Mayans believed the meteors were falling hairs on the head of "the Lord of the Dead, Tzontamocque." We know them as heavy stones striking our atmosphere, melting because of their high speed, and usually harmless. No one insures against them, but one MIGHT destroy the biggest building on earth.

FRANCE IS short, may find it necessary to import fifty million bushels of wheat, fortunately, she can pay for it easily. In the past week her gold supply was increased by three billion francs, taken from the United States. All those francs amount to only $117,250,000, but every little helps.

And as there is only ten and a half billion dollars worth of gold in the world, our French friends may, eventually, get it all.

CONCERNING THE world's inadequate supply of what we are pleased to call "real money," of which 90 per cent of the world's people cannot possibly have any, it is interesting to reflect that three Americans, Mellon, Ford and Rockefeller, are probably each worth a billion.

If they chose to demand gold, that would give each one a tenth of the world's total supply. Suppose 10 men actually had it all. What then?

REED HARRIS, editor of the Columbia University paper, "The Spectator," says, editorially, that football is largely professional, and those that manage athletic funds are not willing to show their accounts.

To that, three young Columbia football players reply convincingly. They tell the editor:

"If you say anything like that again, three of us will beat you up."

Three good football players, in training, could probably keep the promise.

PAUL BLOCK, publisher, who owns all of several things, and a little of everything, has sold his baseball club, called "The Newark International League Club," to Col. Jacob Ruppert, who already owns the New York Yankees.

With this purchase, Col. Ruppert extends the baseball "Chain Store" field. Being new, that is news.

GOVERNMENT EXPERTS in Finland, investigating prohibition, recommend manufacture and sale of beer containing not more than 3.2 per cent of alcohol, and wines of 12 per cent maximum.

Those who believe that men were not meant to drink water only will approve that suggestion. Three and two-tenths per cent beer would not be intoxicating unless you drank several quarts of it.

Twelve per cent wine would bar champagne, and heavy natural wines like port and sherry, and encourage the lighter natural wines.

But nothing like that will come in this country for many a day.

"Bath-tub gin," "needled beer" and "prune juice" whisky must satisfy the thirsty for a long time to come.

Gen. Mah's Army Hurls Back Japanese Troops

TOKIO FORCE ROUTED IN 4-HOUR BATTLE

Russian Officers Reported Aiding Chinese; Many Casualties on Both Sides

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service.

TOKIO, Nov. 13. — Defeat of Japanese troops on the Nonni River front in a battle with a Heilungkiang force of 3,000 men was reported today in dispatches from Manchuria.

The Japanese were attacked at three points near Tahsing, and were forced to retire after a four-hour battle in which both sides suffered heavy casualties.

The success of the Heilung-Kiang troops, forming part of the Northern Manchurian Army of Gen. Mah Shan-Chan, strengthened the belief of Japanese war office officials that the Chinese have received large supplies of arms and ammunition from Russia and are being aided by Soviet-trained officers.

After being repulsed by the Chinese, the Japanese force retired to a point near the Nonni River to await reinforcements.

With a more formidable force under his command, Gen. Shogo Hasebe, Japanese commander at Tahsing, was expected to launch a counter-offense against Mah Chan-Shan, with the object of taking Anganki, and moving northward to Tsitsihar in a drive against the main Heilungkiang army.

HILLEGAS AND 11 HELD IN FRAUD

Charles A. Hillegas, former Republican chairman of the Thirteenth Ward and a supervisor in City Bureau of Highways and Sewers, was indicted today, with 11 others, by the federal grand jury on 30 counts of using the mails to defraud.

The government charged that the men urged purchase, by mail and telephone, of stock in the Atlantic Drug and Chemical Company, which they represented as the manufacturer of a patent cold medicine with factories in Pittsburgh, Wheeling and Steubenville.

It was further charged that they do not own the formula of the medicine they claimed to manufacture and have no factories.

The 11 others are A. Leslie Brown, Roy E. Smith, Harrison M. Whitto, L. Williamson, Joseph Aro Smith, James Ritchie, A. G. Guyer, Alexander I. Thompson, David S. Hammon, Henry M. Bass and Frank Bradour.

The jury was dismissed shortly after noon, subject to future recall.

U. S. INDICTS NICOLA IN TAX CASE

Epstein, Former Boxer, and Well-Known Doctor Here Charged With Evasion

Three well-known Pittsburghers were indicted by the federal grand jury today for alleged evasion of income taxes.

F. F. Nicola, real estate operator, is charged with evading payment of more than $32,000 for 1928 and 1929.

Henry H. Epstein, a parking lot owner, now prominent in sporting circles and formerly a prize fighter under the name of Young Eppy, is accused of not filing a return for 1925 when, the government charges, he had an income of $52,777 and should have paid a tax of $5,600.

Dr. Jacob A. Ruben, of the Jenkins Arcade, was indicted on five counts for alleged evasion of $11,609 for taxes from 1925 to 1930.

INCOMES CITED

The first count of Nicola's indictment charged that in 1928 he amassed a gross income of $216,983, but made a return on only $106,258. The government claims that $26,394 is due on this return.

The second count charges evasion in Nicola's report of his consolidated net income from the Point Improvement Company, the Nicola Land Company, Nicola Brothers Company and the Schenley Theater Company in 1929. The government charges the Point Improvement Company gave an income of $53,000 and that Nicola owes $5,874 as a result. Nicola's return claimed the company operated with a loss of $107.62 that year.

PLEDGES PAYMENT

Nicola, questioned about the indictment, said:

"I know nothing about it. All of our returns have been prepared and approved by our attorney. Any just claims of the federal government, if presented in an orderly manner, will be paid, and would have been paid in this instance if it had been presented before."

Harry Halpern, of Altoona, branded by the government as slot machine and punch board operator, was indicted on three counts of perjury and three of evading income tax. He is accused of concealing an income of $17,000 in 1928, $25,000 in 1929 and $17,000 in 1930 from "slot machine, punchboard and real estate" deals.

The indictments followed inspection of the returns by James L. Pearce, chief investigator here for the Department of Internal Revenue.

2 Scottdale Bankers Indicted Over Sum Missing in 'Holdup'

Pair Accused of Using Cash to Play Market

Two officials of the Broadway National Bank of Scottdale were indicted by the federal grand jury today on charges of embezzling $20,442 of the bank's funds, the exact sum reported stolen in a mysterious holdup and robbery of the institution nearly a year ago.

They are Thomas D. Byrne, cashier and teller, and Frank F. Byrne, bookkeeper and director, named in 12 counts which charge that the money mentioned in the indictment was used in stock speculations.

The indictments set forth that an investigation by witnesses who appeared before the grand jury, presumably Department of Justice agents, had revealed that the accused officials had, at various times, misapplied and embezzled specified sums. A check had traced expenditures of these sums in the stock market, the indictments averred.

The reported holdup of the bank, last December 29, proved a puzzler to state police and Scottdale authorities.

Scottdale police declared they had not been notified of the supposed robbery and that the first intimation they had was when state troopers, summoned to the bank by telephone, drew up in front of two night patrolmen near the bank and inquired where the holdup had taken place.

At the time, Cashier Thomas D. Byrne was said to have told police he was preparing to do night work on the books when masked robbers, who had entered through a side door, covered him with guns, bound his wrists and ankles with cord from Christmas decorations, and covered him with canvas.

While the cashier lay helpless, he reported, the bandits helped themselves from the vault. A bag containing gold, silver and bills was overlooked, he said.

Frank F. Byrne was one of the bank employes who was to have aided the cashier in laboring at the books, according to the story told, but was not present when the reported holdup occurred. A search of the district revealed no trace of the robbers, police said.

Kreisler Loses Race to Side of Dying Dog

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(INS.)—Fritz Kreisler lost a race with death today.

Rex, his fox-terrier companion here and abroad, died of heart disease before the musician arrived from Detroit. Kreisler decided on the detour instead of going directly to Montreal for a concert when his wife telephoned him Rex was "a very sick dog." Mrs. Kreisler said:

"Although Rex never was able to go to bed without a doll, he was not a namby-pamby dog, but a very sporty one."

SOCIETY YOUTH HELD IN KILLING

GIRL ABSENT AS INQUEST BARES FEUD

Friend Pictures Slain Youth As Victim of Attack by Allen; Father Collapses

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Nov. 13.—Edward H. B. Allen, young society man, today was held responsible by a Coroner's jury for the killing of Francis A. Donaldson III, also well known in society circles, last Monday night in the Allen apartment in a hotel near Philadelphia.

The jury directed Allen be held for action by the grand jury after hearing testimony that Donaldson was attacked and beaten by the slayer before he struck back prior to being shot to death.

The testimony was given by Albert G. H. Lucas, friend of Donaldson, who accompanied him to the Allen apartment in the Green Hill Farms Hotel and was the only eye-witness of the shooting. Lucas said that it was at his suggestion that he and Donwent to the Allen apartment in an effort to have Horace Allen, the aldson went to the Allen apartment in an effort to have Horace Allen, the father, take back his daughter, Rose E. W. Allen, after she had been ordered out of the home by the younger Allen.

NOT AT INQUEST

The 23-year-old society man, who has admitted shooting Donaldson after driving five miles to procure a shotgun, did not attend the inquest. Neither did Rose, his 18-year-old sister, whose love affair with Donaldson and betrayal was the underlying cause of the killing, according to her father. The elder Allen, who suffered a collapse this morning, also was absent.

The pretty debutante, torn with emotion and confronted with the task of choosing between the living and the dead, thus escaped, temporarily, at least, the "Coquette" role of a character out of a play.

That will come, however, when her brother goes on trial and she must decide whether to defend

Mrs. Benjamin Thaw, Sr., 70, wife of the Pittsburgh banker and mother of Col. William Thaw, World War ace, died early today in Paris, according to a cablegram received here by Col. Thaw, of Morewood place.

Mrs. Thaw's death was not unexpected. She has been in ill health for more than a year.

At her bedside were her son, Benjamin Thaw, Jr., first secretary at the United States embassy in London; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Stephen Thaw, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Slade, her son-in-law and daughter.

Mrs. Thaw has been dividing her residence between Paris and Pittsburgh for the past several years.

Mrs. Thaw was born in Cedar Rapids, Ia., and was a member of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church.

She leaves her husband and three children, Col. Thaw, formerly of the Lafayette Escadrille in France; Benjamin Thaw, Jr., and Mrs. Lawrence Slade, both of London. Her youngest son, Blair, was killed while serving in the American Aviation Corps on the French front in August, 1918.

Although funeral arrangements are incomplete, the body will be brought to Pittsburgh for burial.

Harvard Bans Ted Husing For Razzing Players

Ted Husing, chief sports announcer of the Columbia Radio Broadcasting system, breezed into Pittsburgh today to complete plans for describing the Pitt-Army game at Pitt Stadium tomorrow to Columbia listeners.

A short time later came word from Cambridge, Mass., that Husing had been banned from further broadcasts from Harvard's stadium for telling the "stay-at-homes" that Capt. Barry Wood's play during the Dartmouth game was "putrid."

At Pitt Stadium, unaware of the action of Harvard's Athletic Director, William J. (Bill) Bingham, Husing was busy completing last-minute details for the broadcast. He was informed by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Said Husing:

"That's unfortunate."

He declined further comment until he had conferred with his New York office.

Bingham, in announcing the ban, said:

"No announcer is going to come to Harvard Stadium and characterize a player or a play as putrid. The players are only boys. A radio announcer is nothing but a reporter. He is not an editorial writer. He should confine his work to reporting the game. Nobody is interested in his opinions."

LEADERS TALK PEACE BUT PREPARE FOR WAR IN CONGRESS

GARNER SOUNDS DEMOCRATIC BATTLE CRY

Party Will Not Bow to All Hoover Plans, He Says: To Back Own Policies

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Congressional leaders are talking peace but preparing for war.

Behind the barrage of statements concerning political truces, adjournment of politics, bi-partisan co-operation for the good of the country, and all that, this fact stood out today crystal clear.

The Democrats are in the saddle in the House for the first time in 13 years; they have at least one foot in the Senate stirrup, and they are preparing to ride the horse wherever and whenever possible.

TRUCE TALK FADES

Most of the loose talk about a political truce and a legislative armistice between the two parties disappeared today in the wake of a vigorous statement by Representative Jack Garner, the Democratic speaker-to-be. It followed a series of Democratic conferences.

While asserting that the Democrats will not oppose administration proposals for selfish partisan purposes, Garner at the same time made it clear that neither are the Democrats going to vote for measures merely because they emanate from the White House.

Garner said:

"We have no reason to assume the infallibility of the administration. Indeed, the experience of the past two years pretty clearly demonstrates that no such assumption is possible.

BACK OWN PLANS

"It is not inconceivable that when the President offers a recommendation to accomplish a given result, such as the encouragement of business, the Democrats may have their own and what they consider a better process for bringing this about, in which case obviously our party congressmen will do everything in their power to substitute their own process for the one suggested.

"But we will not take the position—for which, incidentally, we have ample Republican precedent—that because a proposal emanates from the White House it is thereby automatically damned. Nor will we accept the hypothesis that because of such origin it is automatically sanctified."

A MATTER OF ALIBIS -:- By Quin Hall

PINCHOT STIRS G. O. P. FEUD ON RELIEF

Action in Asking Mellon Loan Increases Rift In Republicans' Ranks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—An issue is rising between President Hoover and a wing of the Republican party in Congress over whether the federal government is to make a direct contribution for unemployment relief in the form of food, clothing and shelter.

Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, who is one of several possible Republican presidential candidates mentioned by members of the Western Republican independents, brought the issue forward here yesterday.

He called upon Andrew W. Mellon, one of Pennsylvania's wealthiest citizens and Mr. Hoover's master of the Treasury, asking him for $1,000,000 for a state unemployment fund to be repaid later from the Pennsylvania state treasury. He did not get it.

CONSULTS NORRIS

The Pennsylvania governor then proceeded to Capitol Hill and consulted with Senator Norris, of Nebraska, a leader of the Republican independents. Norris has agreed that the federal government should make a contribution to relief, although he dislikes the principle and prefers to give jobs instead of charity.

Mr. Hoover has opposed direct federal relief as a form of the dole. Meanwhile, he is exerting every influence to raise by private subscriptions over the nation sufficient funds to meet all needs of direct relief during the winter. That campaign does not end until Thanksgiving Day. Until the results are known he is making no other plans. Incidentally, advocates of federal aid are also hopefully watching the efforts of the President's campaign, but are at the same time privately laying their own plans.

Should this issue be drawn in Congress, it will find Senators Borah, of Idaho; LaFollette, of Wisconsin, and Norris in opposition to the President. All are among the candidates mentioned as his possible foes in the presidential race next year.

The Democratic attitude on this question is undefined. Whether the party is any more united on it than the Republicans is problematical.

Gov. Pinchot did not state the reasons Secretary Mellon gave for not donating the $1,000,000. Mr. Mellon was apparently willing to let the Governor's statement of the visit do the speaking. He declined to comment.

TORTURE GIRL'S SISTER TELLS OF SUFFERING

Declares Brother and Self Were Abused for 8 Years, Prisoners of Stepmother

By MARGARET LANE
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Louise Riley, the "bat-baby's" elder sister, revealed today for the first time the full story of the cruelty which she said she, her brother Francis, and her baby sister, Edith, suffered at the hands of their father and stepmother for eight nightmare years.

The story of little Edith Riley, her body shrunk and her mind darkened by four years' alleged abuse and starvation in a dark and airless cupboard, has horrified the whole country. What has not been revealed is the whole tale of childish suffering that the brother and two sisters say they survived, ever since their father, Harry Riley, married a second time and the three children were taken from their grandmother's care.

EIGHT YEARS' MISERY

Louise, a frail girl of 20, who looks much younger, described their eight years' misery in an exclusive interview with International News Service. She said:

"Edith wasn't the only one who suffered, though being quite a baby and helpless, she could stand up for herself even less than we could. We were all mortally afraid of our stepmother. Even when I saw Edith beaten and shut in the cellar or the cupboard, I was afraid to speak. She threatened she would 'fix' me if I told. I have seen her take the child by the throat in a rage and throttle her until her tongue hung out. Sometimes she beat her head against the wall until it bled, but Edith rarely cried. Mother was terrible when she was drunk.

"Once or twice I spoke to my father about Edith, but he never said anything more than 'Shut up.' He has lost all his spirit since he married her. He is just about as afraid of her as we are, and he hardly ever speaks. He never had any affection for Edith or me. The only one he took any notice of was Francis.

MYSTERY ROOM

"Edith was supposed to have a room on the second floor, but after the first four years our stepmother let the room, and we did not know where Edith slept. We supposed she slept in our stepmother's room, where there were two single beds. But I found out that that was not true when I had been allowed to have a bath one night, and it was fairly late. There was no light upstairs, so I went down to my stepmother's room for a candle. I saw her in one bed and her own son, Billy, in the other. Edith was nowhere to be seen, and there was nowhere else for her to sleep. I found out later that she was in the closet off our stepmother's bedroom. She had no bed. I had a made-up bed in the dining room downstairs. It was terribly cold in the winter and I used to lie awake because we rarely had enough to eat.

"Of course I know times were often hard. My father was not always in regular work, but what money he had was spent on liquor and cigarets and the 'number game.' She often used to send me down to a shop to place betting money. She would always buy a pack of cigarets before she would buy food for us children.

NEVER CLEAN

"We were never very clean. It got to worry me because my skin was in such a state. I was 20, and had less liberty than a 5-year-old child. Sometimes I used to feel there couldn't be a God, when he could allow such things to be.

"I have never been able to guess why our stepmother did all these things, unless for spite. I think she is a bit mad, and then she is a heavy drinker, too. She never knew our own mother, but I have heard her call her bad names. Once I stood up to her over it, but she only shouted at me. She never cared what language she used.

"Before we went to her Edith was a normal child. I remember her perfectly then. The fact that she is out of her mind now is not so strange as that Francis and I are still sane."

ARMY ARRIVES FOR PITT CLASH

have spurious tickets in their possession, Harrison said.

"We have received reports today that ticket speculators are plying their wares in the downtown section and have been asked if these tickets are genuine. We do not know whether or not they are, but our advice to the public is to buy direct from the authorized agencies if they want to be certain.

"Tickets will be available at all these agencies until noon and from 9 a. m. at the Stadium booths. The Stadium gates will be open at noon."

TEAM WELCOMED

An early morning welcome was extended to the Army eleven which reached the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Station this morning, but Pittsburgh will roar its real welcome tomorrow when the Cadet Corps snapping to attention, swings down Grant street to the tune of martial music past the City-County Building, where they will be reviewed by Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, acting as representative of President Hoover; Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of West Point; Mayor Charles H. Kline and his cabinet, members of City Council, Chancellor John G. Bowman of Pitt, and James Francis Burke.

Gov. Pinchot is coming for the football game, but will not reach Pittsburgh in time for the review.

FETES ARRANGED

The parade is scheduled to start from the P. & L. E. station at 9:30 o'clock, 30 minutes after the arrival of the four special trains from West Point. It will move across the Smithfield Street Bridge, over Water street to Grant street, disbanding when the head of the parade reaches Liberty avenue. Following the parade and review, the cadets will be given "liberty" until 11:45 a. m. when they will be entertained at Syria Mosque for luncheon.

At 1:15, the Cadet Corps will leave Syria Mosque and march to Pitt Stadium where they will drill until game time. At 6 p. m. they will be guests of the University of Pittsburgh at a military ball in the William Penn Hotel.

At 12:15 a. m. Sunday their day finished—the Cadets will form in line on Grant street in front of the William Penn Hotel and march to the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie station to begin their return to West Point.

Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh today detailed 450 men to handle the expected crowds in the downtown, Oakland and Pitt Stadium areas tomorrow. The number sets a new record, according to Supt. Walsh. The police will be in charge of Assistant Supt. of Police B. R. Marshall.

POWERS WAITS ARRAIGNMENT

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 13.—(INS.)—"Bluebeard" Harry F. Powers awaited his first public appearance, either today or tomorrow, when he will be arraigned for the murder of two women and three children.

The self-confessed slayer read detective stories and carefully groomed himself for his role.

An ancient state statute indicated that the matrimonial bureau racketeer would not come to trial for three weeks or more. The statute provides that whenever the site of the court is changed at least 20 days public notice must be given. Due to the change from the local courthouse to the local opera house for the impending trial, this provision applies.

KERR TO DEMAND BONDS IN BANKS

City Controller James P. Kerr and Treasurer Richard W. Thompson today were to visit all closed banks holding city deposits in an effort to obtain bonds posted as security.

Controller Kerr several weeks ago, on advice of the city solicitor, made a demand for the bonds but was refused.

If successful in getting possession of the securities, the Controller indicated he would hold them for an advance in the bond market and that no sacrifice would be imposed on the banks by placing them on the market at present.

LAVAL, GERMAN DISCUSS DEBTS

PARIS, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Premier Laval conferred again today with Dr. Leopold Von Hoesch, the German ambassador, regarding the procedure of opening discussion of the reparations and debts problem. LONDON, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader in the House of Commons, declared in the House today that Germany's commercial obligations must not be jeopardized by political debts.

He made his assertion during general debate concerning the prospects for international action beginning with an agreement between France and Germany which would alleviate the world's financial troubles.

SPEAKERSHIP SPLITS G. O. P.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—The drive for the speakership nomination has split House Republicans in twain, including the large Pennsylvania delegation which otherwise might hold the decision in its hands.

So keen is the contest being waged by friends of Representatives Tilson, of Connecticut, and Snell, of New York, that neither may have any assurance of victory until after the balloting in the Republican caucus on November 30.

Tilson's backers claim the support of approximately half the membership. Snell's advocates assert his nomination is assured. Both claim a majority of the Pennsylvania delegation, which comprises the largest Republican state group in the House. It will decide on November 30 whether to throw its strength solidly to one of the candidates, but it may be that the delegation itself will split, leaving the decision to be written in the Republican caucus.

Labor's Amendment To King's Talk Fails

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—The Labor Party amendment to the King's speech opening Parliament was beaten in the House of Commons today by 422 to 38.

It expressed regret that the government had failed to formulate any policy for co-ordinating the country's principal industries, including banking and agriculture, under a system of state ownership or control, and that the speech from the throne had made no mention of "unjust economies imposed upon the unemployed."

CAPITAL READY TO HAIL GRANDI

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—The capital has completed its preparations for a welcome to Foreign Minister Grandi, of Italy.

Under Secretary Castle, of the State Department, will go to New York Monday and extend to the Italian statesman the official welcome of President Hoover and the American government. The Chief Executive personally will welcome the minister when he calls at the White House.

That call will be the forerunner of informal personal talks the two will have on every phase of Italian-American relations and world problems generally.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Handbills bearing a picture of Italian Foreign Minister Dino Grandi and the signature of "The Committee for Anti-Fascist Protest" were distributed today calling for a meeting Sunday to protest the reception of Grandi in this country.

COMMANDER LOUIS GULLIVER, U. S. N., EXPLAINING TO PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER HOW ANCIENT GUNS WERE FIRED

'Rah! Rah! Rah! Stanford,' Hoover Cries in Reunion

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(Universal.)—"Rah! Rah! Rah! Stanford."

President Hoover and his teammates of Stanford of 1894 here for a reunion dinner in the White House last night, cheered their Alma Mater and sang the songs that swept them to a championship when college football was young on the Coast.

"Kick a Goal Kennedy," they sang as they went through a signal drill on the south grounds of the White House and Martin Kennedy, staid lawyer of Denver, team captain, "kicked a goal" for the talkies.

In their first formation President Hoover, who was financial manager of the team, was given the ball, although he never played the game. Later he stepped out of the formation and let his old teammates play.

The President looked on with his face aglow. Mrs. Hoover, also of the same class, watched from the south portico.

Today the mighty team of 1894 learned that a matter of 37 years makes a lot of difference in physical condition. They got tangled this morning in the daily medicine ball game at the White House. Most of the bone crushers of the gay nineties, it seemed, were not quite prepared.

The President was only financial manager of the team that cleaned up the West Coast back in the palmy days, but he was cock of the walk this morning. For nearly three years now, he has been playing "bull in the ring" and volley ball with a six pound medicine ball daily. His form showed up rather plainly against some of his unconditioned guests.

Showers of Stars Visible Tonight If Sky Is Clear

Pittsburghers, along with Pennsylvanians in general, will be witnesses tonight and tomorrow night to displays of nature's choicest fireworks, the Leonids.

Any time after midnight, either night, the November Meteoric Shower, as the scientists dub it, will be plainly visible to unaided eyes, a clear sky permitting.

At the Allegheny Observatory it was said the showers of shooting stars, originating from the constellation Leo, will be visible in any part of the sky. Most of the meteors are bunched in clusters radiating in all directions and resembling a spreading swarm of bees.

The displays are due to the earth, making its way around the sun, crossing the orbit of Leo.

POLICE ACCUSED IN MOB FLOGGING OF SUSPECTED REDS

Unknown Number Kidnaped And Beaten After March By Jobless in Michigan

International News Service.

PONTIAC, Mich., Nov. 13.—Local police this afternoon were accused of having instigated and participated in last night's reign of terrorism when "night riders" kidnaped an unknown number of men and women from their homes and flogged them with horsewhips.

Clarence Sherman, jobless father of six children and one of those who was beaten, walked into police headquarters and charged:

"I know the police did it. We all know you did it."

Sherman and five other known victims of the lash were those who protested recently because they were clubbed by police when they joined a hunger march, October 15, which ended in a near riot.

It was ascertained this afternoon that some of the "night riders" wore police uniforms. It was impossible to learn whether they were the official suits of patrolmen or "faked" garments.

In taking the victims to an isolated field last night and beating them in a light-flooded arena formed by a ring of automobiles, the self-constituted vigilantes charged their victims were Communist sympathizers.

ASSAILANTS HOODED

Walter Hardin, Sherman and Leo Fortin had returned to their homes early today bearing marks of beatings. Hardin said he heard a woman screaming nearby as his captors beat him with the butt of a pistol. He said he would recognize his assailants, although they were hooded.

Mike Stykoff, 38, also was abducted as he was leaving a meeting, but said he was released without mistreatment when he convinced his kidnapers he was not a Communist.

Assurance was given that policemen not on duty last night would be questioned. Sherman said:

"The men wore police raincoats, and one of them poked a gun in my ribs when they took me from my home. We drove awhile and then stopped in a circle of other cars.

"Other men came up to the car and one of them said: 'We'll have to wait a while. We haven't the scaffold ready yet.'

BEARS MEN SHRIEK

"I could hear other men shriek as the lash cracked over their backs, and finally it was my turn. They took my shoes off and dragged me from the car to the middle of the circle, in the glare of headlights.

"One of the men—I know who he was—asked me if I was a Communist. I told him I wasn't.

"'We're going to teach you Reds something,' they shouted, and someone cracked me with a blacksnake whip."

PET DOGS DOING DEATH WATCH FOR ACTRESS

Myra St. Maur, Ex-Star Of Broadway, Found Dead In Squalid Apartment

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP.) Watched over by her 11 pet dogs, Myra St. Maur, 65, Broadway actress of a generation ago, was found dead by neighbors last night in a squalid Second avenue flat.

Known to a few persons in the vicinity as Mrs. Myra Stephens, she had lived at the address over a butcher's shop, for about two years. Her only excursions from the premises had been infrequent and brief taxicab rides to Times Square and home again, for a glimpse of the bright lights among which her own name once twinkled.

She drove up in a taxi with her dogs, neighbors said, and took the flat, explaining that her rent would be guaranteed by various theatrical charities.

The dogs never were seen again, as Mrs. Stephens, who claimed her husband was a celebrated criminal lawyer, had no callers.

Last night the whimperings of the animals attracted attention, and a policeman forced entry into the home. Her body was taken to the city morgue and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals took charge of the dogs.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—More than a dozen cats, many of them former strays rescued from the alleys, will have a brownstone house in North Philadelphia as their exclusive and permanent home.

Miss Emma D. Miller, of New York, only surviving relative of Mrs. Annie Miller, wealthy recluse, who died after living for years alone with the cats, made known plans today to maintain her mother's mansion for the sole purpose of making the felines comfortable in their old age.

MARRIAGE NEAR FOR CONNIE, MARQUIS

Actress, Gloria's Ex-Mate Get License; Ceremony May Be Delayed 10 Days

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 12.—The motion picture colony was looking forward today to the marriage of Constance Bennett to Marquis Henri de la Falaise, Gloria Swanson's former husband.

Together they appeared at the Los Angeles License Bureau late yesterday and took out a three-day notice of intention to wed. Miss Bennett explained:

"But it may be 10 days or more before we can be married."

The famous motion picture actress said she plans on completing a motion picture she is working before the ceremony. She said:

"Then we want to take a real honeymoon."

MARQUIS IS 33

The marquis, a native of France, gave his age as 33 and his full name as "Henri James Lehailly de la Falaise de la Coudraye."

The way for the marriage was cleared last Monday when Gloria Swanson obtained her final divorce decree. Immediately after divorcing the Marquis, Miss Swanson re-married Michael Farmer, Irish sportsman, in Yuma, Ariz. She had first married Farmer last August 16, almost three months before she obtained her final decree, and the second ceremony was performed to avoid any legal complications that might have followed the first marriage.

CAMERA-SHY

Ordinarily anything but camera shy, Miss Bennett fled from the County Clerk's office when newspaper photographers attempted to take her picture. She finally placed her signature on the legal papers and managed to keep her face fairly well hidden.

The marriage to the marquis will be the third for Miss Bennett. In 1929 she was divorced in France from Philip Norton Plant, of Long Island, N. Y. Her previous marriage to Chester H. Moorehead, University of Virginia student, 10 years ago, was annulled.

BANKER TOO ILL FOR ARREST

Ansley D. Smith, former secretary-treasurer of the closed Citizens Trust Company, of Bellevue, was reported in a state of collapse today by Constable W. J. Duncan, who went to Smith's home, 522 Teece avenue, to serve a warrant charging embezzlement of $12,229.74 of the bank's funds.

Constable Duncan said he was informed that Smith was under care of a physician and two nurses, and that while he leaves the house occasionally for auto rides, his condition has been bad for two weeks.

The constable also asserted that a representative of Smith had arranged to post $20,000 bail to insure Smith's appearance before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan for a hearing. Information against the former banker was made yesterday by George F. Taylor, Jr., special deputy secretary of banking.

Friday, 13th, Brings Good and Bad Luck

Boy Gets Pony Back, Woman Finds Car Minus Wheels

Friday the thirteenth came today with misfortune for some and good luck for others. It is the third time this year that Friday the thirteenth has rolled around.

Bessie

The members of the Board of Pittsburgh Registration Commissioners were among the fortunate ones. The grand jury on the eve of the thirteenth ignored 13 charges of conspiracy filed against the Commissioners. The charges had been filed by 13 residents of the North Side whose names had been stricken from the Commissioners' books.

However, all was not so fortunate for Mrs. F. Poviter, of 1225 West North avenue, North Side. She stepped into her back yard and discovered the thirteenth was her unlucky day. She had left her automobile in the yard and, during the night, thieves jacked up the car and removed the two rear wheels.

Ellen Jane Coolahan, of 1731 Realty avenue, Beechview, however, is one youngster who doesn't believe in the jinx. Her thirteenth birthday is today and she is entertaining a party of 13 in celebration.

The jinx went into reverse for Arnold Steinman, 5, of Sebring avenue, Beechview. Arnold's pony, Bessie, a five-year-old Shetland, was stolen last night. Arnold cried himself to sleep. He awoke this morning to find that the pony had been found. An airedale dog, Dan, a companion of Bessie, was poisoned six weeks ago.

Lucky Ring No. 13, a local magicians' organization, was scheduled to hold its anniversary dinner tonight in the Food Craft Shops, 319 Fifth avenue.

BRANDEIS, 75, FELICITATED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—(INS.)—Associate Justice Louis Dembitz Brandeis, of the Supreme Court, today quietly observed his seventy-fifth birthday, but messages from far and wide testified to the desire of hundreds of friends to pay their respects.

Beyond receiving the personal congratulations of his associates on the bench and close friends, there was little in the Justice's day to indicate that he had passed another milestone.

Although scores of organizations would have been glad to tender the distinguished jurist a testimonial banquet, he expected to work as usual and to be with his family in their apartment home.

Justice Brandeis' birthday brought the average age of the nine members of the nation's high tribunal to 69 years. Justice Brandeis ranks next to Justice Holmes, 90-year-old member of the court, in point of age.

Sculptor Witnesses Ericsson Dedication

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—The "Fountain of the Tritons," executed by Carl Milles and given to the city of Chicago by 12 Swedish-American citizens in honor of the inventor John Ericsson, was dedicated at the Art Institute last night with the famous sculptor a guest at the exercises.

Four giant bronze figures make up the fountain group—figures which critics described as "finely representative of the power and artistic imagination of the man who made them."

HAIL SURVIVORS FROM ARCTIC

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—A frail, sad-faced woman and a bright-eyed smiling girl formed a strong contrast waiting at the quay today when the steamer Hansegede arrived with the survivors of the Wegener Greenland expedition and personnel of the Watkins exploration party.

The woman was the widow of Alfred Wegener, who perished last winter in the icy wastes here. She came to greet her brother-in-law, Kurt Wegener.

The girl was Pamela, sister of the British leader, Dr. H. G. Watkins.

Many notables were at the quay to offer welcome on behalf of Denmark. The group included Premier Stauning, who praised the scientific results of the expedition, paying a tribute to Alfred Wegener.

MACAFEE BOOKS AUCTIONED

Rare old volumes, representing a lifetime collection of William H. MacAfee, 6500 Beacon street, chairman of the board of managers, Juvenile Detention Home, were auctioned off in New York yesterday for $21,631.

A first edition of Sir Walter Scott's "Waverly," in the original binding and uncut, was bid in at $900 by Gabriel Wells, dealer. He also paid $520 for Byron's original "Don Juan." Another dealer purchased Emerson's presentation copy of his "Essays" for $750. Byron's "English Bards and Scotch Reviewers" brought $473.

Other rare volumes which went under the hammer, some of them purchased in London, were Boswell's "Life of Johnson," a four-folio edition of Shakespeare; Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice" and Emily Bronte's "Jane Eyre."

MacAfee, investment broker, has been at Battle Creek, Mich., with his daughter, Jane, for seven weeks. He is expected to return in two weeks, it was said at his home.

Murder Fear Seen In Woman's Suicide

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 13.—(INS.)—Fear of being "put on the spot" by gangland hoodlums, caused Mrs. Della Christy, attractive 30-year-old matron and alleged "stool-pigeon" for the federal prohibition department, to take her life in a downtown hotel here Wednesday night, authorities intimated today.

Only a few minutes before Mrs. Christy shot herself with a rifle, it was learned, she revealed to Sylvan R. White, special agent of the United States Department of Justice, that her life had been threatened.

Penna. Justice Punishes Public Kissing of Bride

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Russell Colburn, Cincinnati contractor, returned today from his honeymoon with the advice to newlyweds to stay away from Pennsylvania and particularly West Fayetteville, where, he said, he was fined $12.50 when he kissed his bride.

Colburn said he was driving through West Fayetteville on his honeymoon, when he placed his arm around the bride and kissed her, thinking there was nothing wrong about a fellow embracing his wife. But a county patrolman on motorcycle pulled up. Colburn said he asked the officer if the latter ever had been on a honeymoon of his own.

The officer, he asserted, ruled the question constituted resisting an officer and arrested him for reckless driving.

After being fined, Colburn said he asked the village magistrate if Pennsylvania laws provided husbands should pay every time wives were kissed, and declared the magistrate threatened to jail him for the remark and forced him to retract the statement.

Von Luckner Asserts U. S. Could Checkmate Japan

A country that neglects its forces of defense is like the unprepared citizen who meets an armed holdup man, in the opinion of Count Felix Von Luckner, German sea raider of World War fame, who spoke last night at the banquet of the Pittsburgh Association of Manufacturers' Representatives.

Japan as a world menace in the light of present international difficulties makes the grizzled sea fighter laugh. He said:

"Japan is what you call clever—she will smile and promise many things, but will do as she wishes, because nobody will want war and tell her to stop. If America had its great Army and Navy all she would have to do would be to say to Japan, 'Stop it!' and Japan would behave.

"America must stick to Europe and the League of Nations, for without it they can do nothing."

The count, 64 years old, hale and hearty and as refreshing as the sea which is still his home, has a handclasp like the grip of a vice. His friends say that he can tear a telephone directory in half.

Asked about it, he replied grimly:

"In half—get me a telephone book. I'll tear it in six pieces for you."

And then, as an afterthought apropos war, he laughed as he turned away, remarking:

"Me, I love peace, but——"

Held for Murder After Coroner's Inquest; Girl Fails to Attend Hearing

EYE-WITNESS STORY

Lucas, intimate friend of the dead man, was the first to take the stand at today's inquest and tell the story of the shooting. He testified:

"I can't remember whether it was before or after dinner I received a telephone call from Rose Allen asking me to get in touch with Donaldson. 'What's the matter,' I asked. 'Oh, nothing,' she said. I got in touch with Donaldson for her, and forgot it. A little later Donaldson called me up and asked me to come down to meet him at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel."

GOES TO HOTEL

There he went to room 735, but in whose name that room was registered, Lucas did not know. Rose and Donaldson were there and three boys. So far as has been known previously, Rose carried her son from her home at Green Hill Farms, Lucas testified.

"Rose said, 'Edward told me to do as he said or get out.'"

Donaldson and Lucas drove to the Allen apartment house in separate cars. He continued his narration, moving restlessly on the witness stand:

"As I see the picture now as I walked into the room, Mr. Horace Allen was sitting at the far end of the room and Edward Allen was lying on the couch.

"Eddie jumped up and said: 'Get the hell out of here.'

"With that he made a pass at Skinny—I should say Mr. Donaldson. Francis let him have one in the mouth. Mr. Allen jumped from his chair. As he approached me, I held his arms from behind.

"I didn't know what was going to happen."

Francis and Eddie finally stopped. Eddie swore at both Francis and Lucas, telling them to get out, according to the witness.

CALLS FOR HELP

Continuing, Lucas testified that young Allen left the room and summoned hotel help to put Donaldson and Lucas out of the apartment. They refused to leave when asked by hotel employes and Eddie Allen said he would summon the police. Allen then left, presumably to carry out his threat to get the police.

While he was gone, Lucas said, Donaldson, the father and himself discussed the matter. Donaldson wanted to know why the daughter had been turned out of the apartment, to which the father replied that she was not turned out, but was visiting friends. They told Mr. Allen their mission was one of peace, Lucas explained.

"I said, 'Come on, Skinny, we might as well go.'"

As they left they saw Allen standing in the foyer just outside the apartment, Lucas went on:

"As I remember it, we never said a word. Allen had a gun in a carry position."

He indicated that Allen carried the gun with the stock under his armpit, the barrel pointing to the floor. The courtroom was hushed as he said:

"He then lifted the gun, and with the butt still at his elbow, said 'You didn't——' and with that fired one shot. As Donaldson fell I saw him plump to the floor and he turned, put his hat underneath his head, and never moved."

SUMMONS POLICE

When it was over, Lucas saw Allen gazing at him, and for his own protection, Lucas left the apartment to get help, he testified, and continued:

"It seemed like a hundred years before the police got there. It probably was five or six minutes."

Donaldson's last words with Lucas after the police arrived, were these:

"I can't breath, Luke."

"That's all right Skinny, bear up."

"Luke, are you with me?"

"Yes, old man, I'm always with you to the end."

"You're always with me to the end."

FAMILIES AT ODDS

In reply to questions by Coroner Huff, Lucas said there was some feeling between the Donaldson and Allen families, but he did not know the real cause.

"Were Rose Allen and Francis Donaldson deeply in love?"

"Yes, they were."

"Were they engaged?"

"Well, on the way out to the house that night, Francis told me that he loved Rose Allen and she had already told me that she loved him, but there was no formal announcement of their engagement, so far as I know."

Horace Allen, the father, has pictured his daughter as "a woman wronged" by Donaldson, whom he branded as a "rude, brutal and pugilistic young man." In public statements he charged his daughter was betrayed last August in Scranton and that his son had killed to avenge her honor.

To the latter charge, Francis A. Donaldson, Jr., father of the slain man, replied yesterday that the killing was a "brutal, premeditated murder," which "cannot be exculpated by the futile attempts of a badly advised father to save his son by hiding him behind the skirts of his daughter, whose character the father himself destroys."

Rose has passed a most troublous 24 hours since her father gave his amazing account of her affair with Donaldson. At first she did not know that he had revealed all, in a frantic effort to save Eddie, the son, from the electric chair.

PHYSICIAN FOR ROSE

When she learned that the world had been told of her betrayal, it was a shock. A physician was summoned yesterday afternoon to attend her. Rumors that she had left the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pearce, where her father also is staying, were circulated. But she still was there this morning, thinking, pondering, refusing to eat.

She learned of her sweetheart's funeral, and the hard hot tears of her grief caught in her throat. His body had been laid into the freshly-turned earth, without his sweetheart's presence at the grave. But secluded in the luxurious home of her society friends, Rose Allen still hesitated to forgive her family, upon whom she has laid the blame for Donaldson's death from the start.

Although, she failed to attend the funeral she sent a huge floral piece bearing her card.

Young Donaldson was buried in West Laurel Hill Cemetery late yesterday. The newly made grave is about 50 feet from the resting place of Robert Mantell, famous Shakespearean actor.

Young Allen heard the news of the outcome of today's inquest quietly. It was waht he expected. He is not allowed to see anyone but his father, his brother, William, and his attorney.

RECEIVES LETTERS

He received two letters after breakfast. One was from his father. He was visited last night by John R. K. Scott, his attorney, who, incidentally, is one of the most colorful figures in the real-life drama. A prominent criminal lawyer, he has apparently a flair for the sentimental, the romantic. He is known throughout Philadelphia for his habit of coming to work several days in a black and yellow four-ho, drawn by four white horses.

He keeps his horses in a stable in Cynwyd, nine miles from his Broad street office. When the spirit moves him, he drives by automobile from Glenhardie Farms, in Montgomery County, to Cynwyd, where he dons a dove gray top hat, a stock and a gray coat with a flower in its buttonhole and rides down the Fairmount Parkway mounted on the box. His coachman, seated behind, raises a trumpet every two or three blocks to announce stridently the approach of the eccentric lawyer.

Scott drove out to Norristown last night, prosaically enough, however, to visit young Allen in his cell.

ALONE IN CELL

The boy had passed what amounted to his first real prison day. Although he is the only prisoner who has a cell to himself, the warden declared he will have a cellmate as soon as another prisoner arrives. He was marched out into the small exercise yard with 30 other men at 7:30 in the morning, and went through setting-up maneuvers.

Eddie remains stolidly quiet, a pale and dignified youth whose faintly aloof air is a defense against a betrayal of his emotions. He has the sensitive features of an idealist, and such he was said to have been. He was no modern young man who admired gay, reckless young women and attended parties where there was dancing and drinking all night long.

He is supposed to have placed his sister on a pedestal, looked up to her, thought her an ideal woman. That was why her behavior with young Donaldson hit him hard.

PANTAGES' CRY OF 'FRAMEUP' UNDER FIRE

Former Employes Testify Theater Man Told Them to Hide Attack Case Evidence

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—A direct assault on Alexander Pantages' claim of "frameup" in charges that he attacked a young girl dancer here in 1929 was delivered by the prosecution yesterday at the theater magnate's second trial.

Midway in defense attempts to show that the District Attorney's office brought undue influence to bear on witnesses, the prosecution placed two of Pantages' former employes on the stand. They testified Pantages sought to induce them to "cover up" evidence after Eunice Pringle, the dancer, had fled screaming from the offices of his downtown theater building.

GIRL USHER CALLED

Roy Keen, former assistant manager of the theater, declared Pantages told him to place a desk in the small room where the asserted attack occurred, "to make it look more like an office."

Tillie Russe, former usher in the theater, testified Pantages instructed her to tell the District Attorney she saw Miss Pringle leave a seat in the theater alone and that she was not escorted to the office by Pantages, as the prosecution claims.

URGED TO TELL TRUTH

Under cross-examination, Keen said:

"Pantages told me a day or two after the affair to tell the truth when I went to the District Attorney's office. He said, 'There is no one who has been hurt, there is nothing to worry about. I was framed, that's all.'"

Policeman Albert L. Courtney, who responded to Miss Pringle's cries, testified she led him into the building, pointed at Pantages and said:

"That's the brute."

Whereupon, the officer said, Pantages declared:

"It's all a frameup. She's been trying to blackmail me."

Courtney said Pantages asked him:

"Can't you help me keep it quiet and out of the newspapers?"

Prisoners 'Strike' In Kennebec Jail

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 13.—(INS.)—A "strike" of prisoners at Kennebec County jail and the rush to the institution of a large group of state highway police and deputy sheriffs today led to reports of rioting among the 56 inmates.

However, it was finally officially announced by Sheriff Willis P. Crosby that the "strike" had ended and that there had been no attempt at a jail delivery.

Engineer's Widow Gets Blast Award

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(INS.)—A verdict of $30,000 damages was awarded today to Mrs. Lucy Lynch, of Scranton, Pa., widow of John Lynch, former engineer of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Hudson Railroad, by a jury in Federal Court, Brooklyn. Lynch was killed July 22, 1930, when the boiler in his locomotive exploded.

Mrs. Lynch sued the road for $100,000.

CHINESE ARMY HURLS BACK JAPANESE

Tokio Troops Routed in Clash at Nonni Bridge; Many Casualties Reported sharply, taking several of their airplanes.

The Communist troops marching from the North swept into the highway near Tsitsihar, the report said, and attacked with sweeping machine gun fire demoralizing the Japanese forces in the Nonni region and forcing them to retreat several miles behind the bridge head.

The Dairen News, a Japanese paper published at Dairen, Manchuria, a few days ago said Gen. Mah Chan-Shan visited Blagoveschensk and returned for help from the Soviet government there, returning accompanied by Communist officers and a guard of 600 Communist troops.

It followed this up by saying in its next issue that an entire eastern Communist brigade was established on the Nonni front and that the Chinese authorities had agreed to the establishment of a Soviet policy in the zone of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

The agreement, it was said, called for the deportation of White Russians and the recognition of Communist unions in Harbin.

Hsuan Nears Mukden To Be Forced Onto Throne

(Universal Service)

PEIPING, China, Nov. 13.—Hsuan Tung, China's deposed "boy emperor," is aboard a Japanese warship today, en route to Mukden, to be enthroned as Japan's puppet ruler of Manchuria against his will, according to reliable reports received through confidential channels from Tientsin.

The reports say Hsuan Tung, who is plain Mr. Henry Pu-Yi, citizen of the Chinese republic, has lived in Tientsin for years, was smuggled out of the Japanese concession there while Japanese agents fomented the week-end riots as a smoke screen.

The 25-year-old descendant of the "great and pure dynasty" that ruled China for 400 years, the confidential advices state, will be landed at the Japanese-controlled port of Dairen and rushed to Mukden to be installed as emperor of Manchuria before the League of Nations' Council convenes Monday.

Dawes Leaves for Parley; May Have Peace Plan

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(INS.)—Under orders from Secretary of State Stimson, United States Ambassador Charles G. Dawes left London today for Paris to be on hand during the League of Nations Council's resumed discussions of the Manchurian crisis, scheduled to begin Monday.

GENEVA, Nov. 13.—(INS.)—Growing conviction that a new "Dawes plan"—providing solution to the dangerous Sino-Japanese problem in Manchuria—rests in the pocket of America's ambassador to Great Britain, was expressed in League circles here today.

An unmitigated atmosphere of optimism prevailed with the departure of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes from London to Paris to be on hand during the League Council meeting which starts Monday. The hopeful attitude was enhanced by an extremely cordial letter from Baron Shidehara, Japanese foreign minister, welcoming appointment of a neutral commission to investigate the Manchurian situation.

LOCAL PRIESTS IN CHINA

M. J. Donovan, 80 retired steel worker of 215 Joyce terrace, Hazelwood, and his wife, 11 years his junior, today are closely studying the map of Manchuria, where the Japanese and Chinese are locked in battle. Their son, Gerard A. Donovan, 27, is one of the medical missionaries under the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America, working in the region, for whom an appeal for supplies has been sent to this country.

He is one of a group of 18 priests, two brothers and 12 sisters, near Mukden, headquarters of the Japanese commander and midway between Tientsin and Tsitsihar.

Another son, the Rev. Thomas R. Donovan, is 1,800 miles further south in China. A third son, Joseph S. Donovan, now in New York, served as a missionary in China for a number of years.

Another local missionary in the district is the Rev. Francis A. Bridge, of Midland, Pa.

ASSERTS CHINA CAN TRIUMPH WITHOUT WAR

Economic Boycott Would Ruin Japan, Editor from Peiping Tells Meeting Here

China does not have to go to war with Japan to defeat her, according to Grover Clark, former editor of the Peiping Leader, liberal newspaper of North China, who addressed the Foreign Policy Association on "Conflicting Interests in Manchuria" at a dinner in the Hotel Schenley last night. He said:

"All China has to do is put an economic boycott on Japanese goods. If Chinese markets are closed to Japan, and she cannot get coal, iron and food from China, she will be ruined soon."

JAPAN HOLDS KEY

They key to the situation lies in the conflict between the militarists and the civilians in Japan, he said, not in Manchuria, continuing:

"The militarists moved in September without consulting the government. Manchuria belongs to China, and while Japan has large economic interests there, the Chinese are indignant at Japan's militant attempt to force a settlement favorable to their interests."

All other nations should make it clear to Japan that if she continues to violate the League of Nations covenant and the Kellogg Pact she will forfeit completely the respect of the rest of the world, Clark believes. He said:

"An appeal should be made to Japan's national pride. Nations should carry out their proposal to withdraw their ambassadors unless Japan gets her troops back within the treaty areas of Manchuria. She would not like to be considered an international outlaw and would do almost anything to save her national pride from humiliation."

EDITOR AND EDUCATOR

Clark was editor of the Peiping Leader from 1921 until 1929. He speaks Chinese and was professor of English literature at the National University at Peiping. His family has been in the Far East for the past century as missionaries.

China is making progress, Clark believes. He concluded:

"In the last 10 years motor roads have been extended from 500 miles to 35,000 miles. In the last 20 years the sale of kerosene has increased 150 per cent and the sale of gasoline 300 per cent. China has no civil wars in the sense that we know them. Business and activities go on without interruption. They simply quarrel among themselves as did the feudal barons in medieval Europe. The present leaders, educated abroad since the Republican regime, will effect further changes."

Mate, Friend Held In Wife's Murder

WEWOKA, Okla., Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Charges of murder were filed yesterday against W. L. Scott and Ernest Tidwell in connection with the death of Scott's wife, whose battered body was found in an automobile abandoned on a railroad crossing near Sasakawa. Scott, a farmer, asserts he was at the home of Tidwell, a neighbor, at the time the killing is believed to have occurred last Sunday night. Both men are held in jail.

The Sale of Men's $50 and $65

Overcoats, Suits and Topcoats

SATURDAY, which is men's most convenient shopping day, will undoubtedly be the peak day of this sale which has temporarily turned the fine clothing market upside down.

Styles and qualities are counterparts in every respect of those in our regular stocks today, at $50 and $65. The overcoats are notably handsome qualities—Vicunas, Boucles, Fleeces, Camel's Hair, Meltons and Tweeds, in the best prevailing models. There are also hundreds of fine Suits in the choice fabrics and smart styles characteristic of top-price clothing!

The sale is the result of the liquidation, in mid-season, of the stock of our largest manufacturer of fine clothing, brought about by the death of the head of the business. The exceptional nature of the values cannot be too strongly emphasized!

CAPTAIN SAVED WITH 11, TELLS OF TRAGEDY

Five Drowned as Schooner Foundered, Master Radios; Plane Gave Drifters Hope

By JAMES A. RYAN

COLON, Panama, Nov. 13.—Carrying 12 survivors of the Costa Rican schooner Baden Baden, rescued after they drifted for four days in an open boat in the Caribbean Sea, the United States mine sweeper Swan was speeding this morning to the Coco Solo naval base.

Among the survivors rescued by the ship's captain, Hewitt Wade, a resident of Mobile, Ala., who suffered severe internal injuries when the schooner foundered, and Chief Engineer George Hadel, a German who had a badly injured knee. Other members of the crew were Costa Ricans.

FIVE MEN DROWNED

Five men were drowned when the ship sank, including Hans Lee and Adolf Schenk, the German owners, according to a radio message from Capt. Walter to the International News Service. Wade's explanation:

"They were drowned as we were trying to launch a lifeboat. I was injured by falling timbers as was the chief engineer.

"We foundered suddenly during a storm early on the afternoon of the ninth. When we took to the lifeboat we had no hope of ever reaching land but when an airplane flew over us on Monday our hopes were raised.

"We had again begun to despair when the American ship hove in sight.

"We had no food and our only water was squeezed from our clothing after it had been soaked by the rain."

All of the survivors were bathed, fed and put to bed aboard the Swan, receiving emergency medical attention pending their arrival at Coco Solo, scheduled today.

Built in Germany in 1920 by Anton Fleitner, the Baden-Baden was originally a fishing boat but was fitted with a Diesel motor in New York and had been operating in the coastal trade under Costa Rican registry.

HEAVY CARGO BLAMED

The vessel had been a high insurance risk and was regarded as seaworthy. The heavy cargo of salt which it was carrying from Rio Hacha, Colombia, to Colon was blamed, however, for the disaster.

Battered by heavy seas, the schooner became unmanageable in the heavy seas off the Colombian coast and when the cargo began to shift, hope of keeping the vessel afloat was abandoned.

The officers and crew had less than half an hour to leave the vessel before it sank and no food or water was taken in the lifeboat which put out from the doomed schooner.

EIGHT CANADIAN 'REDS' GUILTY

TORONTO, Ontario, Nov. 13.—(AP)—Eight members of the Canadian Communist party were convicted by a jury last night of being members of an unlawful association while as members of such an association and with being parties to a seditious conspiracy.

The eight men are Tim Buck, Tom Ewen, John Boychuk, Amos T. Hill, Malcolm L. Bruce, Samuel Coolen, Mathew Popovitch and Thomas Cacic. They had been on trial before Justice Wright since November 2.

HOOVER SEES NO LOSS TO NAVY IN FUND CUT

Assures Efficiency Despite $17,000,000 Slash; Total Not Third of Parity Figure

By WILLIAM C. MURPHY, JR.
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—President Hoover today assured the nation that the United States Navy will in no way lose in efficiency because its budget for the coming fiscal year will be about $17,000,000 less than for the present year.

Expressing gratification that Navy officials have "co-operated and taken proper pride" in framing a program designed for governmental economy, the President announced the budget will be $343,000,000 — about $59,000,000 less than the Navy Department had estimated would be necessary to maintain efficient operation and provide for needed construction.

LARGEST SINCE 1926

The total for naval construction in the proposed budget will be $57,000,000, the largest since 1926, but still less than one-third the annual average which would have to be maintained to give the United States parity with Great Britain when the London treaty expires in 1936.

While details of the budget were not made public, in accordance with the custom of transmitting such recommendations first to Congress, it was indicated drastic economies will have to be made in naval operations.

Apparently the President has turned down departmental recommendations for closing the Boston and Charleston Navy yards and the Newport Training Station, made after he had demanded a $60,000,000 slash in the department's $401,000,000 budget. He said:

"This budget for the next fiscal year does not decrease the personnel of the Navy—does not decommission any fighting ship although the rotation plan will be continued, does not propose to abandon any of the Navy yards—provides for the maintenance of the frigate Constitution and for the maintenance of the Navy bands."

What might be construed as an answer to critics who have complained that the United States is lagging behind Great Britain in attaining that parity agreed upon at Mr. Hoover's London naval conference, is contained in the declaration that:

"The tonnage of combatant ships actually in construction by the United States today is nearly double that of Great Britain and in addition we are engaged in the modernization of three battleships."

Just where the economies aggregating $59,000,000 are to be effected was not specified by the President.

Miner Gets Life In Slaying Wife

BECKLEY, W. Va., Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Frank Otero, 46, miner, yesterday was sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary after he had pleaded guilty to slaying his wife, Mrs. Marie Otero, 29, with an ax at their home here last July. The woman was helping her husband sharpen the ax. He suddenly arose and struck her with it. An infant daughter, Marcia, suffered a fractured skull from the same blow but recovered.

ALL IN A DAY By Mark Hellinger

HE IS A prominent bird in the theatrical profession. He has been dealing with so many daffy people for so long a time that his heart and mind are completely warped. His creed is a very definite one. No woman is to be trusted; no woman is any good. Have you ever met a guy like that? There are plenty of them around.

How do they get that way? How did my man get that way? Who knows? An unfortunate love affair, perhaps. Or perhaps he has seen so much of the phony side of life that he cannot see decency in anything. Or perhaps, like so many reformers, he enjoys finding evil where no evil exists. There are many possibilities. And one is as good as the next.

Whatever the reason, then, this chap asks nothing more than an opportunity to insult a woman—be she 15 or 50. That's his idea of fun. That's his idea of life. And if you'd attempt to tell him differently, he'd class you as a very naive individual.

I strolled down Broadway with him the other morning. It was about 5 o'clock, I think, or perhaps a bit more. Dawn was coming into the sky. The white lights had long since been laid to rest. It was all very cold and very empty. And yet, when you stop to think of the real Broadway, it was probably the warmest hour of them all.

My companion—and at that hour of the morning, you take your companions where you find them—was engaged on his favorite topic. Women, of course.

"I've been in the game so long," he murmured tiredly, "and I know all there is to know. There's no dame in this world who can be trusted. There's not one who's honest and sincere."

We passed the Astor Hotel. There was no use arguing with this man. I had tried it several times before—and I had made no impression whatsoever. Besides, 5 o'clock in the morning is the hour for bacon and eggs, and not for a discussion of virtue. Or am I wrong?

In the distance we saw a couple approaching. A boy and a girl. They came closer. The girl I recognized immediately. She was the daughter of the man I was with. The boy I failed to place. He was an ugly looking bird with a yellow complexion and green eyes. Which is quite a combination.

My companion recognized his daughter. For a moment or two, he said nothing—which was unusual. The couple came closer and closer. And the girl finally saw her father.

She was pretty drunk. I knew her well, even though I pretended that I didn't. As a matter of fact, there are very few men on Broadway who don't know her. Her life is an open book—with quite a few chapters that I wouldn't care to print here. But after all, as they say on Wall street, what concern was that of mine? She was my companion's daughter. So I just stood by and watched her.

"Lo, pop," she cried, unsteadily, "howsa boy? I wantcha to meet the new boy friend. He'sa great kid."

The father shook hands gravely with his daughters escort. The girl lurched forward.

"Well, pop" she said, "I'll be seeing you soon. Don't do anything I wouldn't do. So long, kid."

Her escort placed an arm around the girl's shoulders and they both staggered up Broadway. I still said nothing. All I did was to turn and look at my companion.

I wondered about his reaction. This man who laughed at decency in any woman—what was he thinking of now? Did he include his daughter with the rest? I waited for him to speak.

He did speak, finally. And, strangely enough, his eyes were kindly and his voice was soft.

"Some girl, that kid of mine," he murmured. "Just a baby, really. Different from other girls of her own age. I'd trust that kid anywhere in the world."

Broadway. Or, come to think of it, maybe it's the same on any street in the world . . .

THIS GAG was probably first unfolded when Fanny Brice and Edna Wallace Hopper were skipping rope together, but it was new to me when I heard it the other night. It concerns a Mr. Cohen, a highly respected man in the notion business, who hired a salesman to cover the Mid-West for him. The salesman was traveling on a straight commission, so Mr. Cohen really had very little to worry about.

The salesman reached Oklahoma without any mishaps. For three days or so, he was in communication with Cohen's office. And suddenly for no apparent reason, he dropped out of sight.

The reason, it developed later, was a simple one. The poor fellow had been seized with a heart attack in a small hotel. He was put to bed and a doctor summoned. But to no avail. In the morning the poor fellow was as dead as your Aunt Matilda's last year's Easter bonnet.

Accordingly, the hotel proprietor immediately wired Mr. Cohen. "Mr. S——' your salesman," the wire read, "died here last night. What are your instructions?"

A few hours later came Cohen's reply.

"Instructions very simple," it read. "Search all pockets for orders."

I DIDN'T hear it, but Sid Weiss assures me that it actually happened on the radio only a short time ago. Judge Lindsey was scheduled for a radio address, and the announcer went into a long and dreary speech of introduction. When he finally neared the end, he added what he probably thought would be a fine finishing touch.

"You will now hear Judge Lindsey," he chirped solemnly, "As I told you before, the Judge is the world-famous authority on marriage, divorce and crime in general."

Wife Asks Divorce On Bigamy Charge

Charging that her husband had another wife at the time of their marriage, Mrs. Helen B. Samuels, Fifth avenue, McKeesport, asked a divorce on the grounds of bigamy in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court against Adolph B. Samuels. They were married October 7, and she afterwards found he was married to Doris Samuels, she alleged.

FIRM SUES OVER 'HAMBURGERS'

A battle over "hamburgers" in Federal Court was precipitated yesterday when the White Tower System, Inc., alleging unfair competition, filed a suit in equity against the Bell Catering Corporation, with offices in Wilkinsburg.

The papers declare a former employe of the White Tower System, J. N. West, became one of the incorporators of the Bell company, and that the Bell company had erected in Aliquippa and Wilkinsburg hamburger stations of white tile with towers similar to the White Tower places.

The suit asks an injunction and damages.

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK A GLASS OF WATER

Italian Science Working Wonders on Headache and Stomach Sufferers With Simple, Internal Bathing

Why is it that eight out of every ten people today are being made miserable, unhappy and inefficient by constant headaches?

Italian science startled the world by giving plain effervescent water before breakfast as the remedy. A homely treatment, but effective sometimes beyond belief. A form of intestinal bathing that makes anemic-looking, pasty-faced, headachy and stomach-acidity people take on new life, new appearance and new health.

The way the treatment works is on the same principle of washing out the intestines every morning before breakfast just like you wash dirt off your face and hands. For just as it is necessary to clean ashes from a furnace before a fire burns bright and clear, so it is necessary to wash out the stomach BEFORE food goes into it.

Otherwise you most likely cause a bad condition by mixing the food you eat with ptomaine-like accumulations in the stomach that virtually poison the fresh foods you put in it.

For that reason, every man or woman—whether sick or well—is advised to drink each morning BEFORE BREAKFAST, one-half glass of water with two tablespoonfuls of ordinary Italian Brioschi effervescent in it, followed by a large glass of plain water. That's the whole Italian treatment—tens of thousands of people today are crediting with near-miracles in the relief of constant headaches, sour stomach, acidity, constipation, "bilious" attacks and general lassitude and debility.

The Italian Brioschi effervescent to put with water can be obtained in large cans at any store for a few cents. The way to pronounce the word is Bree-os-ky—ordinary Italian Brioschi. A few days of it will suffice to make most anyone a crank on the subject of intestinal bathing.

DIVORCE SEEKER JAILED IN WEST

Llewellyn J. Clark, father of seven children who was refused a divorce here in March from his wife a tubercular patient in the city hospital at Leech Farm, has been sentenced to four months in an Oregon state road camp after conviction in Portland on a charge of white slavery, Allegheny County authorities learned today.

Clark was living at 6009 Rodman street when he instituted the divorce action, charging desertion.

Mrs. Clark, who gave birth to her seventh child while taking a tuberculosis cure treatment in a Johnstown hospital, contested the action. Judge Frank Patterson refused to grant the decree.

The Portland indictment returned October 27 charged Clark with transporting a former Wilkinsburg girl, from California to Oregon.

Union Halts Strike In Chicago Theaters

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—A strike of union stage hands and motion picture operators in six theaters of the Fox chain here was averted by an order from the New York headquarters of the unions. The strike had been ordered for yesterday, but Thomas F. Maloy, business manager of the local union, announced the matter at issue had been settled.

Car Thieves Trapped By Singed Mustache

MINOT, N. D., Nov. 13.—(AP.)—An unexpected mustache singe received when an automobile burned brought arrest to two men here and, officers said, confession they stole the car.

As Sheriff R. W. Kennard cast about for clues he noticed John Kostenko's mustache didn't look quite right. Yesterday Kostenko admitted guilt and so did Olaf Hanson, found with him.

Two Get 25 Days For 25-Cent Theft

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Thomas Smith and Lee Newman are paying for a quarter's worth of stolen gasoline at the rate of half a cent a day. They were convicted of stealing the gasoline yesterday and sentenced to serve 25 days each in the El Paso County Jail.

Police Dog Gains Stay of Death Sentence

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Teddy, a police dog, under sentence of death, has gained a new lease of life even though his fate still is uncertain.

The dog, owned by Mrs. Mary Ciesluk, of Yeadon, a suburb, was condemned to die a month ago after several neighbors charged it was vicious. Although Mrs. Ciesluk said Teddy was gentle and friendly, a justice of the peace condemned him and requested the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to kill the dog.

Mrs. Ciesluk's attorney obtained a temporary injunction from the Delaware County Court at Media, restraining the society from action. The attorney contended the justice had no legal right to condemn the dog.

BABY SAVES 12 FROM FLAMES

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 13.—Twelve lives were saved here early this morning by the cry of a 3-year-old babe, awakened by smoke.

The two-story frame dwelling of Simon George, Coolspring street, was a mass of flames when the cries of Ferris George, 3, awakened Mr. and Mrs. George and seven other children, who escaped in their night garments. Two boarders, Tom and Amos George, also fled.

Ben Platt, suffered a badly cut foot in breaking a window in the burning building and was taken to the Uniontown Hospital.

KIDNAPER RING ELUDES POLICE

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Efforts of police to round up the kidnapers of Alexander Berg, wealthy fur dealer, freed at midnight Tuesday after 102 hours of confinement when his abductors were led to believe they would get $50,000 ransom, continued today. The kidnapers' flat, in which Berg was held captive, was located and one of the suspects under arrest was indentified as the renter of it.

The millionaire furrier identified the flat by furniture and plumbing fixtures. Michael Kramer, second-hand furniture dealer on the first floor, related how he rented it two weeks ago to a man who gave the name "Jim Owens."

Two of the kidnapers fled to Kansas City after their abduction plot blew up, police said they learned, and two detectives went there to aid in a search.

IDENTIFY GIRL FOUND SLAIN

CRYSTAL LAKE, Ill., Nov. 13.—(INS.)—Mystery today continued to cloak the murder of a young woman, identified as Mrs. Stanley Steinachowski, of Chicago, whose dismembered body was found in a shallow grave filled with quicklime.

The victim was identified by the peculiar stitching on her clothing when her husband's sister, Mrs. Harriet Entling, viewed the body. The murdered woman had been missing since October 8. An inquest was scheduled for today.

Search for an explanation of the motive for the young woman's murder centered today in a shorthand letter which was found near the shallow woodland grave. Its text was being deciphered today by experts.

Relatives told police that they feared she had been slain by gangsters. Her murderers went to great pains to conceal the victim's identity, interring her in quicklime and removing both plates of false teeth.

GOLD RESERVE OF U. S. GROWS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Two things which could be interpreted as encouraging business indications today appeared in the columns of figures which make up the Federal Reserve Board's weekly report.

One was that money in circulation decreased $26,000,000. A $24,000,000 decrease two weeks ago was taken by the administration as a sign that hoarding had been checked.

The other was that the United States gained $35,000,000 gold in the week, bringing its total to $4,346,000,000.

Gold had been leaving this country since the middle of September and the conjecture had been made in some quarters that an attack was being made on the dollar. This, however, found no credence in official circles.

The board reported that money in circulation was $1,040,000,000 more than a year ago, the total being $5,517,000,000.

CANADA WILL WELCOME U. S. LAWMAKERS

Festivities Begin Sunday For Hearst Guests on Trip to Study Dominion Sales Tax

Universal Service.

MONTREAL, Nov. 13. — Canada is preparing to give an impressive welcome to the important congressional party which is to visit the dominion during the coming week at the invitation of William Randolph Hearst, to study the operation of the sales tax here.

The Canadian government and the government of the Province of Quebec, with Sir Henry Worth Thornton, head of the Canadian National Railways, have prepared a series of engagements beginning Sunday next, when the 90 senators and congressmen will arrive in Montreal by special train.

WILL MEET LEADERS

These engagements will bring the visitors into touch with the leaders of Canadian official and business life. No party from the United States visiting Canada in recent years has had such a reception program planned for them.

The senators and congressmen will be accompanied to Montreal from Washington by Col. J. Hanford MacNider, American minister to Canada, and the visiting party will meet those who are to be their Canadian hosts at an informal dinner Sunday evening in Montreal.

Monday they will meet members of the Canadian manufacturers' and retailers' associations, and in the evening they are to be the dinner guests of Sir Henry Thornton. Speakers will include some of the most prominent of present-day Canadians. The speeches will be broadcast throughout the United States.

RECEPTION IN OTTAWA

On arrival at Ottawa, the Canadian capital, on Tuesday afternoon, Col. McNider will give a reception in the visitors' honor and in the evening the Canadian government will entertain them at dinner at the Chauteau Laurier, E. B. Ryckman, minister of national revenue, presiding in the absence of Premier R. B. Bennett, who is sailing for Europe.

The Canadian government will also be the host at the luncheon to be given at Ottawa Wednesday, when the leading officers of the taxation branches of the Dominion government and experts in connection with the sales tax will be present.

Thursday the party will visit Quebec, where they will be entertained at luncheon by the civic authorities and the services clubs and the Board of Trade, later being received at the Legislative Assembly of the Province by L. A. Taschereau, the prime minister, and by H. G. Carroll, the lieutenant governor of the province, at Government House.

The congressional party will spend five days in Canada and will travel over the lines of the Canadian National Railways.

YOUTH SLAYS GIRL AND SELF

CLEVELAND, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—A love quarrel led to the slaying last night of Miss Elizabeth Kasarda, 18, and the suicide of Charles Sunek, 21, according to Lakewood police.

Police said the youth followed the girl home and during a quarrel shot her with a revolver, then shot himself. Parents of Miss Kasarda said the two met in high school and were much in each other's company the last two years.

Burned at Bonfire, Scranton Child Dies

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Burns suffered while she was playing around a bonfire near her home resulted in the death yesterday at Taylor Hospital of Genna Burke, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Burke, of Avoca.

Autoists Get Job Racing Trains to Check on Speed

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 13.—(AP.)—James Hunter and Loren Wilson, of suburban Wilmette, have got themselves a job racing trains in an automobile.

Hunter, halted by a motorcycle policeman while driving 50 miles an hour, explained:

"We were racing that railroad train running on the track beside the highway.

"The village of Wilmette hires us to race trains. They think the trains go too fast across unprotected grade crossings. We time the trains and tell the village Council. If you don't mind, there's another train coming and we ought to race it, too."

They did, but the patrolman ordered them to stay within the village limits of Wilmette.

AUTO MEN FIGHT GAS TAX RISE

A resolution asking that the proposed increase in gasoline tax from 3 cents per gallon to 5 cents be abandoned, was sent to Gov. Pinchot last night by the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association. The resolution was approved yesterday at a meeting of the association. A copy was sent to the Legislature.

The resolution points out that the state and municipalities must retrench in expenditures commensurate with private industries within the state. It is pointed out that to tax one industry which has been beneficial to all industries would bring about a curtailment of the use of motor vehicles and further injury to trade.

ENGINE OF 1831 RUNS AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Old "John Bull," first steam locomotive to pull American passengers, marked his one hundredth birthday by warming up and running yesterday, jacked up on blocks in a museum.

He startled and delighted a crowd in the Smithsonian Institute just as he shocked the New Jersey gentry into belief in the "iron horse" a century ago.

His pistons were leaky, and it was compressed air instead of wood they fed him to make him go; but he responded valiantly to controls first operated by a top-hatted engineer at Bordentown, N. J., on November 12, 1831.

On that day a Trenton newspaper reported "the Legislature and the city are moving thither"—toward the one-and-one-quarter-mile track "John Bull" negotiated in 2 minutes and 22 seconds. The next day it was recorded "a great many of the best people" were pleased at the sight, but at the same time assurance was placidly given that the four-horse coach was running on schedule.

Canary Warbles In Court to Decide Suit

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—A canary placed on the witness stand in Judge Edward B. Casey's court warbled a song and thereby freed its former mistress of a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Mrs. Dorothy McGarry, the defendant, was accused by Mrs. Susan Hlawatz of selling her a bird that wouldn't sing. She said in court:

"It was a female. I tried every way known to make the bird sing, but it wouldn't."

Judge Casey called for the bird. Mrs. McGarry approached and pleaded for a song. Suddenly the bird began to sing.

DRYS HAMPERED IN HILL RAIDS

Air was let out of the automobile tires of prohibition agents while the officers were raiding a building in the rear of 2630 Wylie avenue last night. The agents were forced to inflate the tires before departing.

The raid was one of five staged in the Hill district. Seizure of intoxicants was reported at 1701 Wylie avenue, 1510 Center avenue, 105 Fullerton street and 55 Fernando street. Other raids were reported at 131 Howard street, 1423 Reedsdale street, and an automobile at Fayette and Beaver avenues.

On the second floor of 520 Smithfield street the agents reported they found a bar and a quantity of whisky, gin and beer. A suspect escaped.

Urging more enthusiastic response to the appeal for $5,981,184 for unemployment relief, A. K. Oliver, president, today declared that in addition to discharging an obligation subscribers will also aid in lessening crime. He said:

"The best way to keep crime at a minimum is to remove the chief causes for it—poverty and idleness. This is what organized social work does when it gives food to the hungry and provides wholesome recreation for the unemployed."

YOUTH RESCUED FROM FIRE BY STEPFATHER

Man Risks Life to Rouse Youth Overcome by Smoke; $10,000 Wilkinsburg Loss

Four were burned and a stepfather braved death to save his wife's son from their blazing dwelling in Reserve Township early today, while flames swept a furniture warehouse and garage in Wilkinsburg.

Awakened by the reflection of fire through a transom, Mrs. George Schloer, 40, of 403 Mt. Troy road, leaped from bed and awakened her husband, 38. They aroused Mrs. Schloer's brother, Charles Boeh, of Baden, Pa., asleep in an adjoining room, and the three fled through the flames and smoke-filled hallway to the front porch.

FATHER RISKS LIFE

After reaching safety, Schloer discovered that his stepson, Wesley Newman, 22, was still in the burning dwelling. He darted through the flames again to the attic floor, where he found the young man partly overcome by smoke.

Placing his stepson's arms over his shoulders, Schloer staggered down the stairway to the street. On the way he tripped and suffered a broken foot, as well as burns of face and arms and a deep laceration of one arm.

Schloer and the two other men, who also suffered burns, were treated at the Allegheny General Hospital. Mrs. Schloer was treated for burns at the Presbyterian Hospital.

Mrs. Schloer said:

"I woke up and saw light through the transom. I thought someone had left a light burning last night. When I opened the door every room seemed to be on fire. I awoke my husband and we aroused my brother, then ran to the porch."

LEAP PREVENTED

Schloer thus described his rescue of his stepson:

"I ran back upstairs when I found Wesley was not with us. He was awake, but partly overcome by smoke. He wanted to jump out the window, but I told him I thought we could make it down the stairs. I half-carried him to the porch. I don't know just how I was injured."

Mt. Troy firemen extinguished the burning frame dwelling with a loss estimated at $1,000. The cause is undetermined.

Fire starting in a furniture storage bin on the second floor caused $10,000 damage early today to the Virgil Jackson Transfer and Storage Company building, 1407 Swissvale avenue, Wilkinsburg. Twenty-five automobiles were run out, undamaged. The fire was discovered by a pedestrian as Jackson, unaware, sat in his office reading a newspaper.

Latest Thriller--'The President's Brother-in-Law'

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Nineteen bottles hanging on the wall.

We'll have to let the cat out of the bag so we can count the kittens.

Have you read, "The President's Brother-in-Law" with a foreword by the Chief of Police of Santa Monica?

It seems that Take-It-or-Leavitt was going about his business with a gunnysack on his shoulder when somebody joggled his elbow. The gunnysack rattled like sleigh bells on a frosty morning.

It contained 19 pints of rare old pompadour tonic. One drink strong enough to pop your vest buttons and two drinks guaranteed to tip your hat with both hands in your pockets.

Take-It-or-Leavitt says he was toting the burlap just to do a friend a favor. He meant 19 friends.

Nineteen pints is no easy load. Why, Take-It-or-Leavitt must be the hodcarrier for the whole California wine brick industry.

Well, things ain't so bad for Take-It-or-Leavitt.

Could be worse. They might have caught him on the second trip.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Barney Baruch—about the lone survivor of what was once our boasted "big men period" and, along with Calvin Coolidge, one of the two men that knew the "bubble" was going to bust right in our face—advocated, in a speech Wednesday, "increase in income tax in the higher brackets," "sales tax on all but necessities," "no debt cancellation." These Democrats are always bobbing up with some good ideas.

EDUCATOR SEES NO WAR PERIL

Possibilities of a world war growing out of the present Manchurian unrest are small, Prof. Roswell Johnson, of the University of Pittsburgh, declared in a statement issued yesterday. Prof. Johnson visited Japan this summer, lecturing throughout the country.

He said popular conception of the situation is grossly erroneous. He declared Japan does not want war and China also has no desire for conflict, continuing:

"The thinkers in Japan do not want war. The land is suffering from world depression. The exportation of silk to America has decreased because of the development of rayon-silks here, and war would mean the loss of another great market in China.

China does not want war. She is recuperating from famines and floods. Russia would not enter the controversy for she knows that war would spell death to her five-year plan and her national reconstruction program."

Suspect Here Identified As Famous Criminal

Robert Considine, held as the leader of a robber gang which operated here today, changed his background today just as easily as he changes his name.

James Egan, old-time detective, proved that Considine is not the notorious Robert Considine, master crook of Chicago of two score years ago. Hardly had this revelation been made when New York police reported that the prisoner is the assailant of Eddie Guerin in a London prison in 1907. For this shooting he was given a life sentence and 15 years later was pardoned, after his wife, May Churchhill, the famous "Chicago May," had raised a $50,000 fund to effect his release.

Considine, arrested with five other men and two women, is being held in connection with numerous robberies here.

Arrested with Considine here was a woman who said she was Marie Dixon. Police Chief Fred H. Frazier, of Wheeling, said she really is Miss Grace McCulley, until recently secretary of a furniture store there.

COUNTY VIEWER URGES PROBE OF DAMAGES

McJunkin Cites Increased Highway Award Costs In Advocating Inquiry

Allegheny County's property damage bill resulting from construction of state highways to date this year is $1,106,359, twice last year's total of $530,393.

W. M. McJunkin, member of the County Board of Viewers, when asked about damage claims said they were worth investigation by the new Board of County Commissioners. Questioned further he said:

"The state cannot be sued for damages, therefore there is an agreement between state and counts that the county pay the property damages and I must say in many instances they have been quite stiff."

McJunkin said this was true in the improvement of Lincoln highway in East Pittsburgh and vicinity. Asked if the state Highway Department might be laying out improvements of roads without due consideration of the amount of damages that might be asked he said:

"Well, it might look that way. It is at least something that needs some consideration and thought, since the taxpayers of Allegheny County must pay the bill."

McJunkin said the Board of Viewers viewed 12,000 properties last year. About 500 state highway cases will be viewed this year.

Radium Highballs for Health Urged by Research Survivor

DR. LUTHER S. H. GABLE HOLDING AT ARM'S LENGTH A TUBE OF RADIUM BARIUM BROMIDE

'Deadly' Substance Held Life-Giving Stimulant

That small quantities of radium introduced into food and drink may greatly prolong human life is the opinion of Dr. Luther S. H. Gable, head of the department of radium and hellology at Detroit Institute of Technology.

A radium "highball," consisting of fruit juice, through which a small quantity of radon gas, an emanation of radium, has been forced under pressure is used regularly by Dr. Gable and he declares it keeps him in splendid physical condition.

The danger associated with radium in the past has been connected with the use of large quantities of radium oxide. Modern science has learned to use lead shields to protect itself from the powerful gases thrown off by radium. Of six pioneers in radium research, Dr. Gable is the only survivor. He carries about $15,000 worth of radium with him, and it is kept in heavy lead capsules and handled with forceps.

The first radium produced in America was made at the Standard Chemical Company's plant at Canonsburg, Pa., Dr. Gable revealed. In the earlier days it required 400 tons of carnotite ore from Colorado to make one gram of radium. Recently it was discovered that 10 tons of a certain mud from the Belgian Congo will produce the same amount.

Radium in tiny quantities, viewed through a screen in a dark room, looks like the flow of molten metal in a steel mill or like thousands of sparkling stars. Introduced into the blood in minute quantities, Dr. Gable sees increased health for the human race through stimulating action on glands.

Dr. Gable came to Pittsburgh to deliver a free lecture in the chapel of the Mt. Lebanon United Presbyterian Church last night.

MRS. THAW AIDS NEEDY FUND

A contribution by Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., to aid in meeting the $1,100 deficit of the Surplus for the Needy Committee has been announced by Harry I. Miller, chairman of the committee. With but $400 of the deficit still remaining, a concerted effort was being made today by members to collect funds to continue relief work.

The deficit was incurred, officials said, in providing more than a quarter of a million cans of fruit and vegetables for the needy of the district. The distribution of the cans has been placed in the hands of organized charities.

An appeal for clothing for sufferers in the district was made today. Many workers who volunteered their services through the canning campaign are without warm clothing needed to continue their work, committee members said.

D. A. R. REVEALS RED ATTACKS

An important feature of the thirty-fifth state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution in the William Penn Hotel is a large room display of hundreds of placards, bulletins and pamphlets showing the invasion of Communist propaganda into American institutions, factories and schools.

Cartoons and illustrations satirizing, ridiculing and denouncing Coolidge, Hoover, the D. A. R., the church, the American flag, public schools, the R. O. T. C., national defense, capitalism and government are classified and displayed along with actual photographs of Communist demonstrations in all of the larger American cities.

It is believed by the D. A. R. organization that patriotic citizens should be aware of the extensive and vehement program of the Communists in this country as well as all over the world and not be lulled into indifference by a tolerance typical of the Ameri attitude, they say.

Jail Prisoners In Jamboree on Seized Liquor

TEXARKANA, Ark., Nov. 13. —(AP.)—Prisoners in the Miller County Jail raided the confiscated liquor storeroom yesterday and went on a spree that ended only after most of the windows in the building had been smashed.

The prisoners punched a hole in the wall of the storeroom and helped themselves. Some time later officers were attracted by yells and sounds of breaking glass.

One prisoner was having such a time the officers were forced to handcuff him to the bars of his cell before he would quit his efforts to wreck the jail.

DUTCH VISITORS STIR INTEREST

Two travelers from Holland, pleasant old ladies who might have stepped from the canvas of a master painter, attracted considerable attention in the lobby of the Fort Pitt Hotel.

They were Miss Verkerk and Miss Blaauw, of Amsterdam. Requests for photographs and an interview brought a curt refusal from Miss Verkerk. She said:

"We are just like everyone else. We have two eyes, two ears and one nose. We were visiting in Kalamazoo, Mich., and if you want to know anything about Holland ask someone from Kalamazoo. We think the price of coffee in America is outrageous."

They are leaving today for New York to return to Holland.

LINK POLITICS IN BET SHOP

George Kappas, 35, of 305 Atwood street, was held for court today, charged with operating a gambling house as the outcome of a raid yesterday on an alleged "bookie" place at 118 Sixth street, reputed to be owned by two well-known politicians.

Kappas didn't say he was the proprietor of the place and he was not questioned on that point by Magistrate T. D. Jones, of Morals Court.

He testified, however, that the "bookie" shop had been operating for a year and accepted bets on horses, prize fights and baseball games, all the betting being done by telephone and no cash accepted.

George Metaxos, 27, of 2918 Claremont avenue, Carrick, employed in the place, was fined $10 with the alternative of 10 days in jail.

Inspector Albert Beebe, who headed the raid, produced betting sheets and racing forms in evidence. He testified he found 20 men in the place and described the place as "going full blast."

The raid was made after Joseph Miller, arrested with a young woman on the North Side, testified in Morals Court yesterday he worked in a bookmaking resort at the Sixth street address.

Dwight Winter, a director of the Pittsburgh Steel Company, said that he knows of no consolidation plans.

The report was also denied at the offices of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation in New York City.

Alone in the garage, W. H. Haller, of 5722 Baum boulevard, sales manager, was locking the door when the "customer" escaped in the car. Haller, in another car, gave chase for a half hour, but failed to find the car. Haller said:

"He wanted to drive the car alone. I had taken the car outside. I left him in the car while I got out to lock up, and the next thing I knew the machine was gone. I chased it, but I couldn't catch it."

EINSTEIN SEEKS TAX AID FOR COUNTY

North Side Senator Will Oppose Pinchot Gas Levy Unless Fund is Returned

Senator Morris Einstein, of the North Side, will vote against the two-cent emergency gasoline tax bill now before the special session of the Legislature unless an amendment is adopted returning the additional tax money to the counties of origin.

Einstein will present an amendment embodying such a provision next week. Under its terms all the new revenue raised from automobile owners in Allegheny County would be returned here for road work to assist in relieving unemployment.

EXPLAINS TAX STAND

In a statement today Einstein, a veteran of the Senate and chairman of the Allegheny County legislative delegation, said:

"I recognize the truth of the Governor's statement that some counties are suffering more than others, that the industrial districts are hardest hit, and should receive the larger share of any additional state revenue. My amendment would make certain that this principle is served, so far as Allegheny County is concerned.

PROPOSAL FAVORED

"My proposal is not new. It is a principle which has been indorsed by civic and trade bodies, the city and county government. It was well enough when our state road system was being constructed to distribute the gasoline tax money without regard to where it originated. But this additional tax is admitted-ly an emergency. It is designed first of all to create employment, and has little to do with expansion vital to the state's primary road system."

Both the gasoline tax and cigaret tax proposals of the Governor have encountered considerable opposition in the Legislature, and many members are understood to feel as Einstein does about the fuel revenue.

DELAY TRAFFIC LAW CODIFYING

No effort will be made to adopt a codified traffic ordinance, proposed by the Better Traffic Committee, until next year, it was indicated by Council today, following a hearing late yesterday.

At the hearing, headed by Council President John S. Herron, all members appeared to frown on present adoption of codified laws. The Better Traffic Committee asked that Council furnish $1,200 to bear cost of printing and distributing the ordinance books.

Speakers explained that the present system was obsolete and much research was necessary.

Civic organizations, manufacturers, business men and school officials appeared before Council and advocated adoption of the ordinance.

TRUNK SLAYER APPEAL FOUGHT

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 13—(INS)—The battle for life of Mrs. Ruth Judd, pallid trunk murderess, was marked yesterday by a brief skirmish in the Supreme Court and the issue of the skirmish remained undecided.

Judge Martin T. Phelps granted Mrs. Judd's attorneys an order permitting them to make unhurried investigations at the apartment where Agnes Leroi and Hedwig Samuelson were shot to death and their bodies packed in trunks for shipment to Los Angeles.

The prosecution officials declared the presence of defense attorneys in the murder apartment hampered their own investigation and after Judge Phelps refused to modify his order, appealed to the Supreme Court.

Counsel for both sides today appeared before the Supreme Court and submitted the legal question of Mrs. Judd's constitutional rights in written arguments.

The Supreme Court made no announcement when it would rule.

Meanwhile Mrs. Judd remained in the common ward of the women's division of the county jail held without bail on two complaints each charging the slaying of one of her once devoted friends.

WORK BIGGEST ISSUE—RITCHIE

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(Universal)—Unemployment will be the paramount issue of the national Democratic campaign in 1932.

Albert C. Ritchie, governor of Maryland, thus announced after an extended conference with John J. Raskob and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

For two and a half hours the Maryland Governor last night sat closeted with the National Chairman and Smith in their offices in the Empire State Building. At the conclusion of the huddle Ritchie denied that candidates were discussed, but added:

"We discussed the 1932 program at length and decided that every effort will be made to build a plank that will eventually bring relief to the country's unemployed. Once it was prohibition—an important issue, too—but conditions of the poor come first."

Baruch Beer Plea Attacked by Drys

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(INS.)—Wet millionaires do not drink beer—they drink champagne and hard liquors—hence their zeal for legalizing and taxing beer, the National Board of Prohibition Strategy said.

Bernard M. Baruch's statement in New York that "the legalization of beer and light wines would give us enormous tax receipts," was interpreted by Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary of the board, as meaning "that it would give wet millionaires enormous tax relief to shift the burden of taxation to the workingman, who is expected by the wet millionaires to pay the enormous tax receipts."

Liberties Union Asks Mine Sentence Cut

The Pittsburgh committee of the American Civil Liberties Union has been instructed to launch a fight in Pennsylvania courts to reduce the sentences of National Miners Union members, convicted in Washington County, recently. The members were convicted of attacking a meeting of the United Mine Workers of America and given sentences ranging from 15 months to two years.

French Seize Plane Of American Flier

PARIS, Nov. 13.—(INS.)—A four-seater Stinson airplane belonging to Leonard Carothers, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Nameoki, Ill., was impounded today by French police at Le Bourget Airdrome just outside of Paris.

The police declare that the owner of the plane has persisted in flying it in France without a permit.

Evangelist Opens 3 Weeks' Revival

A three weeks' interdenominational revival was opened last night by the Rev. Jack Munyon, local evangelist, in Christ Reformed Church, Hamilton and Lang avenues. He spoke on "What's Wrong With America?" The evangelist has just returned from a tour through the South. In his talk last night he said the only cause for the present economic distress lies in "our neglect of God." Lester Case, of Binghamton, N. Y., directed the musical program.

Here's New Vick Plan for Better "Control-of-Colds"

Made Possible by New Vick Product Based on New Idea for Prevention of Colds.

Pittsburgh druggists authorized to sell new product on trial to Vicks VapoRub users and refund price if Vick Plan does not reduce family's yearly "Colds-Tax."

Mothers are guardians of the family health and directors of the family budget. It is the mothers who have the worry of colds and their cost. And it is the mothers who especially appreciate the new Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home—just announced by the makers of Vicks VapoRub.

This Plan is made possible by a new preparation, Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, based on a new idea in "preventing" colds. It is a companion product to Vicks VapoRub, the modern method of "treating" colds. That is, they aid and supplement each other.

Here, briefly, is the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home:

1.—Before a Cold Starts.

Use Vicks Drops—just a few drops up each nostril—whenever you have been exposed to anything which your own experience tells you is apt to be followed by a cold—contact with others having fresh colds, crowds, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms, public places—a night on the Pullman or a dusty automobile ride—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold—inhaling smoke, dust, gases—excesses in living, such as overeating, smoking or drinking—after a hard day, when you are over tired.

In short, don't wait for that stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages. Then you are not "catching cold"—you have already caught one.

2.—After a Cold Starts.

At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub—now available in "stainless form," if you prefer. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bedclothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising may be inhaled freely all night long. During the day, use Vicks Drops every few hours—any time, any place.

This gives you a full 24-hour treatment and without the risk of too much internal "dosing," which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children. Both these Vick products are external. They can be used freely and as often as needed without the slightest harmful effect.

Trial Offer to Vick Users.

You have Vicks VapoRub. Now, get a bottle of Vicks Nose Drops. Use it with VapoRub as directed in the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home. If you are not satisfied that it actually reduces your high cost of colds this winter, your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

4 Students Dodge Irate Parents in Dash for Paris

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—(INS.)—Because they traveled fast and kept a jump ahead of irate parents, four students of the Armour Institute of Technology will eat their Thanksgiving dinner with the grandmother of one of them in France.

The quartet—Blaise Guettler and Fred Ollison, Chicago; John Jackson, of Nashville, Tenn., and David Pearson, of Portland, Ore.—cast aside their books last Sunday, piled into an automobile and headed for New York. They caught the steamship President Roosevelt just before it sailed.

Parents of Guettler and Ollison frantically tried to stop the overseas jaunt, but their attorneys arrived on the dock a few minutes after the President Roosevelt had headed down the Hudson River.

PITTSBURGHER LOSES GEMS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Substitution of a trunk containing sacked flour and sugar for one in which there was $50,000 worth of jewelry samples, was reported to police here by Jacob Davis, partner of the Barnett, Davis Jewelry Company, of Pittsburgh.

Davis told Chief of Detectives Elkin Lewis that he checked his sample trunk at Birmingham, but that when he presented the stub here he was given a different trunk, in which there was only a sack of flour and a sack of sugar.

Lewis assigned two detectives to investigate, but said he believed "whatever happened took place in Birmingham or on the train between here and there."

TREAT AWAITS KOMIC CLUB MEMBERS

Saturday Theater Programs Replete in Surprises; Sunday Show Prepared

One of the biggest treats of the season awaits boys and girls who attend Warner Theaters-Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Club meetings at the Harris (Diamond street), Enright, Schenley and South Hills Harris theaters tomorrow morning.

Dauntless, the movie dog—the dog with a human mind—familiar to every boy and girl who goes to the movies will be on the stage at these meetings. Dauntless will be remembered as the dog lead in "Under the Black Eagle," "Two Arabian Knights," "The Thirteenth Hour" and other pictures.

Dauntless is valued at $35,000 and he will be presented at the Junior Komic Club meetings by his owner and trainer, Scotty Wilson.

Dauntless will appear at the Harris (Diamond street) Theater at 10:30 a. m.; Cameraphone at 11 a. m.; Enright at 11:30 a. m.; Schenley at 1 p. m. Beginning at 1:30 p. m. and for the balance of the day, Dauntless will appear at the Harris South Hills.

Members of the Junior Komic Club will receive tickets at their chapter meetings tomorrow morning for the big show at the Stanley Theater Sunday afternoon. Attendance cards will be exchanged at the meeting for regular admission tickets.

Children from all chapters with proper admission tickets are requested to meet in front of the Sun-Telegraph Building, Bigelow boulevard, at 2:00 p. m. Sunday. There they will form in line and, under the direction of 50 special representatives of the Sun-Telegraph, will march to the Stanley Theater.

Motion pictures of the parade will be taken and shown later in the neighborhood theaters.

One of the greatest children's shows ever assembled has been prepared for this big event. There will be a feature picture, never before shown in Pittsburgh, patriotic exercises, several stage features, souvenirs and a big surprise.

Every child attending the Harris (Diamond street) chapter meeting tomorrow will receive free ice cream. This is made possible through the courtesy of Sportolari Clover Honey Ice Cream Company. Practical school rulers also will be distributed. The stage attraction will be Rheo, cartoonist and magician, who will entertain with feats of magic and draw lightning cartoons.

In addition to Dauntless, the movie dog, Enright Chapter will have a special picture program, including a western, a Mickey Mouse and a Booth Tarkington Penrod story. There will also be a Barrel of Fun.

If you want to participate in all the privileges of this wonderful club, clip the coupon from the comic section of this paper, fill in and mail to the Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

BANK BANDITS GET PAYROLL

RAHWAY, N. J., Nov. 13.—(INS.)—Four payroll bandits early today held up the Citizens National Bank here and escaped with $80,000.

The four bandits, heavily armed, walked into the bank at 8:25 a. m. and forced three customers and the cashier to line up against the wall.

They then scooped up the money which was being held at the bank to meet the payroll of the Gibbs and Hill Company, construction engineers in charge of the electrification of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The bandits escaped without firing a shot.

Pulitzer's Grandson Engaged to Marry

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—(INS.)—Announcement that their daughter, Miss Billie Holdeman, will wed Seward W. Pulitzer, grandson of the late Joseph Pulitzer, founder of the New York World, has been made here by Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Holdeman, parents of the bride-elect. The wedding is planned for next summer, they said.

MOTHER—Watch this Girl . . . This is the Time You Should be on Your Guard

"My back bothers me," she quietly complains . . . "I guess I'll lie down." Have you ever felt this way yourself?

Despondent, Listless Girls

SHE LOOKS despondent, worn-out and depressed. Young girls budding into womanhood often get quiet and wistful. Lassitude overtakes them. They should be watched!

"I have a headache," they quietly complain. "My back bothers me. . . . I guess I'll lie down."

These are the symptoms, mother. And you should be on your guard.

During this "trying time" every young girl needs the helpful benefit of a strengthening medicine like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Neglect now only invites suffering and unhappiness later on. Pain destroys beauty. Worry ruins the disposition.

That's why so many attractive young women become faded prematurely. The pretty girl of 18 becomes a languid lady at 25.

Suffering isn't natural. Remember that. It may be brave and heroic . . . but it's unnecessary.

When your daughter becomes tired and listless . . . won't you give her Vegetable Compound Tablets . . . just as other mothers do? For over fifty years this medicine has been considered a SAFE and ACCEPTED household remedy.

The very fact that it's been in use a long, long time, gives women extra confidence. They know it must be good . . . or so many women wouldn't take it.

And how true that is! For our records show that 98 out of every 100 women who write us actually report benefit from the strengthening treatment of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of either the tablets or the liquid. Don't postpone for another day the blessed relief this medicine brings.

VOTE OFFICIAL ORDERED HELD

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Donald McIntyre, Judge of Election in the Fourth Ward, has been ordered held pending filing of charges, the result of alleged fraud in his precinct in the general election.

The voting machine in the Fourth Ward was found to have had 51 votes added in favor of Luther S. Crawford, Republican mayoralty nominee, who lost the election by 28 votes to W. C. Hatfield, Democrat. Inclusion of the 51 votes would have given victory to Crawford. Judge T. H. Hudson said:

"We are of the opinion that the Judge of the Election was one of those responsible for unlocking the machine and tampering with the vote."

McIntyre, who denied knowledge of the change in totals, was held in $2,500 bond and the court instructed the District Attorney to file charges of violating the election laws.

Minister Raps Drys At Victim's Funeral

ENGLEWOOD, Col., Nov. 13.—(INS.)—A plea for "betterment of the prohibition law by better officials" was made here yesterday by the Rev. Roy H. McVicker at the funeral services of Milford G. Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

This week-end the debs are going military! Of course they'll attend the Pitt-Army game, and late in the evening the ball in the William Penn Hotel honoring the team and other visiting cadets.

And before the ball there'll be a dinner-dance for the debs, who'll have cadets as dinner partners.

The John Hartwell Hillmans, of Fifth avenue, will give the dinner at the Pittsburgh Golf Club in honor of two of the debs of the season, Rita Borntraeger, daughter of the Carl H. Borntraegers, and Katharine Frazer, daughter of the John G. Frazers. And the guests will join in the regular Saturday night club dance between courses.

Some time ago I mentioned that the James Francis Burkes would give a dinner in the Fox Chapel Golf Club Saturday night in honor of their week-end guests, Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley.

The Richard Beatty Mellons will entertain for the Hurleys and so will Mrs. Henry R. Rea. The Mellons will give a tea in their home tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock, and Mrs. Henry R. Rea will give a luncheon on Sunday in her home, Sewickley Heights.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Hurley will arrive tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock, and will go to the Burke home for breakfast, returning at 9:15 to the City-County Building to review the Cadet Corps.

Now we have news of another wedding date. Yesterday I mentioned that Eleanor Rowe had named January 18 as the date for her marriage to Vance Nelson Harper, of Wheeling, W. Va. Today Margaret Shaw Rose, daughter of the Don Roses, has made known that December 31 will be marked by her marriage to William Hamil Trimble, son of the Robert Maurice Trimbles, of Ben Avon.

Wedding Date Set

The scene of the wedding will be the vine-clad Sewickley Presbyterian Church, with 5:30 o'clock as the hour for the ceremony.

Mrs. Henry Van Leer Curll, of Philadelphia, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. J. George Kahl, of Ben Avon, during the annual state convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. Curll is a delegate from the Quaker City chapter in Philadelphia.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of white satin, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Harriet Kinley, as her sister's maid of honor and only attendant, wore a gown of green point d'esprit and carried pink roses. Serving as his brother's best man was John E. Wright. Miss Florence Kinley, sister of the bride, played the wedding music, and Cass Ward Whitney sang preceding the ceremony.

There was a reception later for the families and friends, at which the bride's mother, receiving with the bridal party, wore a gown of wine red lace and chiffon, and the bridegroom's mother, a wood brown velvet ensemble.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright will reside in Brighton road, Ben Avon, upon returning from a western honeymoon.

DULL SURFACES FEATURED IN NEWEST STREET FROCKS

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—It seems that we have to be dull to look smart these days, what with the dull broadcloths and dull-surfaced woolens and wool jersies that one sees everywhere just now. Smart designers offset the dull touch by accents of brightness in the form of shiny patent leather and lustrous furs such as broadtail.

THE DESIRE to look as slim as possible surely must be one reason for the prevalence of dull-surfaced fabrics. Lustrous satin is excused from present company, but then its clinging propensities have the necessary effect anyhow. But to take a walk and look at the smart new street clothes, both frocks and suits. The black suit with black fur is very popular in Paris just now, as is the all-black coat, a hardy annual. Equally well liked is the frock of dull black woolen with white lingerie touches, ever so smart and trig. One sees versions and themes of these successes everywhere with clever little touches and accents to make them distinctive and distinguished.

WE SHOW TODAY drawings depicting a charming dress and a splendid suit. The frock, by Jane Regny, is of fancily woven black jersey. The material is so light and supple that it lends itself readily to the pleating that forms the gilet and skirt panel. The guimpe and under-sleeves are of white lingerie and the belt is of white patent leather with a large bow of black patent. The skirt is smartly flared.

* * *

THE SUIT is one of Chanel's most successful models. It consists of a belted coat and circular skirt in black broadcloth with a dull surface. The fur trimming is lustrous black broadtail. Especially new and destined for popularity are the elbow-high butcher cuffs of fur and the wide, tailored fur revers.

Tomato Juice Important in Prevention of Diseases

Increased popularity of this vegetable and its juice is due to highly valuable health qualities it contains.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Within recent years the tomato has become one of our most popular vegetables. Few vegetables are worthy of such praise as the tomato. It is one of the protective foods, containing elements of great value to the body. The tomato itself may be eaten or its juices may be taken as a liquid.

The tomato is particularly beneficial because of its rich supply of vitamins. Its values are not altered by cooking or the canning processes.

The canned product is inexpensive and can be served in a variety of ways. It is interesting to know that what appears to be water in the cans is not really water, but is the natural juice of the tomato.

"Tomato Puree" is an exceedingly popular product. It is made from the pulp of tomatoes from which the skins and seeds have been removed. The pulp is cooked to a heavy consistency. Tomato puree is put up with and without salt, and so every taste can be satisfied.

Tomato paste is a concentrated tomato product, made by boiling down the tomato puree under a vacuum. It is put up in five and six-ounce cans, and some packers flavor the tomato paste with bay leaves.

Within recent years, tomato juice has been widely prescribed by physicians. It is used as an aid in combatting disease. Tomato juice is important in the prevention of scurvy and rickets. It is recommended for children, and has been given to infants as young as 6 and 8 weeks.

In undernourished children and invalids convalescing from severe illness or operation the juice of the tomato is exceedingly valuable. It is a nutritious and delicious drink. Many authorities recommend tomato juice in preference to orange juice. Both contain exceedingly valuable elements and may well be alternately used.

Tomato juice is a favorite food for those who are taking treatment for obesity and anemia. It has great favor with those who are striving to reduce.

Not only is this drink a nourishing one, but it is particularly refreshing and stimulating. It is a drink which undoubtedly will assume a place among the so-called popular "soft drinks."

Science finds new reasons for KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

MILLIONS have found Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a safe way to overcome common constipation. Now science shows this delicious cereal brings three benefits to the diet: "Bulk." Vitamin B. Iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like the "bulk" in lettuce —only it is concentrated in a more convenient form to relieve constipation. It absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the wastes.

Vitamin B tones the intestines, and promotes regular habits. Iron builds blood, and aids health generally.

No wonder ALL-BRAN is considered far more natural than pills and drugs — so often habit-forming. Try two tablespoonfuls daily. If you suffer from intestinal trouble not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal or use in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

RAIDER SHOT, MAN HELD

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Federal prohibition agents last night declared Audrey Harding, in jail here, had confessed shooting Harry D. McMunn, dry officer, who led a raid against a still operated by Harding and other men, at Cheltenham.

Announcement of the confession was made by Robert E. Ford, deputy prohibition administrator for Maryland, who declared Harding took the officers to a straw stack and showed them the shotgun with which the officer had been shot.

McMunn was struck on the head and chest and critically wounded by the only shot fired in the raid. One of the shots penetrated an eye and he was taken to a Washington hospital by the officers, who returned quickly and arrested three men.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Would You Give Up Hubby Without a Struggle?

Supposing you'd worked and skimped and striven with your husband to build up success—

To make a home, and a place in the sun, for him and yourself—

And then suppose some other woman—some younger woman, who saw his success and wanted to share it—started to work on him and he fell for it, thought he loved her—

Would you give him up to her? Would you say: "All right, Big Boy, if you want her, take her! I wouldn't hang onto any man who wanted another woman."

Or would you fight to keep him?

Rita gave her man up. I wonder what your answer will be when he asks:

"Was I a fool?"

"Dear Sally:

"I've just read the letter written by the girl who was out to get her man—married preferred—because she wasn't willing to put her shoulder to the wheel and work for her comforts in life, and wanted a man who could give her everything . . . and figured a married man who had made his pile was better prepared to do it.

"That letter brought up a question I have often wanted to discuss with the Gang. Should a wife give up her husband to such a woman?

"I used to say that I'd never live with a man who had an affair with another woman—that if my husband ever wanted another woman I'd give him up. I never dreamed when I said it that I'd ever be faced with the problem, but I was. And I did just what I had said I would. Now I think I was just a big fool. What do you think?

GAVE HIM FREEDOM

"Here's the story:

"I had been married for 15 years, and many of those years I had skimped and saved and denied myself every pleasure so we could get ahead. And then, when we had the comforts that all of us crave, along came a woman—a single girl, 10 years younger than I, and decided she'd like to have them.

"When I found out about her I told my husband he could have his freedom. He was infatuated with her, so that was fine—for him.

"And what happened? He found he couldn't break the associations of years so easily as he thought. His conscience bothered him. He took to drinking. He lost one position after another. I sold all the beautiful furnishings of our home and broke my health trying to find forgetfulness in pleasures which were a great tax on my strength, since I had been a home body for so long.

CHANGED ATTITUDE

"We are back together again now. He is working for just $16 a week less than his salary was when he left home, and we're buying new furniture on time. It set us back just about five years. And believe you me, my attitude has changed.

"The next Jane who decides she wants my husband is going to find a stiff job on her hands. What do you think of that? Am I right or wrong?

"RITA."

What's your answer, Stranger?

Would you do as Rita did?

Or would you do as Rita thinks she should have done?

Supposing Rita had refused to give her husband his freedom, would things have come out all right? Would he have been any good to her, so long as he believed he loved the other woman?

Girls Purr More Over Rich, Old Sweeties Than Do Young Men—Fay King

By FAY KING.

Let any ancient marry-er with plenty of coin and power glide into a circle of young, pretty and ambitious girls, and Apollo himself could not inspire a finer welcome.

He is smiled upon. He is flattered, petted, vamped and fought over—each fair damsel declaring she saw him first and he is hers if she can capture him.

It is a marked contrast to the middle-aged woman with money who may have an eye for young and handsome youth.

When you see a young man towed around by an aging Venus he looks decidedly bored and self-apologetic.

Given the same opportunities fewer young men would fawn and purr more over old women with money than will young girls over old guilded gargoyles.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

The Injured Chinese Again Appears

Involuntarily I drew back from the shattered window as the three drops of blood—for I recognized them as such after the first startled instant—fell upon the grass below. Then as instinctively I glanced upward.

The tree, of course! How any man could have climbed that smooth pole was beyond me, but the Chinese evidently had accomplished it, and now, not knowing of the dripping blood, or not being able to stanch the wounds the shattered glass had given him, he was crouching among those tree branches waiting—for what?

My throat went dry as I thought about it. The Chinese had not climbed that tree in order to make his escape. A few strides from the window while I had been making my way to the kitchen, would have taken him to the edge of the friendly cornfield which would have hidden him completely and enabled him to get into the thicket. No, he must be so bent upon getting the rice paper letter which he had silently commanded me to give him, that he counted no peril or hardship too great to risk for it.

Was he watching me? Had he seen that upward glance of mine? If he had, he knew that he was discovered. What would he do? He was a desperate man, I knew that, or he would not have gone up into the tree.

I thought of Mr. Tiger working busily at the other side of the house, secure in the belief that my experience with the spying Chinese had been but a dream. I thought also of Mrs. Tiger coming across the fields. What might not this desperado do to either of them if he figured that by getting them out of the way he could have me defenseless.

Could I get Mr. Tiger into the house before the Chinese could drop to the ground and run around to the garden where he was working? I even had wild, fantastic thoughts of grabbing Mr. Tiger's shotgun and leveling it through the window at this evil thing in the tree. I never had handled so large a gun, however, and I put that thought away.

But there came a thought close upon the heels of that fantastic one which gave me a thrill of hope. I put my hand back of me without moving away from the window, and groping along the table where I had laid my hat and wraps, my fingers closed upon the large shopping bag which I always take with me in the motor car. Opening it, still using but the one hand, I pulled out its contents and strewed them around the table. Lillian sometimes—more often in the old exciting days of the war, but occasionally in times when we have been aiding my father in secret work for the government, has slipped into my purse—yes—here it was—my fingers closed upon the tiny silencer pistol which Lillian had given me years ago, and the use of which she had taught me. She must have put it into my bag in the morning, knowing that I would object to carrying it—I have an antipathy to the thing—but being determined that I should have its protection, and knowing that I would discover it sooner or later.

With the feel of it against my palm, courage came back to me and I looked up into the tree again, smothering a little shriek of terror as I saw the face of the Chinese peering out from the branches and realized what he was doing.

I have read of the rope ladder of Raffles, but I do not think it was any more cunning or effective than the contrivance of knotted cord which the Chinese threw over a branch, fastened in some way which I could not see, and by means of which he descended, hand over hand, to the ground.

He was about to disentangle the rope with a long flexible cane like a fishing-pole of jointed bamboo when I spoke steadily from the window behind him.

"Do not touch that rope. Drop your pole and go away from here quickly if you do not wish to go to prison."

I do not know myself why I gave him the chance of freedom.

He turned, not swiftly, but as if he had been expecting some word from me, and looked at me.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Operation Depends on Individual

Recently I had a letter from a man requesting advice as to whether he should be operated on for hernia. He said he was 62 years of age and in excellent general health. He had been wearing a truss without much benefit.

Dr. Copeland

Hernia is not a disease and is not caused by an infection. It is due to a lack of strength in certain muscles of the body. The muscles are weak at birth, or become so as a result of severe manual work. The muscles affected are those of the abdomen and groin.

Hernia is common in lumbermen and others who daily exert themselves in physical work. Lifting and straining in any calling may produce it. It is most common in elderly people.

The wearing of a truss was first thought of in the days before modern surgery arrived. In those times the operation for hernia, as for any other disability, was accomplished with great difficulty. Too often it had a fatal result. Modern surgery eliminates most of these old-time dangers. In consequence, the operation for hernia is undertaken with every hope and expectation of success.

Of course, the wearing of the truss will never cure hernia. In fact, it is the belief of many surgeons that in some cases the truss does more harm than good. Instead of strengthening the muscles, the truss weakens them and may even exaggerate the hernia.

Hernia is sometimes observed in infants and children. These young patients should not be allowed to grow up with this defect. It is a needless handicap.

A truss should never be given a child. The approved treatment at this age is surgery. The operation is remarkably simple and should not cause undue anxiety or alarm.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Never massage the eyelids. Pat them lightly. Tissues there are extremely soft and delicate, the muscular formation underneath having little depth.

When the feet burn and smart, massage with a thin cold cream. Olive oil will serve or mineral oil, if cream is too costly to be used freely. Wrap the feet with large bath towels that have been wrung out of cold water. Let remain on 10 minutes. Remove oil with soap and water, dry, give a quick, brisk massage with talcum powder.

Hair curling fluids are usually composed of gum tragacanth and camphor. It is not advisable to make them. They can be bought at any beauty shop for a small sum.

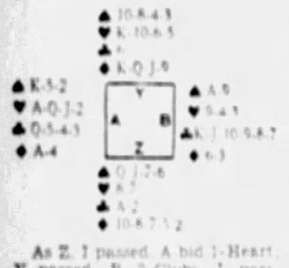
Changing facial expressions transfigure a woman, make her charming. Lights and shades, smiles and thoughtfulness, poise and ecstacy. First one, then the other. A woman with changing expression has a brain that is clicking like a Swiss watch. Plenty going on under her permanent wave. Only the dull ones look always the same.

Contract Bridge -:- OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

The Plain-Suit Echo

The plain-suit echo is used at no-trumps to show partner four or more cards of his suit. Unless forced to play your highest card, play your second best card; the next time you play your next lowest card, and so on until you hold only your highest and lowest cards of partner's suit. If you hold more of the suit than partner you must win the fourth trick in order to continue leading for extra tricks. If you and partner hold equal numbers of the suit, win the last trick in case you have a good suit to lead; let partner win the last trick if you wish a lead through dummy or in case you hold no suit that you wish to lead. The following hand illustrates proper procedure:



As Z. 1 passed. A bid 1-Heart. Y passed. B. 2-Clubs. 1 pass. A. 2-No Trumps. Y. pass. B. 3-No Trumps.

My partner led his top diamond; I started my plain-suit echo by dropping beneath my partner's king my second highest diamond (the 8); the declarer dropped his 4 and Y missed the 2 that I held. Next Y led the J as the bottom of his sequence; the last diamond fell in dummy, and I played my 7. A won the trick and laid down his queen of clubs. I won the trick and returned a diamond lead to my partner with my 5. Had Y been dreaming he would have won with his 9 of diamonds and blocked the suit; because I never could have gained entry to play off my fifth diamond. But my partner was alert; he won the trick with his Q, leading back his 9 for me to overtake with my 10, and defeat the contract by one trick when I laid down my last diamond.

Having beaten the contract by one trick, I led my top heart back to dummy's greatest weakness, but A was no fool; he put up his ace and claimed the balance of the tricks.

The three-card echo is also employed at no-trumps, sometimes to great advantage. Suppose that your partner leads the K of his longest suit, dummy shows something like J-8-4, and you hold Q-9-3, for example. Your dilemma is that you will block partner's suit with your Q on the third lead unless partner leads low on the second round, you must play your 9, asking partner to lead low to enable your Q to win the second trick. Then you put your partner in with your 3 to allow him to lead off the balance of his suit.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

A Social Form

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A says it is impolite to disregard the "God bless you" when a person sneezes.

B says it is absolutely correct to disregard it.

Who is correct? DORIS.

B is right.

Notes of Thanks

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When sending a thank-you letter for wedding gifts, how should the letter be written, by that I mean, should the woman's name come first and the man's second, like this: "Dear Eva and Earl" or should the man's name come first and the woman's name second, "Dear Earl and Eva?" The gift was sent by Eva and Earl, but the check was signed by Earl.

2. In answering the gift by a thank-you card, how should the letter be signed? Should the letter be signed Harold and Helen, or Helen and Harold, and does it make any difference who writes it? READER.

1. In this note write the woman's name first. Dear Eva and Earl. The fact that the check was signed by Earl does not affect this, since it is, of course, from both of them.

2. The bride-to-be writes the thank-you notes for the wedding presents, or, if they are received after the wedding the wife writes these notes. She signs them with her name only, but in the body of the note she naturally refers to her fiance's or her husband's (as the case may be) appreciation too of the thoughtfulness of the gift. "John and I are so happy about your dear thought of us," and so forth.

TED HUSING breezed into the city today with his helpmate, Les Quailey, all prepared to cover the Pitt-Army game tomorrow for CBS through WJAS . . . Ted lugged with him the binoculars made famous in his broadcast last year of the Pitt-Notre Dame affair, and Quailey guarded preciously a queer looking box about a foot square which has signal lights to indicate the plays and players on the gridiron . . .

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Wonder what a dance band leader thinks about? Night after night he stands there frowning at his musicians, smiling at the dancers on the floor.

Only another half hour of this and then I eat . . . What an awful looking mob here tonight. Round and round they go like a lot of toys wound up . . . Must remember to keep smiling. That's my mutton, a nice toothy smile . . . And I must make 'em believe I mean it. I do mean it, you can bet, when a swell one goes by . . . Wonder why pretty girls usually have such terrible looking men with them? . . . Don't they ever get tired of shuffling around? . . . I know I like my potatoes hot . . . Yet, look at those tables all deserted . . . Wish I could get more college people comin' here. They brighten up the corner . . . Too many paunchy men out there, too many scraggly women . . .

Sometime I'd like to quit it . . . Would like to go in for classical stuff at Carnegie. But I don't know much about the classics . . . Well, who does? . . . I'm too old now to begin to learn . . . This brings in the dough, anyway. One thousand five hundred dollars a week's not so bad. But I ought to get more. I'm as good as Lopez or Vallee . . . Lord, here's another request for "bowl of cherries." Don't they ever get tired of it . . . I'll have to give it to 'em. That's the boss' order, always play the requests . . . Wish I could get a better radio break. That's a terrible hour to broadcast—1 a. m. Who's listening to radio at 1 a. m., except a lot of gin-guzzling saps? . . . And that announcer they've wished on me, always playing up himself, always playing me down.

Why must these people stand here and talk to me? I suppose it satisfies their vanity to be seen chinning with me . . . They never talk anything but dance music . . . I imagine conversation reaches its lowest ebb on a restaurant dance floor . . . Look at that couple walking around the floor, arms around each other's waists . . . I thought that style had gone out. It ought to long ago . . . Here I am giving them smooth fox trots and they insult me by walking . . . And that cheek-to-cheek stuff from Park avenue that once was the rage at Coney Island . . . Good heavens, there's an old bloke doing the two-step. Funny, some men can't learn.

ARMY SQUAD REACHES CITY

CADETS TO SHOW THEIR BEST LINEUP

THE ARMY ELEVEN, headed by Capt. John Price, 225 pound tackle, here today to tune up for the big battle with Pitt at the Stadium tomorrow, will take the field against the Panthers in the best of shape. Not since the first game of the season have the West Pointers been able to muster the strength they will present on this occasion, except possibly at the ends and at fullback. If Truck Sebastian, 190 pound fullback, injured in the Harvard game, is unable to play, he will have a capable substitute in Kilday.

John Price

Sebastian is the blocking back of the Army, as well as being a good pass receiver. His weight is a huge asset when it comes to taking out of the way 200-pound tackles such as Jim MacMurdo and Jess Quatse, and if Coach Sasse starts him tomorrow in place of Fields, Pittsburgh will get a glimpse of a blocker that comes close to being a second Marty Brill. In addition, Paul Johnson, the No. 1 back, who formerly understudied both Fields and Carver, the latter the regular quarterback, also is reported in good trim again.

IT WAS FEARED for a day or two that a turned ankle suffered in a drive off left tackle in the Louisiana State game would keep Johnson out of the line-up here, but he was out there and all set to go when the whistle blows. Johnson intercepted a pass and ran 60 yards for a touchdown against Louisiana State and almost broke away with what would have been the winning touchdown against Harvard. If Johnson turns up sick, Rowe will play right half.

On the line, both Lazar and Suarez, center and tackle, respectively, are expected to be back in the lineup. Last fall against Notre Dame, Lazar gave Tommy Yarr plenty of trouble after replacing Miller at center. And if you'll take the word of Pitt scouts for it, Suarez is every bit as good a tackle as Capt. Price, though he has not been rated so highly in the East.

ACCORDING TO LEHART HANGARTNER, who has been scouting the Army all season for the Panthers, Suarez has been missing from the headlines principally because he lacks the weight of Price, scaling 198 pounds. However, still quoting Hangartner, Suarez has yet to see an opposing back get through his position for any kind of sizeable gain.

Pete Kopsak, who has taken the place of the unfortunate Dick Sheridan at right end, has recovered from an ankle and his replacement, Lawin, also is fit. Casualties have been numerous at the other terminal, with Dick Kirn, Norman Lankenau, Bill Quinn and Joe Remus all on the injured list in recent weeks, but the Cadets hope to have a couple of them in working order for tomorrow.

WHEN DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY meets the University of North Dakota's football team, so far undefeated, at Forbes Field one week from tomorrow, it will be the first and only home appearance of the Dukes by daylight this season. Elmer Layden's men have played eight games to date, losing four, winning two and tying two. Only two of these eight contests were daylight engagements, both away from home—one with West Virginia in Morgantown and the other with Holy Cross in Worcester, Mass. The Dukes will close their season with their fourth daylight game on Thanksgiving Day, playing Howard College in Birmingham, Ala.

IT DEVELOPS THAT Casey Stengel reported signed as coach for the Brooklyn club, or at least as having the inside track for the job, with Zack Wheat as his closest rival, is by no means the only former Pirate to seek appointment as aide to Manager Max Carey.

Mike Donlin

One old-timer who wants to return to baseball as Brooklyn coach is Mike Donlin, a Buccaneer in 1912, and prior to that one of the most colorful players in the business as star slugger for the Giants. Mike has been out of the game for a long time, working in the movies, but now the diamond sport is luring him again.

BESIDES STENGEL AND Donlin, four other former members of the Pirate outfit are among those applying for the Brooklyn coaching job. They are Carson Bigbee, outfield mate and particular chum of Carey in his Bucco days; Wilbur Cooper, former pitching star; Chic Fraser, scout of many years, and Frank Roth, a coach under Jimmy Callahan here in '27.

Additional applicants are Ray Schalk, George Sisler, Tom Griffiths, Cy Berger, Otto Williams and Nick Allen. "I didn't know that so many baseball men were out of work," Carey said. "If it were possible, I'd like to engage all of them."

THE ANNUAL MEETING of the National League on Tuesday, December 8, will be held in Chicago instead of New York for the first time in many years. The constitution stipulates that the December session must be held in New York, but the magnates have voted for a change. This for the reason that they desired to be in close touch with the American League, which will convene in Chicago at the same time, and also wished to avoid having to make a hurried jump to the Windy City for the joint session of the majors, scheduled to be held there on December 11, with Commissioner K. M. Landis presiding.

IN ALL PROBABILITY three representatives of the Pittsburgh club will be present at the Chicago meetings, as it is expected that the new manager will be appointed in time to attend the sessions, along with President Barney Dreyfuss and Treasurer W. E. Benswanger.

President Dreyfuss says he isn't even close to the point of making a selection for the managerial vacancy and still means to take plenty of time. The Dave Bancroft rumor has been revived, but from all that can be learned the Giant coach has no chance to get the job.

EASTERN BOXING PROMOTERS and sponsors of charity glove shows are leaning more and more strongly to the belief that the only real fighting man among the present day heavyweights is Tommyy Loughran. Recent attempts to arrange a big match for the Christmas Fund show in New York convinced them of something that has been apparent to most fans for a long time—that Loughran is the lone heavy not picking his spots.

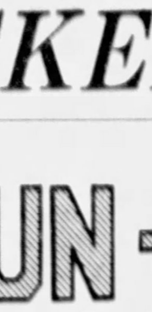
Pauline Uzcudun

Young Stribling would fight Mickey Walker, but Walker wouldn't fight Stribling. Nor would Walker fight Loughran. He'd consider only Max Schmeling, Jack Sharkey, washed-up Johnny Risko or Joe Sekyra. Sharkey wouldn't fight anybody except Schmeling or Jack Dempsey. It was the same all along the line. Loughran alone asked no questions. He will fight anybody, anywhere, for anything.

IT TOOK EXACTLY one minute for Jimmy Johnston to close with Loughran for a fight with Sharkey. Tommy agreed to take 17½ per cent for his end, and would have accepted 10 per cent rather than lose the match. He was willing to fight Walker for the same percentage. He agreed to take on Primo Carnera, but the boxing commission barred the match. So Tommy must continue fighting the lesser lights. He has won a dozen bouts in succession, but the front-row men continue to evade him. He goes against another of the trailers in New York tonight when he encounters Pauline Uzcudun for 10 rounds. The Basque probably is fated to be the next exhibit on the list attesting Loughran's class as a boxer. Nobody expects Tommy to knock out the tough Pauline, but in a boxing sense there is no comparison between the two. In 15 rounds Pauline might have a thin outside chance, but in 10 rounds Loughran is practically unbeatable and is likely to cut the Basque to ribbons with straight lefts.

HARPSTER SEEN AS MENTOR OF PLAID

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—Carnegie Tech football players here today for their game with Temple University tomorrow were shocked by the news that their advisory coach, Judge Walter P. Steffen, had announced in Chicago last night that this is to be his last season as mentor of the Plaid.



Judge Steffen

Steffen is not due here until late tonight or tomorrow morning.

Clarence Overend, graduate athletic manager of Carnegie, said he had no comment to make. He expressed surprise at Steffen's statement and said he wished to talk over matters with Wally before speaking for publication.

Steffen has been coach at Tech for 18 years and always has been held in the highest esteem by the players and students and alumni, and his announcement that he plans to retire from coaching had a depressing effect upon the Tech party as a whole.

HARPSTER NON-COMMITTAL

Coach Howard Harpster, of Geneva College, star quarterback at Carnegie Tech, where he won all-America honors in 1928, today declined to discuss the coaching situation at his alma mater following announcement in Chicago by Judge Walter P. Steffen that he would not return here after this season.

Harpster said he had not been approached in connection with becoming a member of Carnegie coaching staff. Rumors have it that he is slated to become head coach at the local institution, where the memories of his feats on the gridiron constitute a glamorous tradition.

CHANCE FOR WADDELL

Bob Waddell, who for the last few seasons has been head coach of Tech with Steffen acting as advisory coach, has a year to run on his present contract and may be in complete charge when the 1932 Tartans take the field.

Immediately after being graduated from Tech, Harpster signed as coach of the Shady Side Academy eleven. His fine work there won him the position as head coach at Geneva, and his Covenanters lost only one game to Bucknell's great machine in the 1930 campaign.

Thus far this season Harpster's Genevans have lost only two games—to Duquesne and Franklin and Marshall—and a tie with Bucknell and a win over Grove City are bright spots on his 1931 record. His strategy enabled him to confound all opponents while he was field general of the Tartans, and it is apparent in his work as a coach, for only in the P. & M. game has a Harpster-coached team been held scoreless.

MAY SUCCEED STAGG

It was reported that Steffen may succeed his former mentor, Amos Alonzo Stagg, at the University of Chicago, but he said he did not know if Stagg intended to retire, that he had not been offered the job, and that he was getting out of coaching anyway.

The declaration that he would resign at Carnegie Tech was made at the annual University of Chicago banquet.

After he was elected to the bench, Judge Steffen acted in an advisory capacity at Carnegie Tech, leaving Chicago on Friday night before games and mapping his plans the next morning.

The outstanding achievements of his Skibos were a pair of victories over Notre Dame. In 1926, the late Knute Rockne came to Chicago to watch Army and Navy play their sensational 21-21 tie on Soldier Field. His Irish, rated as overwhelming favorites, went to Pittsburgh under the direction of Heartly Anderson, and received a shocking 19-to-0 beating from Carnegie.

In 1928, Carnegie Tech ruined one of Notre Dame's most cherished traditions by beating the Irish, 27 to 7, at South Bend, for the only time Notre Dame ever was defeated on old Cartier Field.

Steffen, a graduate of Chicago and one of its greatest football stars, said:

"Football coaching is a tough

BRADDOCK OFF CARD HERE

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

The Jimmy Braddock-George Panka heavyweight match at Motor Square Garden, scheduled for one week from next Monday night, is off. At least the Braddock end of it is, by order of the boxing commission, which late yesterday decreed that, in view of the fact that Braddock was in no shape for his bout with Maxie Rosenbloom in Minneapolis a few nights ago, it was reasonable to assume that he would be no more fit to box Panka. The Rosenbloom bout was stopped by the referee and declared "no contest" and the purses of the boxers were forfeited and they were suspended.

Matchmaker Jules Beck is trying to secure another opponent for Panka. He already has wires out for Battling Bozo, of Birmingham, Ala., now a stablemate of Young Stribling and one of the most colorful heavyweights in the ring.

Between Rounds

In addition to the show scheduled in St. Francis De Sales School hall, McKees Rocks tonight, the Allegheny Musketeers Association of the A. A. U. has sanctioned following amateur boxing bills: Monday, benefit show in Turner Hall, Homestead; bouts at South Hills Country Club and show at Meadville, November 21 show at Somerset, Pa., and December 28, bouts at Harvey A. Beaver Club.

Marty Simmons, of McKeesport, and Tug Phillips, of Fayette City, meet in a 10-rounder at Uniontown, Wednesday night, November 18.

Andy Stabura will box Benny McArthur and Paul Unger will meet Teddy Wiehl in two 10-round bouts at Fairmont, W. Va., Thursday night of next week.

Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, is marching along in fine shape for his 10-round main bout with Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion of the world, at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. It is the biggest chance of his career to date, and he hopes to make the most of it. He winds up his hard training tomorrow. Fields is due to arrive on Sunday, although he may get in a day ahead to take in the Pitt-Army game.

Maj. Fleming — W. Don Harrison — Capt. Bill Jones — Capt. W. E. Wells

In charge of Maj. Philip Fleming, graduate manager, the Army football squad arrived in Pittsburgh this morning for its game tomorrow with Pitt in the Stadium. Capt. L. McCall (Biff) Jones, who is to succeed Fleming after this year; Capt. Wells, Army intelligence officer, and Fleming were greeted by W. Don Harrison, Pitt's athletic director, upon their arrival.

CADETS TAKEN TO SHADY SIDE ACADEMY

By JESS CARVER

The first detachment of West Point's gridiron forces, the varsity itself, piled into Pittsburgh this morning and almost immediately betook itself out again. The Cadet squad was unloaded from its four or five Pullmans at the P. & L. E. Station while most of us were putting the finishing touches to the ham and eggs, and then headed for Shady Side Academy, where it will remain in strict seclusion until time for the game with Pitt in the Stadium tomorrow.

Biff Jones

For the first time in all football history, a West Point eleven has invaded Pittsburgh, and, while civic pride (or something) forces us to hope that the invasion will meet with nothing short of disaster, as far as the game itself is concerned, we hope the Cadets have a swell time otherwise. The remainder of the invasion, the corps itself, 1,200 strong, will descend on the city at an early hour tomorrow, parade to the City-County Building, where it will pass in review, and then head for Syria Mosque and lunch, and from there march to the Stadium and put on its celebrated maneuvers session prior to the opening of football hostilities. It is only the second time in history the corps has traveled west of the Alleghenies.

SASSE HEADS PARTY

The Sojer footballers were accompanied here by Maj. Ralph Sasse, head coach; Capt. L. McCall (Biff) Jones, former chief mentor and the gent slated to be the next graduate manager at the Point; Maj. Philip Fleming, the present graduate manager and Capt. Wells, intelligence officer, who'd be known as sports press agents at any other school. A distinguished collection of New York football scribes, including the one and only Richard Vidmer, of the good old Herald-Trib, accompanied the team.

A workout is slated at Shady Side this afternoon, and it will be a secret one, with newspapermen and photographers barred. Your correspondent was with the Kaydets in California two years ago when they played Stanford, and the Sojers were so tough there they even chased the Stanford track coach, the celebrated Dink Templeton, out of his own ball park, and at the point of a bayonet, too. What they did to the scribes there was plenty.

PITT SET FOR BATTLE

If the Cadets think they are coming here to catch Pitt off it guard, they are badly mistaken. The Panthers have been working like Trojans (and I don't mean Southern California, either) all week. Reports of the new "Formation C," reputed to have been devised by Coach Sasse especially for Pitt, have failed to cast any consternation into the ranks of the locals. Pitt has two things to make up for in this game—the defeat at the hands of Notre Dame and the poor showing made against Tech. A decisive win over Army will put the Panthers up there with the best of 'em, and knowing something of the relative merits of the two teams, I'm inclined to think Jock Sutherland's team, provided Jock has 'em clicking, will win by a margin surprising to many of the boys who have been betting dough on the Soldiers and figuring on a relatively close score.

The good Dr. Sutherland gave

TECH READY FOR TEMPLE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—Carnegie Tech's varsity squad arrived here early this morning and repaired immediately to the Manufacturers Club, where it will practice and rest until time for tomorrow's game with the unbeaten Temple University aggregation.

The Tartans were to work out this afternoon in a secluded spot on the golf course.

Coach Bob Waddell was in charge of the squad of 27 men which represents Carnegie's entire available varsity strength. Head Coach Steffen will arrive from Chicago this evening.

The following players are in the Skibo party:

The fighting spirit that enabled the 1930-31 Yellow Jackets to remain in the good graces of local hockey fans, even when they were losing, and which was very conspicuous when they fought their way up into a playoff berth, after it appeared that they were hopelessly distanced, stood out in bold relief as the local puckmen came from behind to pull out a 2-2 tie with the revamped Syracuse Stars in the International League's 1931-32 title race inaugural at Duquesne Garden last night.

Trailing by 2-0 at the opening of the third and last regular period, and greatly weakened after 40 minutes of torrid battling had sapped them of the strength which only one week of training had provided, the Pittsburgh stalwarts substituted grit for condition, and fought on until the visitors' lead had been erased.

NEW JACKETS PROVE WORTH

Frank Ingram, right wing obtained from the Chicago Hawks, of the National League, contributed much to the prestige of the Jackets' new forces by scoring the first Pittsburgh goal, and then pushing a perfect pass to the Syracuse goal mouth to pave the way for the score that brought the deadlock, but Ingram's fine work in no way overshadowed the efforts of Ty Arbour and Lewis Holmes, other new Jackets whose display of fight established them as favorites with local fandom right at the start of the campaign.

Arbour, despite the fact he was unable to break into the scoring column, displayed a willingness to battle at top speed from the first to the final gong, and he evinced enough skill to convince all and sundry that his efforts will bear no little fruit before the campaign is far advanced.

In Holmes, Arbour found a mate whose fight and willingness to mix it was conspicuous even on a team of fighters, and, as for Ingram, the third new Jacket, he proved his loyalty and will to win by following the instructions of Charles Reid, Pittsburgh coach, even when they brought him undeserved jeers.

FRASER TIES COUNT

The Jackets' equalizing score was recorded just 58 seconds before the gong brought the third period to a close, and Gordy Fraser, defense stalwart who was the only man to battle through the 70 minutes of torrid milling (a tie game invariably is an overtime game, of course) was the gentleman who slammed the important tally home. Ingram's pass, out from the end boards, was so perfect that Joe Miller, former Pittsburgh goalie, who gave a splendid exhibition in the Stars' nets, had no chance to deflect Gordy's drive.

Eddie Rodden, who teamed with Ingram and Arbour on the starting front line, had a part in the scoring of Pittsburgh's first goal, which Frank rang up at 1:23 in the third period. The little center fed Ingram a pass right at Miller's feet, and for the first time the hoots of the 3,500 fans in attendance, who did not realize that Ingram had been instructed to rush in and receive passes rather than carry the puck, gave way to cheers for the speedy newcomer.

TEASDALE OPENS SCORING

The Syracuse goals were recorded by Teasdale, big defense man, after 15 minutes and 25 seconds of battling in the first period, and by Pelangio, flashy wing, at 18:17, in the second stanza. Both tallies were rung up on solo efforts, after the Pittsburgh defense had been feinted out of position.

The Jackets continued to carry the fight to the Stars in the extra period, and a Rodden-to-Ingram combination play missed fire only by inches. The visitors, coached by Mickey Roach, former Buffalo leader, and garbed in uniforms decorated with the stars and bars introduced by the New York Americans, kept the first two periods somewhat free from thrills with their safety first tactics, but the third and overtime cantos were rich in drama and furious action.

The Jackets are to make their second start against the Indians in Cleveland tomorrow night. They may be beaten, but if last night's fray can be taken as a criterion, they will not be outfought. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—2.		Syracuse—2.
Cox	G	Miller
Jarrel	D	Hughes
Fraser	D	Teasdale
Rodden	C	Watts
Arbour	W	Pelangio
Ingram	W	Bellerive

First period—Syracuse, Teasdale, 15:25. Penalty—Savage, batting puck.
Second period—Syracuse, Pelangio, 18:17. Penalties—Hughes, holding; Fraser, charging.
Third period—Ingram (from Rodden), 1:23. Fraser (from Ingram), 19:02. Penalties—Matte, hooking; Savage, slashing.

AMERICANS COP, 5-2

DETROIT, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—New York's Americans and the Detroit Falcons battled for two periods to a tie last night, and then the Americans scored three goals in rapid succession to down the Detroit team, 5 to 2, in the opening game here of the National Hockey League season.

The Coach's Viewpoint

By Howard Harpster

Geneva College Coach and Former All-America Star at Carnegie Tech.

The Army football team arrived this morning, on Friday the thirteenth, and is going to attempt to prove to Dr. Jock Sutherland and his fast-stepping Panther eleven that there is something to this unlucky 13 business by way of a defeat tomorrow for the local team at the Stadium . . . The Cadet team boasts some very rugged players, having a big tough line and a quartet of heavy, hard-running backs. Its season record is impressive. It has lost one game, to Harvard, and has been tied by Yale . . . Victories were scored over Ohio Northern, Knox, Michigan State, Colorado and Louisiana State.

Howard Harpster

However, it is doubtful if the West Point team has met any foe to date that is as strong as the Pitt team when the latter is right . . . There seems to be a concensus of opinion that the Panther team hasn't been clicking since the first half of the Notre Dame game three weeks ago . . . Many are of the belief that the reason for the team's inability to click has been because the players were looking forward to the big game with Army . . . There is nothing to hold back for now, and many fans believe Pitt will be at its peak tomorrow . . . If it is, look out, Army!

Due to a technicality which has to do with a cadet's age when entering West Point, Cy Letzelter was declared ineligible before the present season opened . . . This announcement was a big disappointment to his many Pittsburgh friends who were counting on seeing him in action again in tomorrow's game . . . Letzelter's ineligibility likely was much less disappointing to the Pitt players, because the former Carnegie star always was tough on Panther teams and in 1926 and 1928 played a big part in Carnegie's victories over Pitt.

Carnegie Tech meets the undefeated Temple eleven tomorrow at Philadelphia in the sixth successive major test for the Tartans . . . The only blemish on an otherwise perfect record for the Philadelphia team is the scoreless tie played a few weeks ago with Bucknell . . . It looks as if the Tech team may lose another close one.

W. & J. probably will have its hands full when it takes on Bucknell at Lewisburg . . . The Bisons have found their stride after a rather slow start and will be out to make amends for the defeat suffered last year at the hands of W. & J., at the Stadium here . . . Penn State meets Lafayette and is doomed to its seventh defeat of the season . . . A game which should prove interesting to the smaller schools of the district is that between Geneva and Allegheny . . . For the second successive Saturday, Geneva meets an undefeated foe, and, while the Covenanters were able to get past Waynesburg last week, tomorrow's assignment will be much more difficult, as Allegheny has one of its best teams this year.

Notre Dame will sink the none-too-strong Navy team by as many touchdowns as it chooses to make . . . One of the best games of the day will take place in New York, when Fordham and N. Y. U. decide the city championship . . . This game is as colorful and as hard fought as the annual feud between Pitt and Tech.

DORMONT PLAYS MT. LEBANON IN BIG TILT

By JULIUS LEVIN

Two championship battles in the City League and a hotly contested grudge battle in the Parkway district feature high school football here on Wednesday afternoon.

The City League will complete its regular season schedule and when the championship question is decided it will be left to Andy Allderice and Oliver Beale.

The Scotch Terrier who is bestowed upon the victor in the Peabody-Schenley game is Allderice's, while the Scotch Highland crown will be the property of Carrick-South Hills Field at Oliver Field. The field finally defeated in City League contests and indications are that it will be a hilarious day when the afternoon is over.

GAME NEXT WEEK

The winner of the two contests will clash for Beale in the City League championship. No fields have been selected for the post-season game, but Schenley Stadium likely will be the battle ground.

Interest in the two games locally is high, and thousands of fans are expected to turn out. The teams are reported in excellent physical condition after a week of intensive practice.

The first game is of importance in that it will find the Dormont High School eleven, where Coach Sherrill Dickson will take charge next fall, facing Ed Leuchi's powerful Mt. Lebanon gridders. Interest in the outcome of this game is at fever heat, with a gruelling encounter predicted by the followers of the two teams despite the fact that Mt. Lebanon is the favorite.

A similar affair is slated for the Bellevue High School field when Ben Avon will be the guest of the home team. Games between these two locals usually develop into hard-and-fast affairs and this year's contest is no exception. Both teams are primed for the fray.

HURST AT CARNEGIE

Old acquaintances will be renewed at Carnegie today when Coach Roy McMunn brings his Hurst gridders to the Chartiers Valley to engage Coach Schumacher's Carnegie machine. McMunn is a former Carnegie coach and he is bringing a team to Carnegie bent on taking the measure of the home team.

Allderdice plays at Westinghouse in the other section I contest, while Allderdice plays at Latrobe and Oliver at Perry in section II frays.

Other good district games today find East McKeesport at Homewood, Elizabeth at Bethel, Natrona at Scott, North Union at Cinnman Township, Point Marion at Brownsville, Dunbar Township at South Union, Dunbar Borough at Masontown, All-Saints, Perry Township at Fayette City, Waynesburg at Trinity, Marshall at Glassport, Connellsville at Berkeley, Latrobe at Scottdale, South Fayette at McKees Rocks and Hickory at East Pike Run.

Coach Beverly will take his Arnold Prep School gridders to Hudson, O., today where Western Reserve Academy will be met. Twenty-eight will be in the party. The squad will return tonight and will attend the Pitt-Army game tomorrow.

Tomorrow Shady Side Academy sends its varsity and junior football teams and its soccer team to Cleveland to meet University School in Tri-State Prep School League contests.

South High trounced Fifth Avenue, 31 to 0, in their only official battle yesterday. North Braddock Junior High trounced South Brownsville Junior, 14 to 0.

Martins Ferry High To See Game Here

SPORT VIGNETTES

The gent who wrote that college football is commercialized or at least semi-pro, knew his onions . . . For don't we read in the headlines, "Syracuse to Employ Passes?" . . . The latest suggestion is that if the football players must be numbered they wear their telephone numbers so the sweet young things in the stands will know where to get in touch with their heroes . . . Not a bad idea . . . But, then, perhaps the college clowns are too much

Whitey Silsander.

May Cates doesn't want Hack Wilson on his Brooklyn club . . . Maybe it's mutual . . . No one has asked Hack if he would like to play with Babe Herman and the rest of those birds in the Robin flock . . . A reader objects to a line in the play-by-play story of the Pitt-Tech game which read that Tech was penalized 15 yards for unsportsmanlike conduct on the play in which Reider, of Pitt, tossed out of bounds imprudently flung the ball back onto the field of play . . . It should have read Pitt was penalized and the act was nothing flagrant at that, committed as it was in the heat of the furious battle . . . Leave it to the wags to pull 'em . . . Ben Jeby was introduced as "Ben Jeby, of New York City" for his bout with Buck McTiernan at the Garden the other night, whereupon a wiseacker yelled "Hurray for the City" . . . And did you notice that, despite the rules against smoking, Hymie Kaplan, Jeby's smart-looking New York manager, came into the ring with a big, fat cigar stuck in corner of his mouth" . . . He wasn't smoking it, but the cigar was out of place . . . It should have been in his vest pocket where it could have been more easily broken.

The Cadets will feel the comprehensive scramble for seats when they finish their drilling before the Army-Pitt game at the Stadium tomorrow afternoon. It's a habit as it is less than 50 back up their shirts . . . Sexter is the center of the Army eleven, Ripley it is not. . . . The Boston Bruins are after their fifth straight win of the American Division holdings in the National Hockey League this season.

Playing his first season of football after having starred in basketball and track, Maune Whitey Silsander, former Schenley High School athlete, has been an ace halfback for the Westminster College eleven this fall . . . Whitey is only 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 178 pounds, and he is one of the fastest men on the team. He does the punting and passing, in addition to carrying the ball and playing the safety position on defense. In track he competes in the sprints, broad jump, hurdles and javelin throw. Having won his letter in football, he now is a three-letter man, and they don't spell EAT, either.

Jimmy Dunn, of Cleveland may have here and bring his stable of fighters with him. The man who developed Johnny Kilbane into the featherweight champion and almost had another champion in Bryan Dooley, the middleweight who is contributing on a string of knockouts including Dan Dowd, the southpaw lightweight, Marley Dyer, the Detroit Coast lightweight, and Jimmy Voorhis, a Pittsburgh sensation. Others in his outfit include lightweight Joe Peyronnin, welterweight Marshall Quartle, featherweight, and Jackie Mellon, flyweight.

Rome Fulton Campiglio, the scoring ace of West Liberty Teachers' College, of West Virginia, who recently turned in 10 touchdowns in a single game with Bethel College, to take the lead in the national scoring race, concludes his collegiate football career with the game against Morris Harvey at Huntington, W. Va., tomorrow . . . He has averaged 20 points per game for seven games this season . . . Camps also is a basketball star and a leader in campus activities, being president of the senior class and prominent in student council activities and college dramatics . . . He stands 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 175 pounds . . . He is 23 years old and is majoring in chemistry and physics and is a native Pennsylvanian, coming from Milton High School in the central part of the state . . . Before going to West Liberty he played at Mercersburg Academy with Stew Wilson of W. & J. and Murray Armentrout, of Carnegie Tech.

You might as well start for the Stadium right now if you want to avoid the traffic jam tomorrow and be on deck in time to see the pre-game drilling maneuvers of the Cadets. HARRY KECK.

game, and I have had enough during the past 18 years. Many times I have decided in the middle of a season that it would be my last. This time I mean it. I am going to retire to the stands and become a second gurgeon."

PLAYED UNDER STAGG

Steffen played at Chicago under Amos Alonzo Stagg, in 1926-27-28 and during his last two seasons was injured as quarterback on the late Walter Camps all-America teams. He succeeded the late Walter Eckersall as Maroon quarterback and with the latter and Paul Russell ranks as one of Chicago's three greatest backs.

He has been a Cook County Circuit Judge since 1927 and his present term will expire in 1934.

The Tech squad has displayed a high spirit this year and has won commendation for its fighting qualities but success in games won has not been great. Victories have been won over only Georgia Tech and Buffalo while Purdue, Washington and Jefferson, Notre Dame and Pitt have taken the Tartans measure.

Harpster has been in close touch with the football situation at Carnegie for the last three years during which time he has served as grid scout for the Tartans. Friday night games on the Geneva card left him free to study the plays of Skiba opponents engaged in Saturday combats.

Big Leaguers' Tour Of Orient Extended

The Japan-Hawaii tour of the baseball club of major league performers is so successful that it will be extended. Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball today asked for the role of Barney Dreyfuss, Pirate owner, relative to a request of the tourists for an extension of the trip in order that they may play more games in Hawaii on the return journey.

The moguls of the game gave permission to the athletes to play as late as December 1, but now the diamond stars desire a few days more so that they can stage the games on the home lot. Dreyfuss gave his permission. Larry French, Pirate southpaw star, is a member of the entourage which fact made it necessary for Landis to take up the matter with the Pittsburgh magnate.

Navy Stars Won't Start Against Irish

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 13 — Six regulars, including Capt. Tuttle, center; James, tackle; Elliott, left end; Kirn, right half; Campbell, fullback, and Davis, quarterback, will not start against Notre Dame in the Navy's game with the Irish tomorrow, Coach Rip Miller announced today. Some of the Navy's stars are not in the best of condition as a result of their hard game with Ohio State last week and they will remain on the sidelines until tomorrow's fray is well under way.

Robins May Buy Into Jersey Club

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 — (AP) — The Sun today says the Brooklyn baseball club has received a proposition from Samuel Colacurcio, president and treasurer of the Jersey City International League club, who is prepared to sell a half interest in his baseball property.

In view of yesterday's announcement that the Yankees had purchased the Newark Bears, says the Sun, Brooklyn officials have taken the offer under advisement and may accept.

WORD OF HONOR COPS

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 13 —(AP.)— Word of Honor, owned by Shelby T. Harbison, Lexington, defeated a field of seven horses to win the Prince of Wales Gold Cup Steeplechase of the National Fox Hunters Association at Hamburg Place yesterday.

GRISELLE STOPS JASPERS

PARIS, Nov. 13 —(AP.)— The French heavyweight champion, Maurice Griselle, last night knocked out the German, Jaspers, in the second round.

CHAMP LOSES SLIGHT GAIN ON WILLIE

Although in the afternoon he gained slightly on Willie Hoppe, challenger of the 18.1 balkline billiard championship, Welker Cochran, the defending king in their 3,600 titular combat being staged this week in the William Penn parlors, lost it in the evening, as Willie maintained a 2,400-to-1,509 margin of advantage at the end of their eighth block.

This afternoon the star pair meet in their ninth block of 300 points and forgather again this evening for their tenth setto.

WELKER RUNS 147

Cochran stepped off with a run of 147 in the eighth inning of their seventh match, and finally wound up with a tally of 310 against Hoppe's 300, but in the evening Willie took the defending champion for a ride to the tune of 300 to 117. Hoppe's high run for the tenth session was only 63, but it was good enough to lead him on to the 891-points advantage he held before they started play this afternoon.

The results of yesterday's matches:

his Panthers a thorough workout yesterday, no rough stuff, but a signal drill and a dummy scrimmage against Army plays as presented by the enthusiastic freshmen. He used his regular line, with Cutri and Heller at the halves and Clark Luch at full. Clark figures to start at fullback and Hogan, of course at quarter, but Jock wanted to give Cutri a session as field general, for a quarterback usually takes a pip of a licking against an Army team.

The Army backfield combination tomorrow is going to be hard to dope out ahead of time. Bob Carver looks like a starter at quarter, Stecker is sure to be at left half, and I've a hunch Kildav will go at the other. Ed Herb or maybe Sebastian will be started at full. Sasse has been experimenting with various combinations all week.

Carnegie Tech will officially open basketball practice on Monday when Coach Ralph Hogan arrives to take charge of the candidates. The freshmen are to report on the same day.

TO SET LINEUP TODAY

Pitt will drill in the Stadium this afternoon after the Cadets are through. Sutherland, at that time, likely will make known his starting lineup after the drill. The workout won't be rough, naturally, but will consist entirely of signal work and a session for the punters. Hogan and Collins, Rip of course, will do the kicking until he either is forced out or can't stand on his pins any longer, and its been many a year since Rip was unable to maintain his standing . . . in any company.

OLYMPICS PLAY E. LIVERPOOL TONIGHT

By TOM BIRKS

Tonight the McKeesport Olympics will inaugurate West Penn Conference nocturnal football at East Liverpool, when they meet Purl Daily's Potters aggregation at 8 o'clock.

The Olympics, one of the best independent machines in the district, will be making their first appearance in East Liverpool.

Inasmuch as the Black and White gridders are keen on nosing out Burns for second place in the league there's reason to feel the fans will see one of the nation's best-fought games of the Ohio Valley.

Boyer's Olympics are eager to show that the scoreless tie game played at McKeesport early in the season was not due to the form of the Tube City team.

Daily of the Potters will produce a number of new faces in his lineup. This will be his attempt to place right backs in East Liverpool.

Sunday fans planning will flock to Bridgeville to see Manager Art Rooney make every effort to wipe out his team's defeat of last season at the hands of Burns. The Rooneys are already in so far as the title is concerned, but the Firemen are battling for second place honors as well as trying to be the first club to beat the Big Green machine this season.

Stanley Berkman, captain and quarterback of Dan Burns, is prepared to battle Jimmy Rooney for the quarterback position of the mythical all-star team. A real punting duel likely will be staged.

Tonight at the Homestead Athletic Field Club Jenkins and Pitcairn Reynolds coach all 8:15 in an independent game.

ray Armentrout would be able to play much. He might be able to see some service but the coaches were undecided whether to start him or hold him in reserve. Johnny Grosso, little star of the Pitt game, has been taking Armentrout's place in practice at left halfback all week.

Nor was Clyde Hengst expected to be available for his right guard post. Kebe probably will start there with Henry Dreshar in reserve.

Temple is desperately determined to win tomorrow's game, to even up for the trouncing administered by the Salmon in Mayor Mackey's charity game here last year. The Owls have a veteran combination having lost only Swede Hansen and Jack Bonner from last year's outfit. Johnson, a sophomore hark, has filled Hansen's shoes to the satisfaction of everyone. However Corny Bonner, star fullback, is not expected to play tomorrow since he was badly hurt in the Villanova game last Saturday.

JACOBS PICKS MAX'S FOES

'FIELD' IS CUT TO DEMPSEY, WALKER

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Max Schmeling, soon to arrive here from Germany, apparently is ready to defend his heavyweight championship against only two men—Mickey Walker or Jack Dempsey.

If some rosy schemes concocted in the brain of Joe Jacobs, the Teuton's manager, are fulfilled, Schmeling may fight both Walker and Dempsey before the end of 1932.

Jacobs, arriving here after a visit of several months in Germany, declared he had received a cable from Dempsey while in Berlin saying that the former champion would be ready to fight again in June, against Schmeling and Schmeling only.

OFFER FROM COAST

While he is waiting to hear definitely from Dempsey again, Jacobs is turning over in his mind an offer of $200,000 for a match between Schmeling and Walker in Los Angeles, February 22. The terms appear agreeable to Jacobs, but Schmeling objects to defending his title at so short a distance as 10 rounds, the limit for championship affairs in California.

Madison Square Garden, which claims it holds a contract on Schmeling's services until July 15, 1932, announced it would go into the courts to protect its rights should Schmeling attempt to fight under any other organization's promotion.

MEXICO MAKES BID

The Agua Caliente Jockey Club last night offered an arena seating 60,000 persons for a Walker-Schmeling title bout, pointing out that under Mexican laws the match could be of any length.

From Davenport, Ia., Dempsey last night announced that he would not consider any bouts with leading heavyweights until he was ready to make the advances.

PIMLICO MUTUELS

BALTIMORE, Nov. 13.—(Special.)—The mutuels on the seven races at the Pimlico race track yesterday paid a total of $295.

BOY GRIDDER DIES

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—To the list of football heroes add the name of William Urabinsk, Bill, who was only 12, was quarterback on a Boy Scout team. He collapsed from overexertion and died Wednesday night shortly after scurrying an end for a goodly gain.

PROS SIGN HARLEY

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Chick Harley, Ohio State's All-America star of 12 years ago, has been signed to coach the Chicago Bears professional football team.

SPEIGEL TOO STRONG FOR BALDONI

Joey Speigel, Uniontown southpaw, hooked, jabbed and cuffed his way to a one-sided decision over Gene Baldoni, of York, Pa., last night in the main bout of 10 rounds at the Palisades, McKeesport.

Speigel made a chopping block of Baldoni, whose face was badly puffed and bleeding at the conclusion of the uneven scrap.

In only one round, the first, did the eastern fighter display and real form, and in this session, he caught Speigel with several hard rights to the stomach which caused the Uniontown boy to hold on. From the second until the tenth session, Joey was the most aggressive and landed the harder and cleaner blows. In the fifth round, Baldoni nearly sank from a series of hard left hooks to the stomach, but managed to weather the storm. Speigel weighed 142½, against 141¼ for Baldoni.

PROTESTS K. O.

The other three bouts all ended within the prescribed limit. The first, scheduled 10-round bout ended exactly one minute after it started, with Harry Lennox, of Cumberland, Md., taking the full count on one knee. He was floored by Johnny Chiodo, of Johnstown, with a hard right to the jaw, and, on the advice of his seconds, remained on one knee until the count of nine, but was still down after Referee Eddie Kennedy tolled off 10 and was waved to his corner. Lennox protested he meant to beat the count, but Kennedy refused to alter his decision, and the bout went into the books as a one-round kayo for Chiodo. Chiodo weighed 130, against 128 for Lennox.

M'NEIL STOPPED

Tony Marino, of McKeesport, scored a technical knockout decision over Cleo McNeil, of Canton, O., in the first round of the second bout, flooring the visitor three times before Referee Kennedy halted the uneven go. Marino weighed 115, against 111¼ for McNeil.

Sharkey Lesko, of McKeesport, was awarded a technical knockout over Jack McCarthy, of Pittsburgh, in the fifth round, after McCarthy's seconds threw in the towel to save their fighter from unnecessary punishment. Lesko came in at 144¼, against 148¼ for McCarthy.

W. & J. DEPARTS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 13.—Twenty-seven members of the W. and J. football squad left last night for the game with Bucknell at Lewisburg, tomorrow. The squad will be quartered at Sunbury, where a final drill will be held today.

ARMY GIVEN SENDOFF AT POINT

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 13.—A rousing sendoff marked the departure of the Army football squad for Pittsburgh last evening, the entire Cadet Corps of 1,200 men, headed by the Military Academy Band of 100 pieces, participating in the demonstration. Later, a monster pep rally was held in the yard of Central Barracks.

The Army's cross-country squad also entrained with the football men. It will meet University of Pittsburgh's harriers tomorrow.

Many Cadets will attend the charity ball at the William Penn Hotel Saturday night. A program during the progress of the ball includes the rendition of two songs by the Cadet choir of 200 voices. They will sing West Point's "Alma Mater" and "The Corps."

Cadets of the football squad who made the trip were:

Ends, Carver, Hillberg, Lansenau, Lazar, McConnell, Paige, Price, Simenson, Steger, Suarez, Tittle, Dreier, Armstrong, Carroll, Cyr, Elliott, Evans, Fields, Francard, Gallagher, Graham, Herr, Kilday, King, Lincoln, MacWilliam, Quinn, Ramsey, Reiter, Summerlott, Vidal, Hasain, Beasley, Brown, Gooch, Jablonski, Kmetrik, Kopcsak, Lawler, Smoker and Winn.

Mae Clarke Gets Lyrical About 'Just a Bust'—Here It Is

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 13.

Hollywood has its poets. Some of them, like Roland Young and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., find their way into print. Others, like Billie Dove are afraid of being laughed at. Today, I ran across several poems by Mae Clarke.

Here's one which the Universal Star slaps between the eyes of a Bust:

"Just when I think I have the world by its tail
And my lonely hearts no longer for sale,
My champagne dreams turn to beer and ale
And I find that I'm—just a bust.

When I think that I've found my other half
And he tells me he loves me—I guess for a laugh—
It's kinda tough to stand the gaff
And know that I'm—just a bust.

Begin all over? Be darned if I will
If I can't have him I'll just stand still
This numbness is the gas to kill
What a feeling to be—just a bust.

LATEST GOSSIP

That Frank Orsatti, the cream-colored cavalier about Boulevard these days is Sam Hardy. He also has a cream-colored coat and hat.

Mae Plaxico and Charlie Wolf (engaged) have called the others. Saw a bit pregnant-looking sari posed on Hollywood will have to wait two more weeks to satisfy its curiosity about Tallulah Bankhead. Her departure for the coast has been delayed.

Jackie Cooper is always asking actresses their ages. He gets some rude answers. First move of Dave Selznick was to stop production on Richard Dix's picture.

The Lost Squadron" and "Ten Dollar Call" (Ona Munson and Phyllis Haver) have been abandoned. Frank Sheridan becomes one of the infielding projects in the minor baseball league we plan in Joe E. Brown's new picture.

IN THE NEWS

Gangster pictures, sex-dramas, war epics come and go, but Western stars stay on forever.

George O'Brien

George O'Brien, who turned out to be Tom Mix's successor at Fox, was shooting stars at 6 a. m. The Day Bandit" Tom Gill's story of the border that ran serially in the Cosmopolitan.

Directing George this time will be J. M. Kerrigan, the same you know as a character actor. Kerrigan is one of Hollywood's triple-threat men. He is under a writing, directing, acting contract at Fox.

Answering "Speakeasy" by Don Wahn

If they could still the heartbreak and the pain,
Or ease the ache of hours that slowly pass,
We should not blame them as they drink again
And buy their dreams from out a tiny glass.

But hearts of lead need stronger spur than wine
Or any potion purchased at a bar,
No alcohol may be their anodyne
Who hitched their wagon to a falling star.

There is not contentment in the noisy show
Where strident drinkers quaff their Scotch and rye,
But only in a love of long ago
An unforgotten blue of summer sky.

What matter if for only one lost face
They drink untouched by all the dizzy pace?

Drama

Here's a bit of inside newspaper stuff connected with the death of Peter J. Brady, the politician killed when the plane piloted by Flier Hall nose-dived.

Mr. Brady, a lifelong pal of a newspaper feature service editor, phoned him an hour or two before the take-off.

"Send a photographer down to the field, will you?" asked Mr. Brady. "Get a picture of us."

"Aw, you big baby," kidded his editor friend. "I wouldn't take your picture until you're falling out of the plane."

"No kidding," replied Brady, "the picture will help aviation, come on."

Of course the editor obliged his pal. A few minutes later the plane had crashed and Brady was dead.

In Britain, Anyway

"All play and no work makes Jack a dole boy."

The Morning Mail

"Dear W. W.," clowns Lee Townsend, "Is the dramatic season bad? Last week at one of the he-hummier openings I saw three critics walk out in their sleep."

"And while we're speaking of it, wouldn't it be silly if Alexander Woollcott, the ex-critic (and now in 'Brief Moments') went absent-minded one of these performances—and walked out on himself?"

The title of which they, Leo would be "Alec in Blunderland."

Oh, Mr. Passe News!

We were entered for the first time into one of the smaller Broadway picture houses the other day to witness a scene of the doorman of that dept. store in Harlem. He's the chap we told about recently he minds babies for shopping mothers, and we suggested that the newsreels snap him.

The Passe News took up the suggestion and with an unexpected credit-line to this pillar turned out a fine job.

Merciless Truth

Leaving that 5th Ave. air studio the other P. M. the two radio chieftains were flattering a new entertainer who had made his debut for them that night.

"Kid," one of them said to the chap, "it was fine! Better than they expected."

"Please don't kid me," said the cynic, "I'm from Broadway and know how to 'yes' a guy who is worried. Thanks, and all that, but please tell me the truth—don't forget I'm from a place in New York where everything is phony—and where nobody is on the level—Broadway."

"I know," was the retort, "but you're now on Fifth Ave."

Boomerang

The Saturday Evening Post every now and then dusts off its favorite editorial and reprints it without announcing that it appeared before. The editorial lampoons newspapers which feature such offcolor and foul funnies and which do not consider that children read them!" It recently appeared again.

It was an editorial that shouldn't have been run in that issue—for elsewhere in the magazine appeared a drawing with a double meaning—and which was a piracy of a cartoon-idea that appeared in a sophisticated weekly.

Various editors of funny sections immediately pounced on the SEpost chief, of course reminding him to broom his own house before getting indignant.

Oh, boy, are some faces red?

The Retort Delightful

Miss Ethel Barrymore you must remember once said publicly that we ought to be shot. She also barred us from her plays. It is nice to know that she has let the bars down—for we received tickets to her premiere. We hope those interested in the feud do not think that we purposely missed the opening (a reprisal). Other duties prohibited our attending.

This nifty is the best yet from the E. Barrymore routine of invective, however—have a chuckle.

Some months ago she asked a well-known male actor to go on the road with her play. He refused, saying that he wouldn't leave New York.

Ethel sarcastically cut him with:

"What are you—a show girl?"

Talkie Title Hasn't All The Folly

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Rich Man's Folly" is the new picture in the Stanley. But why blame it all on the rich man. From a production angle the film has its folly, too.

George Bancroft, an all-right actor, is the star. He's seen as a wealthy shipbuilder, the guiding hand of the firm, Trumbull & Son. He spends a lot of time boosting his own horn about the greatness of his company and in impressing audiences of his great desire for a son.

Well, the son is born. But the mother dies. However, the father isn't so grief stricken. He has a boy and money. Also a daughter, a shrinking little thing.

But deathbed scenes are in order in this one and about two reels later, when the boy is 8 years old, he dies. Yet considering they have the lad christening a big ship in the pouring rain with nothing on but a thin white sailor suit, you aren't surprised. Too bad the studio wardrobe room didn't give him a raincoat, even if the rich father couldn't afford it.

Time passes and how! And here's where the technical director had a lapse or relapse or something. On the fourth anniversary of the son's death the father takes a bouquet to the boy's grave. On the headstone are the dates 1922-1930. Which places the action up in 1934. And by the time the picture ends and in spite of its very present-day atmosphere it must be at least 1940, for there is our shipbuilder sprawled on the lawn, with a grandchild in each arm.

Before this, of course, comes the melodramatic climax. It has the shipbuilder wrecking his new liner de luxe. Everyone thinks he's crazy. But he says that he might have been crazy before, but he's sane now. Maybe he's correct. Anyway, he gets over the moral that material things in the final analysis are the hunk.

There's a clever boy actor present. But the director has made him too precocious and has given him a mind that is too adult. Frances Dee as the sister gives the sincerest portrayal.

The ingredients of good drama are in "Rich Man's Folly." But they haven't mixed well in complete dramatic pattern.

Gay Comedy Well Done In Nixon

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Jane Cowl played Twelfth Night here not so very long ago and created the impression that Viola was a young lady with raven tresses, but last night at the Nixon Theater this was proved an error. Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Helen Hayes, who comes to the Alvin next week in "The Good Fairy," has had some movie experience since her last "flesh" appearance here. The result, in part, was revealed recently in her screen performance of "The Sin of Madelon Claudet" in the Penn. Hollywood she found neither as exciting nor unpleasant as she had pictured it. Socially, she found it rather dull, because the movie folk, when employed, worked so hard they had no ambish for partying. "The Good Fairy" is the part Miss Hayes will play in this new Molnar comedy. Choose Wed or Sat if you want a mat.

Small Timer contends the younger generation isn't wild, but has good cause to be, considering the way it's slandered.

"Tomorrow and Tomorrow" will be next Monday and Tuesday in the Nixon. Also Wed. and Thu. Likewise fishday and payday. Zita Johann, who is featured in it, played in Theater Guild touring companies of "He Who Gets Slapped," "Peer Gynt" and "The Devil's Disciple." She thinks Tomorrow and Tomorrow" is the best of all because she gets to wear a different dress in each of its nine scenes. Midweek and week-end matinees will be the order of the daylight.

Small Timer says it's not the lack of interest that bothers him in his "frozen-asset" situation, but the principal of the thing.

Peter Higgins, Pittsburgh tenor who was in Schwab & Mandel's musical comedy, "Free For All," which New York no like (no fault of Pete's of course), is back home for a few days with his wife and child. Pete's fine voice soon will be heard all over our fair land, or as much of it as can be covered in a tour of 40 weeks.

Small Timer says misery may love company, but he'll be sworn company doesn't reciprocate.

Swiftest, Easiest Way to End Bilious Spell

When you neglect those first symptoms of constipation—bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness, the whole system soon suffers. Appetite lags. Digestion slows up. You become headachy, dizzy, bilious.

It's easy to correct sluggish bowel action! Take a candy Cascaret tonight. See how quickly—and pleasantly—the bowels are activated. All the souring waste is gently propelled from the system. Regular and complete bowel action is restored.

Cascarets are made from pure cascara, a substance which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have Cascarets, 10c.

22 Vessels Pass Canal Obstruction

BALBOA, C. Z., Nov. 13.—(AP.)—A 32-foot channel has been dredged in the Panama Canal in Gaillard Cut, where a landslide, caused by heavy rains, had blocked the canal, and 22 ships were permitted to pass through.

The point where the slide occurred long has been a menace, officials said, and before the dredging is completed 2,000,000 cubic yards of earth will have been removed.

Hearst News Shows War In China

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The first and only sound pictures to be made of the war in Manchuria between the Japanese and Chinese are presented in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, showing in the Penn, Fulton and other theaters. There is a thrilling description by the Globe Trotter. Among the sequences is a typical battle which shows the bursting shells from the Japanese guns raining upon the advancing regiments of Chinese. Soldiers are shown carrying the wounded on rude stretchers to places of safety.

Other views paint a vivid picture of the panic of the refugees. Japanese soldiers are shown marching through Chinese villages and in another sequence Emperor Hirohito is shown reviewing Nipponese troops.

Representative John M. Garner, picturesque and brilliant Texan, intimate of the late Nicholas Longworth, and who will probably succeed him as Speaker of the House of Representatives, arrives in Washington and gives his first "talkie" interview to Hearst Metrotone News. Mr. Garner admits that he may likely be called to the post left vacant by the death of his friend. Mrs. Garner intimates that if her husband is called to the speakership there will be no clash over social precedence, as society is not her "long suit."

The Italian government is building a guaranteed and anti-seasickness ship, which was launched at Trieste in the presence of Crown Prince Humbert and his princess. The vessel is fitted with a giant stabilizer supposed to keep it steady in rough seas.

Hospital Refuses Confiscated Liquor

HAZLETON, Pa., Nov. 13.—(AP.)—The board of directors of the middle coal field poor district meeting here refused to accept a quantity of liquor for the district hospital at Laurytown. The liquor had been offered by the Carbon County authorities from stock that had been seized in raids. The board took the action on advice of their medical supervisor.

Bank of England Renames Governor

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(INS.)—Montagu Collet Norman, who has been governor of the Bank of England for 12 years, was nominated today by the directors for another term. Sir Ernest Musgrave Harvey was named deputy governor.

The action of the directors put an end to widespread reports in financial circles Norman would retire as governor of the bank.

INSTINCTIVELY
CHILDREN FEAR DOPE-DRUGGED COUGH SYRUPS

"I was awakened. There was Irma—coughing crying. It frightened me—that cough. I had a bottle of Smith Brothers'. It's candy—I told her. That stopped the tears. Immediately her cough was soothed. In the morning she was all well again." Mrs. F. Commandez, Yonkers, New York.

MANY bitter cough syrups—which children hate so—contain DOPE (Chloroform, Ether, Morphine, Opium.) No question about it—it says so on the label. Look at that label—and then decide whether you want to force your child to take such medicine.

Smith Brothers Cough Syrup contains no opiates, no narcotics, no dope. Nothing, absolutely nothing, that can upset a child's stomach. This syrup doesn't have to rely on dope. Its new discovery, "Triple-Action," does the work. It (1) clears air passages, (2) loosens phlegm, (3) stops coughs fast. Children actually like the taste. Only 35c.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Vacillate — Local Market Quiet

STOCK MARKET TONE TURNS FIRMER

Rails Sold, While Coppers Are Bought and Pivotal Shares Move Narrowly

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—The stock market vacillated uncertainly today between such divergent movements as selling of the rails and buying of the coppers.

The market had an interval of distinct weakness for a time during the [illegible] open [illegible] Most of the [illegible] issues moved lower. In the bond market, [illegible] issues were again in fair demand although second grade rails declined with stocks. Japanese and Argentine issues were firm features of the foreigns.

New York Central dropped more than 2 points to a new low before what appeared to be short covering gave it a moderate rebound. Santa Fe and New Haven lost about as much and Union Pacific more than 4. In the coppers such issues as Anaconda, Kennecott and Cerro De Pasco rose a point or so. Alaska Juneau was again firm. Many sale losses in such issues as United States Steel, American Telegram, Westinghouse and North American were received after modest trading was sluggish.

Selling of the rails apparently reflected waning hopes of any general wage reduction in the near future. Although certain of the eastern executives met with brotherhood chiefs in a private conference last night it was apparently merely for an exchange of views. The recent slump in New York Central is said to have been partly due to bear selling. There is not definite feeling in Wall street however that the $4 annual dividend rate will be reduced when directors meet December 9.

Buying of the copper presumably reflected the decision of the representatives of the Belgian Katanga Mine to remain in New York in hope of reaching an accord on production curtailment.

The money market was easy, with bankers' acceptance rates again shaded ⅛ of 1 per cent and commercial paper was quoted 3¾ to 4 per cent against 4 per cent flat yesterday. The easing of money rates together with a further decrease of $26,000,000 in currency in circulation, as shown in the weekly Federal Reserve statement, provided further evidence of the recent marked strengthening of the general financial structure.

The weekly mercantile reviews again reported little material change in general business, but stressed the improvement in sentiment. The unseasonable warm weather has again hampered the movement of seasonal merchandise, as it has previously this autumn.

Year's Corn Pack Estimated Higher

Of this year's pack 95.4 per cent represents actual canner's pack figures and the remaining 4.6 per cent is based on estimates received from sources believed to be reliable.

Forbes

Have We Over-Production? Fiddlesticks!

—By B. C. FORBES—

"IT HAS BECOME too easy to produce things."

That has become the fixed belief of many businessmen. Others tell you that the trouble with their industry is that it is now too easy to make automobiles. The manufacturers voice the same complaint. Cotton manufacturers bewail the fact that there is far too much plant capacity. Rubber growers speak of gross overproduction.

Mr. Forbes

Copper producers attribute their woes to the facility with which the red metals can now be abstracted from the ground. There is a super-abundance of silver, say producers. The steel industry attributes its depression to excess productive facilities. The public has been told that there are too many buildings, that there is too much sugar, too much lumber, too much coffee.

The world, it is bewailed, has been "afflicted" by too much wheat that tractors and harvesting machinery have made it too easy for too many countries to raise abundant crops.

IS SUCH reasoning sound? Or is it silly?

It is silly—extremely silly.

WHAT IS mankind's objective on this earth?

What is—what should be—the material goal of the human race?

Our objective, our goal surely is to provide human beings with a maximum amount of necessaries and comforts and luxuries and cultural facilities, and to provide them at the least possible amount of toil and sweat.

MAN'S CHIEF end is not—should not be—the accumulation of gold or silver or other possessions valueless in themselves.

One trouble besetting the world at this stage of its development is that mere money-making has been exalted above human service.

We are so inadequately civilized that we have not yet grasped the elementary, fundamental, supreme fact that the greatest good of the greatest number should be our guiding aim.

WHEN WE ALLOW ourselves to think basically, to ponder the real meaning of life, to analyze calmly what it is all about, how utterly absurd becomes the complaint:

"It has become too easy to produce things!"

IS IT NOT clear as crystal that the easier it becomes to supply every mortal with an abundance of the things which make for comfort, happiness, mental and spiritual growth, the better?

THERE IS altogether too profound basis for complaining, not that it has become too easy to produce things, but that we have not yet learned how to make it possible for everybody to share adequately in the enjoyment of the useful, desirable things produced.

Think of shiploads of coffee being taken to sea and dumped overboard! Think of a supposedly sane United States governmental body, the Federal Farm Board, urging one-third of this country's growing cotton crop be deliberately destroyed! It was even seriously suggested that vast amounts of American wheat be destroyed!

It is enough to make the angels weep and the devil rejoice.

ALONG WHAT paths may the remedy, or remedies, be found for our modern economic ills, our economic dislocation, our economic lopsidedness?

Two thoughts instantly spring to mind. First, mankind's best brains must most earnestly seek to evolve ways and means to make it possible for so-called backward peoples to earn and acquire and consume a much larger measure of the things enjoyed by more advanced races.

Second, until widespread progress has been made in that direction, it would seem as if the forward march of invention, the rapid multiplication of machinery, the improvement in transportation, the increasing mastery of mass production, all combine to make it feasible to cope with the world's present consumptive capacity without toiling as long hours as heretofore.

"TWADDLE!" YOU may reply.

Only don't reach and rivet that conclusion without giving the whole vast subject more and deeper thought that can be compressed into the moments you have devoted to reading this column.

CANDOR SHOWN IN BANKERS' REPORTS

Investment Men Admonish Utilities on Malpractices And Over-Capitalization

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Nov. 13.—The Investment Bankers' Association of America, which held its twentieth annual convention here this week, is one of the business groups which gets down to brass tacks. The chief [illegible] are embodied in the [illegible] reports of the special committees.

Mr. Rukeyser

For example, [illegible] more than two years ago, which was held a few weeks before the stock market crash, the committees on public [illegible] openly berated [illegible] practices in the [illegible] and warned against speculative and manipulative practices. This time, in addition, the same committee this week admonished public utility holding companies against financial malpractices and overcapitalization.

Various other committees, including the committee on industrial securities, pointed to abuses in overcapitalization which abounded before the setback.

The committee on railroad securities—whether wisely or unwisely—without mincing words came out in favor of a 10 per cent cut in railway salaries and wages, and suggested that the savings from the proposed reduction be placed in a revolving fund to take care of near-term railroad maturing obligations which otherwise possibly could not be met.

SUGGEST BLOCKADE

The committee on foreign securities dealt openly with the appalling decline in foreign credit and suggested that the American public at present was overly pessimistic about the ultimate safety of numerous foreign governmental bonds.

As spokesmen for the principal houses of issue in this principal creditor nation of the world, the convention instructed the affiliate, the Institute of International Finance, to seek to effect what would amount to a capital blockade against foreign governments which wilfully default in their obligations, suggesting that it oppose issuance of additional securities unless it seems advantageous to the holders of outstanding bonds in default.

Says I.C.C. Informed On Stock Purchase

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—E. N. Brown, chairman of the board of the St. Louis-Francisco Railroad, said the Interstate Commerce Commission had been fully informed of the purchase of stock of the road by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific and of Gulf, Mobile & Northern stock by the Frisco.

Commenting on the commission's order for an investigation into the purchases, Mr. Brown expressed the opinion the order might have been the result of a misapprehension concerning the amount of the purchases. The original order stated the amount of each block to be 250,000 shares, whereas, Mr. Brown said, the amounts were only 25,000 shares of each.

Rubber Consumption Lower in October

Total domestic stocks of crude rubber on hand October 31 is estimated at 273,456 long tons, an increase of 7½ per cent over September and 47.4 per cent over October 31, 1930.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The bond market wavered uncertainly today although the turnover was somewhat greater.

A rally in Argentine government obligations featured the foreign group.

CORN PRODUCTS FEELS RISE IN PRICES

Demand for Feedstuffs May Bring Increase in Operations This Month

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Business of Corn Products Refining Company has experienced a distinct betterment since the improvement in commodity prices developed early last month. Higher prices for corn have necessitated higher prices for finished goods which are currently selling for about 5 per cent more on the average than they were a month ago.

The greatest price improvement has taken place in feedstuffs, the by-product resulting from refining corn. During the summer, demand for gluten feed was virtually nil. This was a result of lessened demand for milk and milk products, enabling dairymen to supply the demand for their products without stimulating milk production by special feeds.

FEED STOCKS CUT

There recently has been an increase in demand for milk products, and with the disappearance of pasturage, and the firmer tone in the feed markets, Corn Products Refining Company has sold greatly increased amounts of this product.

The big demand for feed has sharply reduced Corn Product's stock of this article. During the summer, Corn Products operated on the lowest schedules possible, partly because of the downward trend of corn prices, and partly to avoid further increases in the large stocks of feed.

With these stocks reduced and with the corn price moving upward, Corn Products may increase its operations late this month or next month.

EARNINGS RECEDE

Earnings of Corn Products in the third quarter represented the low point in the company's business for some years. Net income for that period amounted to only $2,059,452, or only 64 cents a share on the common stock, failing to cover the quarter's distribution of 75 cents on the common stock. The nine months' earnings of $7,583,719 were equal to $2.46 a share on the common stock, failing to cover the period's distributions on the common of $2.75.

The nine months' earnings were the smallest for the period in any year since 1925 when net income was only $5,262,023, equal after preferred dividends to $1.56 a share on the common stock.

Says 'Cotton Belt' In Need of Funds

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(INS)—The St. Louis Southwestern Railroad, better known as the "Cotton Belt" Railroad, must have financial assistance at once or it will be thrown into receivership, Ben C. Day, counsel for the Southern Pacific Railroad, told the Interstate Commerce Commission today, during arguments on the application of that road to acquire the "Cotton Belt" by purchase of capital stock.

The "Cotton Belt," he said, now has $9,000,000 of bank loans which are overdue and between now and next June it will have $20,000,000 of other obligations which must be met.

Electric Company Cuts Stock Price

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—National Electric Power Company is notifying holders of 7 per cent preferred stock with class "B" common stock warrants attached that the price at which warrant holders may purchase class "B" common stock has been reduced to $32.50 a share from $50 a share provided the warrants are exercised on or before December 31, 1931. After that date the price will be $60 a share, the same as provided originally.

Bank Acceptance Volume Turns Up

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The volume of bankers acceptances turned upward in October after a steady decline each month since November last year, the American Acceptance Council reported.

The increase for the month amounted to $43,419,901 and brought the total outstanding as of October 31 to $1,039,784,979. This compared with $1,508,243,726 as of October 31, 1930, a decrease of $468,458,747.

Rail Mergers Still Are Far From Completion

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE REOPENING OF THE RAILROAD consolidated case by the Interstate Commerce Commission indicates that actual mergers are no nearer today than they were two years ago when the commission first published its general consolidation plan.

Ever since the Transportation Act of 1920 gave the commission the task of drawing up a program for the formation of a smaller number of strong railroad systems than are in existence, the leading carriers have been working behind the scenes to secure control of strategical properties. The commission encountered so many complications to rail mergers that it first asked Congress to relieve it of this part of its job and finally met the provisions of the law by setting up a scheme for 21 major trunk line systems in the country.

Since the commission plan was presented in December, 1929, the railroads have been working out paper mergers on their own hook and have been preparing arguments to convince the commission that their own personal ambitions offer preferable solutions to the problem.

The net result of all this work has been practically negligible so far as the business of actually consolidating lines is concerned. The major part of the discussion has centered around the eastern trunk line territory where the commission wished five systems to be established.

Eastern Agreement Reached

THE DOMINANT INTERESTS in the eastern territory have made some progress in that they have finally agreed among themselves on a division of lines into four systems. Naturally a large part of these allotments do not fit in with the commission's plan.

The decision to reopen the consolidation case merely gives the railroads an opportunity to present evidence to convince the commission that their four-party plan is preferable to the five-system plan. The burden of proof will be on the railroads.

Procedure before the Interstate Commerce Commission invariably is slow. It is quite likely that the case will drag along several years more before a final decision on the allotment of lines is reached.

Four-Party Plan

SOME OF THE COMMISSIONERS favor a four-party plan and have not been in agreement with the majority proposals but the ideas of these members are not all in conformity and their views differ from those of the railroad executives in many respects.

Such merger problems as the joint control of the Virginian by the Pennsylvania and the Chesapeake and Ohio and the disposition of the Wabash will present the major difficulties in reaching a general agreement.

The current financial troubles of some of the weaker lines and the difficulties of all the systems in maintaining earnings may offer further obstacles to the completion of mergers since the margin of strength in the well entrenched systems has been reduced to such an extent that they will not be eager to assume the burdens of weaker lines.

Rail Executives Changed

THE CHANGE IN THE PRESIDENT of the New York Central may also have an effect on the future of railroad mergers. The possibility that a new alignment of some of the eastern roads with western systems is seen in the replacement of officials of several important railroads. The presidents of the Great Northern and the Burlington have also been changed.

The fact that Arthur Curtis James, largest individual holder of railroad securities, is reputed to control these two lines as well as the Denver and Rio Grande in addition to being a large stockholder of New York Central may be a significant indication of the hatching of the first step of such a plan.

Daily Short Story -:- All in the Game

The firelight cast weird shadows on the wall in the log cabin home of Jerry and Lucinda Mulkey. The fall breezes had stiffened, and there was a chilliness in the air outside that made the warmth inside the cabin decidedly congenial. The supper things had been put away, and the old couple had taken their places, one at either side of the big fireplace. For sometime not a word had been spoken, while the smoke from two corncob pipes curled about the heads of Mulkey and his wife.

"Stick in another light 'ud knot, maw," croaked old Jerry presently, as he rose and went toward a crude bedstead in a far corner of the room.

Lucinda reached for a knot of fat pine which had been gathered from the mountainside. Stirring the embers of the fire with an end of the knot, she dropped it a moment later upon the blaze. The flames seized it, and soon the interior of the cabin was lighted to its farthest corners. In the meantime Jerry had dragged from under the bed a roll of newspapers. This he brought to the hearth. Carefully he untied the string which held the bundle, and released the papers on the floor at his feet.

"I reckon, Lucindy, we can look at them pictures again, afore we go to bed?"

"Yeah; I reckon so, Jerry. But the Lord knows thar's little we can know about 'em, as I see."

Jerry spread one of the papers out in a way that allowed the firelight to fall upon it in a bright zone. The picture was that of a football field, with two teams in action there. In the foreground was a big, athletic young fellow who clearly was the posing figure of the group. Lucinda had leaned forward from her corner of the fireplace, and the two old heads now were close together. Jerry's long bony finger pointed out the prominent figure.

REVIEW NEWSPAPERS

"It shore is Ike," he exclaimed.

"Hit shore does, Jerry. I do wonder what is thet football game they all talk about?"

"Lord, I don't know; but from these 'ere picturs I reckon thar's a right smart o' fightin' in it."

"'Pears so."

"I got an idee 'at Ike can hold his own wi' the best of 'em when hit comes to fightin', Maw."

"Yeah; I reckon he can."

One after another the papers were reviewed. Each one of them featured Ike Mulkey in some pose on the football field.

"Ike knowed we couldn't read, Maw," observed Jerry, after some moments of silence following their review of the last copy; "an' he sent these 'ere papers so's we could see what he was doin,' 'thout readin'. But they ain't none of 'em as show him a studyin' no lessons, as I can see."

"I reckon he has to do his studyin' at night, Paw, by the firelight."

"Maybe so."

Carefully Jerry rebundled the papers and thrust them beneath the bed in the corner. A little while later the firelight in the chimney had died out; and the old people were snoring peacefully in their bed.

FRIEND OF IKE'S

The following morning a visitor approached the Mulkey cabin, coming down afoot by a narrow trail which led from the roadway 300 yards away. Jerry was engaged in weaving a basket at the front doorstep.

"Is your name Jerry Mulkey?" asked the stranger.

"Yeah, it do be Mulkey." Jerry looked up curiously, then laid aside the whiteoak splits with which he was working.

"I am Ike Mulkey's friend, and I am glad to meet you." The young man held out his hand.

"Yuh're a friend o' Ike's?" The old man got to his feet, and seized the visitor's hand. Then he shouted back into the cabin: "Lord, Lucindy; come here."

In a moment Lucinda had come from the house and was greeting the man who said he was a friend to Ike.

"Ike sent me up here to bring you down to Asheville," explained the visitor. "My car is waiting back here on the road. Ike is playing football at Asheville this afternoon; and it was so near to his old home, that he wanted you to come and see the game."

"Why, hit's miles to Asheville!" Old Jerry scratched his head thoughtfully. "Yeah; hit's eighty ef hit's a mile."

DECIDE TO GO

"That is true; but we can make it in a couple of hours. And I will get you back home by nightfall."

"You hear that, Lucindy?"

"Yeah. Yuh think o' going, Jerry?"

"Mought as well, seein' Ike hes sent for us; don't yuh reckon, Lucindy?"

"Yuh know we ain't never rid in one o' them contraptions?"

"Yeah; I know. I reckon hit's safte, ain't it, Mister?"

"Perfectly so."

The trip to Asheville was a rare experience, and not without its element of constant dread to the aged couple who never in their lives had traveled at such speed. And the spectacle of 20,000 fans gathered to see the game filled them with awe. Jerry and Lucinda were given seats near the rail. Ike clearly was distinguishable on the field; and the father and mother watched him with unswerving gaze. As the game progressed there were frequent rounds of applause in which the name of Mulkey could be heard. It was known that Ike Mulkey was working his way through college, and he had become an idol of the fans. After a long silence Jerry turned to Lucinda, and in a guarded voice, asked:

"Air they made about somethin', or jes' fightin' for fun, I wonder?"

FATHER TO RESCUE

"Lord, how do I know, Paw? Hit 'pears they air powerful in earnest onct in awhile."

Presently Ike had the ball and was started on a long race for the goal. At the five-yard line a player seized him by the knees, and he went down, with an avalanche of roiling, tumbling men on top. Apparently Ike was being crushed into the ground. Old Jerry Mulkey rose from his seat with a whoop.

"Hey, by heck, I'm a-comin'!" he shouted. "Dinged ef yuh can take no 'vantage o' Ike thet way—I can lick th' hul 'tarnal lot o' yuh, yuh derned catamounts!"

Suddenly someone called "time out." Out of the apparent melee came Ike Mulkey, laughing.

"It's all right, Dad!" he shouted. "We're not fighting—it is all in the game!"

A wild roar of laughter and applause went up from the crowd. Crestfallen, old Jerry turned, and crept slowly back to his seat.

"Yuh made a plum' fool o' yuhrself, Jerry," whispered Lucinda.

WATCH IN SILENCE

"Yeah; I reckon so, Maw."

After this the game was watched in silence. When the time came for the return trip home Ike managed to get to the car of his friend, and to bid his parents good-by, although doting admirers were pulling him this way and that in the exuberance of their joy over another victory.

As Jerry and Lucinda sat once more over the embers of their home fire that night, each smoking contentedly, Jerry spoke, after a silence which had lasted for 30 minutes.

"Well, Maw, we've see'd a football game," he said.

"Yeah," after a pause during which Lucinda had taken three or four heavy drafts upon her cob pipe.

More silence, while the smoke floated about the heads of the aged people. Then from Jerry:

"I reckon a good old-fashioned b'ar fight hes hit's 'vantages, Maw!"

Mary Begins a New Battle Against Wealthy Girl To Hold Steve

CHAPTER XX.

It was near midnight when Mary and Bill Calvert reached the house in the Catskills. On the way she lost track of direction and distance; the rush of night against her face cooled her fevered cheeks, and lifted little strands of the golden hair. Suspense, uncertainty as to Steve's condition, kept a nervousness spiraling in her breast. A revolving endlessness of haste to be with him . . . yet, in the background, less important things clamored for attention, too.

There was some feminine anxiety in the matter of clothes, but the few things she possessed were well-chosen and becoming. The very simplicity of her apparel gave it a kind of smartness. But now, since she knew Steve had sent for her, that he wanted her above Eileen, she was scarcely concerned with the impression she would make with these rich people.

The freshness of the country air was strange and sweet. The house, as she alighted from the car, was larger than she had expected. It was long and white, built of stone and wood and set in the midst of a green lawn that resembled a park with its trees and shrubbery. She entered a wide hall with Bill and a servant took her bags. On either side she glimpsed spacious rooms. The luxury of thick rugs and mahogany and rich shaded lamps.

A tall woman with a round face like Bill's and dark friendly eyes under dignified gray hair, came down the broad steps into the hall. Her smile was faintly troubled, but when she spoke her voice was mellow—imperturbably hospitable.

"Mother, this is Miss Kennedy," Bill said, and Mrs. Calvert came to her and took her hand. Both of them said, "How do you do?"

"She'll want to see Steve right away—if it's all right," Bill said. "I reckon it will be all right—won't it, if he's not asleep?"

"I think so, but I'll ask the nurse to make sure," Mrs. Calvert said in her pleasantly poised voice. "Perhaps, though, we had better show Miss Kennedy her room first."

SEES STEVE

They all went up the stairs, preceded by the servant who carried Mary's bags into a bedroom in which a single dim light showed a decorative scheme of soft green and orchid, with pastel draperies and light-painted furniture. Another open door showed a bathroom of gleaming tile, blue curtains, tinted and glowing porcelain.

"Please try to feel thoroughly at home in this house," Mrs. Calvert told her. "You'll be with us quite some time I hope, and if Bill doesn't look after you properly, you just come and tell his mother. Probably, though, your trouble will be to get rid of him. He's likely to make a pest of himself where there's a pretty girl around."

Mrs. Calvert smiled and Mary felt a sudden affection for this amiable lady. Bill grinned at his mother's jest.

"Mother's just kidding you—I'm a woman hater myself," he said. "Any way, Miss Kennedy won't be interested in me."

Presently, with the nurse's permission, Mary was led to the room where Steve was an invalid. It was at a corner of the house with windows on two sides, furnished in mahogany and chintz with a wide soft rug, an adjoining bath glimmered opulently with its colored tiles. A white clad nurse, severe and middle-aged—a Mrs. Deal—looked upon Mary with a hostile eye.

"Not more than five minutes, at the most. I'll be back when the time is up."

Primly, she marched away.

Steve's face was whiter than Mary had ever seen it before. His eyes were dazed, tired. There was a bandage around his forehead and over his hair, like a white cap.

"Mary!" The face turned on the pillow toward her. He might have been dreaming from his tone. "What are you doing here?"

WANTED HER

She closed the door behind her, then took a chair beside the bed, but she made no move to touch him. He seemed very ill.

"I came to be with you, Steve, darling," she succeeded in making her voice calm, matter-of-fact. It would not do to show emotion and get him excited, although her own heartache and sympathy stifled her, her fingers twined together, but she kept them out of his sight.

"I wanted you." His voice was tired, and the gray eyes searched her face. "I got a bad bump, Mary, but I'll be all right. I'm better already, just because you're here."

There was a flicker of a smile on his colorless lips; he put a hand out of the cover, and she pressed it gently.

"You mustn't talk too much," she told him. "And you mustn't worry either. I'll be right here with you, darling."

A little color came back to his face. "Isn't Bill Calvert a peach? I know you'll like them all, just as I do. It's a bit thick on Eileen for me to be parked here like this for a couple of weeks, but honestly, I don't think she minds it. Everything worked out splendidly, Mary. I'm so glad I came up here and broke the news to her in my own way."

"It makes our conscience feel better, doesn't it?" Mary smiled.

"The old conscience is as clear as a maiden's prayer book," he told her with a flash of his old self. "Will be back on my feet and fighting as soon as I get rest . . . rest . . . ." His voice trailed off.

PLEASANT HOUSE

She could see that he was weak. No use taxing his strength too far. She bent over and kissed him lightly on the cheek, and as she straightened up, the nurse came back into the room. In her own room, Mary found a maid in a black dress turning down her bed.

"Shall I unpack your things and hang them up?" the girl asked pleasantly.

"No, thank you very much," Mary said unwilling to have this strange girl rummage among her clothes. "Young Mr. Calvert is down in the library," said the girl, "and he said if you weren't too tired, he'd like to have you drop down and have a bit of refreshment with him before you turn in."

A pleasant house . . . A charming dignified way to live, Mary thought. No hurry, no excitement . . . . so different from any life she had ever experienced. Some day . . . in her own home and Steve's, it would be something like this . . . A little later she walked slowly down the wide staircase, all her nervousness gone, and her weary self already refreshed and quietly content. Bill was in the library, busy with a silver percolator on a small table, a tray of sandwiches, and a plate of cake cut in squares. A small roll of flesh showed above his collar—the explanation of his slight overweight was visible before him.

"I always have something before I turn in—I seem to need just a snack," he explained, boyishly.

LUXURY AND BEAUTY

They sat on one of the two sofas that flanked the empty fireplace, with the little table between them. It was very confidential and friendly, this midnight snack, with Mary nibbling a piece of cake, and Bill Calvert putting away innumerable small sandwiches. No wonder Steve adored these people. Money was at the base of their life, of course, but there was something else besides that—an unconscious and simple ease that a man like Buck Landers could never acquire if his wealth ran into billions.

"And when am I to see your sister?" Mary asked Bill.

"Oh, in the morning, I suppose. She's gone to bed now, and so has father. But oh yes, Eileen wants me to tell you—she wants to have an important talk with you. That's what she says it is—important."

A maid with a tray tapped at Mary's door in the morning and she had breakfast in her room. Apparently such was the custom in this house of gracious living. Mary bathed leisurely in the sumptuous bathroom, luxuriating her small body in the great towels that were big enough to wrap around her like a cloak. An array of powders and lotions, all fresh and unused, had thoughtfully been provided, a contrast came to her mind with the bleak bathrooms she had always known. The old tubs, the floor sopping wet from previous bathers, the skimpy, threadbare towels. Yet, it was heavenly to have enough money to provide luxury and beauty in one's daily life. With some people it might not matter—but Mary's whole body responded to the exquisite pleasure of freshness and beauty. She felt iridescent, sleek, unhurried. Half-clothed, she sat in a low chair and loitered through her dressing, to live like this every day of her life . . .

She came downstairs at her leisure; if she had previously felt any social embarrassment it had all vanished now. Mrs. Calvert met her near the library door.

"Good morning, Miss Kennedy. Did you sleep well? Yes, I know you did because you look so completely rested and bright."

Mr. Calvert appeared an older, heavier edition of his son, a broad-shouldered man with close gray hair and a deep tan of a man who plays much golf. Even now he was moving toward a car that waited outside with a driver.

"So glad to know you, Miss Kennedy." His voice was rich and kindly. "I'm sorry I have to rush away—but the others will take care of you, I'm sure."

"Oh, don't pretend to be interested in this girl," Mrs. Calvert said to him. "You're just dying to get started out to that old golf course—I actually think he lives for golf alone, Miss Kennedy."

"It keeps me out of mischief," her husband returned, and with a wink and a wave of the hand as he went out of the door.

An amiable, happy family . . .

"Steve had a good night and the doctor will be here this morning again," Mrs. Calvert told Mary. "I expect it will be all right for you to see him sometime before lunch—after the doctor finishes."

But Mary was not worried over Steve's recovery now. Last night Bill had explained how Steve's horse had shied off the road and stumbled. No it wasn't a fractured skull or a concussion—something about a cerebral effusion—there was a scalp wound but it was negligible; time, rest, protection from excitement constituted the main treatment. No, there was nothing to worry about.

MEETS EILEEN

"I want you to meet my daughter Eileen," said Mrs. Calvert. "Eileen, this is Miss Kennedy."

Mary saw a dark-haired girl, slim and tall, her eyes brown and brooding. Eileen Calvert seemed scarcely to belong to this phlegmatic family; her regular features were sharp, but the somewhat narrow face with its rather wide mouth was distinguished and obscurely calculating. The cheerful innocence of her mother's countenance was missing, and in its place, Mary decided, was mystery. The dark hair, beautifully arranged, gleamed with exotic radiance. She was perhaps 25 years old—at any rate older than Steve.

"I'm glad to see you. I'm sure," she said without warmth. "If you're not doing anything right now, Miss Kennedy, perhaps you might like to come out to the garden with me. It's nice in the morning before the days gets too hot."

An instinct told Mary to be on guard. "Oh, yes. I'd like very much to go out to the garden with you."

They walked out through the double glass doors of the dining room and crossed a terrace to a stone stair that led to the flower garden.

There was a circular pool in the center, where a small fountain sprayed a thin silver mist in the warm perfumed air. It was still and languorous here and quiet, save for the faint tinkle of the fountain and the flutter of birds in the border of althaea. A path, edged with dwarf-wood led them to an old stone bench in a little arbor.

"You have no idea how I've longed to see you," she said to Mary, so slowly that her voice was almost lazy. "I wanted to behold the superior beauty that so overpowered poor Steve."

The voice was velvet, but the challenging steel thrust of bitterness was perfectly frank. Swiftly, Mary knew that she must not try to equal the other girl's mockery. Her own weapon would be simple bland honesty . . . Nothing that Eileen could say would change the fact that Mary owned all of Steve's love.

"I think you overrate what you so kindly call my beauty," Mary replied.

"Yes, perhaps you're right," Eileen said, levelly. "It must have been something else more effective than beauty, to accomplish your purpose. I'm curious about it, really. Was it charm or propinquity—or what?"

"I couldn't say myself—perhaps Steve might answer better."

Imperceptibly, a rigidity crept through Eileen's figure. Her face remained smooth, cold, but suddenly the dark eyes were hot. A twitch crossed the mouth faintly, and she leaned forward suddenly.

"Miss Kennedy, what would you do if you felt robbed of your dearest, your most sacred possession?" she demanded, her voice fast and stinging. "If someone stole your lover behind your back? Forget this artificial thing we call pride. Face the fact that dirty work has been done. What would you do—what do you think I'm going to do?"

"I have no idea what you're going to do, Miss Calvert."

"I'm going to do what any sane woman ought to do. I'm going to put up a fight. I'm going to fight you with the truth!"

Mary kept her own voice very steady. "And if I decline to discuss any of it with you, Miss Calvert, you'd be left somewhat in the air, wouldn't you?"

"Ah, believe me, you will listen to me, because you are quite egotistical enough to enjoy your present advantage," said Eileen, her words and voice mingling in a ready fluency. "And, after all, I'm the only person remaining between you and Steve. Yes, my dear, you have a sort of intelligence that keeps you interested in your enemy. You are wise with men—wiser than I am—but I think wiser thoughts. I wonder if you realize just how much of your future happiness is in my hands—not in Steve's—in mine?"

"I'm glad to see you," said Eileen, without warmth.

"I'm the only person remaining between you and Steve."

"High Speed Girl"

At 19 Laurel Oakes thought she knew all the answers. Life was a continual merry-go-round of cocktails, parties, MEN. You could "step on the gas" and cut corners if you knew how to get away with it!

That was Laurel's code, until tragedy exploded like a bomb before her young eyes. Then she found out things she'd never known before.

Don't miss the first chapter of "HIGH SPEED GIRL," newest MAY CHRISTIE story, which begins next THURSDAY in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

For Remembrance

Space has not bereft me,
Still my love is near;
These are what she left me
For remembrance dear,
All the lilting measures
That the linnet knows,
Sunset's opal treasures,
Petals of the rose,
Poppies' satin dresses,
Stargleams through the night,
And the swift caresses
Of the wind in flight.

Thieving time can never Steal her quite away,
Since with dawning ever
Memories sweet and gay
Wake me from my sleeping,
From my dreams of her,
Thoughts like sunbeams creeping,
Glad as wings astir.
Space has not bereft me,
Nor have time's fleet wings;
Memories she has left me
In all lovely things.

ANNOUNCEMENT EXTRAORDINARY

Due, perhaps, to unusual weather conditions throughout the United States, we have received one of the most significant pieces of verse it has been our good fortune to hitherto avoid. Poignant, gripping, we print below, at your risk, a poem directly from the heart and indelible pencil of Filipino Poet Felizio Andrade.

PROSPERITY

What is it, this prosperity of what I hear of?
I know what means such dear
word as Love;
I also realize whereby comes pretty words like Oh, Baby,
And moreover, too, that ladies say no which means maybe,
But all the time I read in newspapers and hear on radio
About prosperity, which is surely very fine thing;
But everyone say, Oh, where?
Oh, where?
And, please, I would be very thanks if somebody
To tell me what it means word
Prosperity.

Mistaken Mercy

"Little Augie's" Case Is a Good Illustration of the Imprudence of Showing Leniency to Gangsters.

"Little Augie" Mantredo, notorious Hill district racketeer and gang politician, was sentenced yesterday to serve three years in the workhouse for running a gambling house.

"Little Augie" has figured again and again in the crime news, but so far as the records show this will be the first time that he has ever gone to prison.

He admitted that he had been fined twice for running a lottery and paroled once after pleading guilty, and that on six other occasions he was accused of violation of election laws, assault and battery, carrying concealed weapons and pointing firearms, though not found guilty.

The mercy shown him in the earlier cases in which he was up before the court for sentence was mistaken mercy, as the aftermath proves. He simply continued his evil ways.

Pittsburgh and the boroughs in which corrupt political gangs hold power have a number of "Little Augies." They are accused again and again of the same kinds of crimes that figure in his record, but, like him, rarely serve prison sentences. They sometimes are convicted, or may even plead guilty, but are paroled, or pardoned, or let off with a fine.

It is a bad policy. The courts would do better to send gangsters of their reputation to jail the first time they are up for sentence.

Neglected Highways

Main State Roads Must Not Be Allowed to Deteriorate While Others Are Improved.

John G. Dinsmore, of Waynesburg, manager of the Greene County Auto Club, complains in a letter to the Sun-Telegraph that in carrying out the program to get the farmers out of the mud the State Highway Department is neglecting the chief routes over which motor traffic passes.

He says that while thousands of miles of township roads taken over by the Commonwealth in pursuance of Gov. Pinchot's promise are being given a cheap hard surface many miles of more important state highways remain unimproved.

Mr. Dinsmore is chiefly concerned over Greene County's neglected state highways, and gives some figures as to roads near Waynesburg which are still unimproved though carrying traffic of a volume that would warrant the laying of durable concrete pavement.

There is merit in his complaint, and we have nearer Pittsburgh an example of the neglect to which he refers. It will be found in the condition of certain parts of the Pittsburgh-Butler road, Route No. 8. Here is an important state highway connecting large centers of population that has been allowed to go for so long without improvement that the interests of the two communities are appreciably affected.

The plan to improve the little traveled country roads is commendable, but the work should not be done at the expense of highways over which 80 per cent of the state's automobile traffic moves.

Dry Oath for Teachers

There Is No Justification for the Requirement Proposed By the Daughters of the Revolution.

The Daughters of the American Revolution have skirted dangerously close to fanaticism in proposing that public school teachers and college professors in Pennsylvania be required to take an oath that they will obey the liquor laws. There is no justification for imposing such a requirement.

We do not mean by this to excuse teachers for violating the liquor laws. The point is that the liquor laws are no more important than any other laws and the Daughters of the Revolution are giving them an exaggerated importance in thus singling them out for a special oath.

There might be some shadow of warrant for this remarkable proposal if there were evidence that any considerable proportion of the teachers were addicted to drunkenness, and there were hope that through the oath they might be restored to sobriety. But there is no such evidence. We suspect, on the contrary, that teachers are less given to the use of intoxicants than the average citizen.

A Library for the Jail

Books Will Help to Save the Prisoners From the Curse of Idleness.

The news that there were no books at the county jail for the use of prisoners will come as a surprise to many. Books, one would have supposed, were a necessity in a place where hundreds of men are confined with little to do and where it is important that there should be as little opportunity as possible for brooding or plotting mischief.

Ralph Munn, director of Carnegie Library, deserves the thanks not only of the prisoners but of the public for remedying the deficiency. He has sent 500 volumes of standard works to the prison at the request of an inmate.

Warden McNeil's remark that the prisoners' temptation to gamble with noiseless soap dice will be lessened is significant. The library will tend to save the prisoners from the evils of ennui; for, as the old hymn writer said, "Satan finds some mischief still for idle hands to do."

Incidentally the library may be the means of leading criminals to better things. It should promote education. Alexander Berkman, the anarchist, acquired a great deal of book learning by the reading he did during his long term of imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary.

The personally wet politically dry G. O. P. is worried.

The results of the November elections were not at all pleasant on the whole.

Anti-dry sentiment shows steady gains and the election results presage additional anti-dry gains as the revolt of the sane, sober majority of the American people against foolish prohibition increases in momentum.

No wonder the elephant is worried.

Marry-Go-Round

When Love Was Love

Once in a while I like to read a good, old-fashioned mid-Victorian novel. YOU know the type! A novel with a hero and a villian and a persecuted woman in it.

The kind of mellow old book that transports you far from this Madding Machine Age back to the good old peaceful, tranquil, unconfusing days when virtue was virtue and sin was SIN—and there were no two arguments about it!

When you KNEW that you were good—or that you were bad, and did not have to go to a psychoanalist to learn the latest fashion in morals, or to discover whether your passion for making a fool of yourself was an inhibition or just plain cussedness.

When all the good women were plump and blonde—and all the wicked ones were dusky-eyed and sinuous. And all the villains wore fierce black mustaches—and all the heroes wore lovely curling mustaches.

When love was love—not a matter of sex appeal or a psychopathic problem or a fixation, or a complex.

When murder was murder—not "paranoia." And a villain was a villain—not a "mental defective," or a "victim of society" or a "popular racketeer."

When you could tell a chorus girl from a debutante and a grandmother from a flapper, without putting up your lorgnettes. And it was perfectly proper for a woman to be middle-aged, and no disgrace to be fat! And you didn't have to hire a gigolo to trail around after you in order to prove that you were still in your dancing days.

When all widows were "fascinating" and all actresses were "dangerous." When all married men were "married men," and no other woman considered herself entitled to snitch your husband. And you never hesitated to refer to a man's last year's wife, for fear she might be his this year's headache.

When honor and fidelity were perfectly "good form," to be happily married was chic, and to be divorced was "simply disgraceful."

When a lady was a "lady"—not a "parasite." And a saloon was a saloon—not a speakeasy. And a gentleman was a man who could "hold his liquor," his job, his temper and his wife, with equal success.

Ah, yes—those were the dear, delightful, untroubled days! When right was right and wrong was wrong—and everything was perfectly simple and plain and obvious!

When life was not a perpetual question, with a new answer every morning, but a dead certainty, with an inevitable Heaven or Hell at the end!

The pleasant, torpid, tranquil, unhurried age of the horse-and-buggy, the plush sofa, the Gibson Girl, and the Dominant Male! The good old days B. F. and B. P. and B. G.—Before Feminism, Before Prohibition and Before Gasoline!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Thoughts while strolling. After all few can give trouble a toss like Mayor Walker. John Farrar grows stout. Harry Evans, who sees plays for Life. The gorgeously beautiful Freda Mierse of the Follies.

William Gaxton, a San Francisco boy, who made good in the city. What became of Daddy Browning? Ray Long's partner Richard Smith looks like a Harvard professor. Then there's that dog shop proprietress so many take for Neysa McMein. The pandemonium around Radio City. Bing, bing, bing.

The old philosopher who plaits and ribbons his hair. Straining against oblivion. A postman reads a postcard. A vivid blond skips out of a taxi into a speak. That sinister gang threat: "If you don't, it will be just too bad—"

Lindbergh sculped in potato salad in a delicatessen window. Wonder if Lew Fields and Joe Weber were estranged so many years. Or was it press agent talk? Nothing tickles me like an awkward puppy running sidewise. Adolph Zukor always reminds me of Eddie Brandstetter, Hollywood cafe owner.

I know a man who shuts his eyes when passing the Empire building. But many Manhattan towers were infra dig for months after completion. I'd like to awaken in Kentucky some crisp morning and tear into a sausage pie. I always confuse Martha Hedman and Marjorie Rambeau.

A "Lady Named Lou" cabaret. Lew Cody's apartment. Joe Feier's impromptu violin recitals. Ben Ali Haggin droppin' in, top-hatted, for a moment and staying until dawn. Jim Quirk and Allen Dwan debating. Al Bedell's collars.

Mustaches like Norman Kerry wears are coming back. Two girls who married titles now clerking on the avenue. Margaret Illington, born Maud Light, named herself in honor of her home town Bloomington, Ill. Black clouds gather. Like angry bees. Gang way for home!

Rube Goldberg did not have an overly pleasant stay in Hollywood recently. Discussing it he said he tried to work in a thin-walled hotel bungalow, but couldn't concentrate. Said Rube: "All day and far into the night I was disturbed by gentlemen murmuring 'Yes' and ladies shouting 'No.'"

Delivering orange juice with milk has bolstered up many sagging receipts of milk companies during the year. The heaviest sales are made in the bachelor apartments along the fashionable upper East Side. For, as Frances Williams chirps: "There's a lot of bad orange juice going around."

There are in Federal Reserve vaults downtown two billions in gold. Precautions for the safety of the enormous hoard are stupendous. Vaults are 85 feet below the street and 55 below sea level. Around the mighty cache is a narrow corridor protected by eight-foot thick walls of solid steel. The sole entrance is a 90-ton door which may be opened only by two men working separate combinations. No living person knows both. Employes have a food supply that would last two months in case of a siege and a delicate alarm contraption brings 500 soldiers, with machine guns, from Governor's Island in 20 minutes. Master minds of the safecracking world have for years worked and dreamed of some way to loot this prize, but to no avail. Recently they are reputed to have given up. It is regarded as utterly impossible. To get at the gold would necessitate destruction of the entire lower island.

New York's Italian section clusters around what is called the Minettas—Minetta lane, Minetta street and Minetta place. It is a district hard by Chatham square and Chinatown and was originally named "Mintje Kill"—Little Brook—by the pioneer Dutch. Plans are now being discussed to turn its twisting streets and slum tenements into sweeping boulevards and modern sunny apartments. We hope it will not sweep away that rare culinary cluster on Mulberry known as Moneta's.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Little Millie Adams is boy crazy.

Two years ago, Milly was a sweet, shy little girl in the last grade of Grammar School. She was docile as a kitten . . . satisfied to play simple games with other little girls . . . still liked to fuss with her dolls.

Today she's an unruly young smarty in the second year of Hi. And the neighbors are beginning to say—

"If ever I saw the makings of a Bad Girl, it's that Adams kid."

And Milly certainly looks the part. In spite of her mother's efforts to dress her modestly, Milly smuggles lipstick and rouge to school—makes up like a young Indian. Won't work, either, at home or at school. Is lazy, dreamy, irritable—Won't mend her clothes. Leaves everything in a mess. Sasses back.

Sometimes, between outbursts, the old sweet Milly returns. For a few days, she'll be gentle and adorable—then off she'll go again, in dizzy circles. And always there's a boy on the horizon. She can't think of anything but boys. And Mom and Dad are frantic. They lecture her . . . tell her she should be ashamed of herself . . . but it doesn't do a particle of good. Right in the middle of a scolding, the telephone will ring, and she'll jump up with that furtive, excited look—

What IS to become of her? After all they've done to make her fine and good is she going to be one of these Wild Women? And what would I do with a girl like that?

What would I do with a Boy-Crazy Girl? I'd remember when I was Boy Crazy myself! I'd turn my memory back through the years of my womanhood, back to the time when I was 10, then 12, then 15. I'd remember the hazy-dazy dream world in which I lived as a child, shut in, awaiting my awakening, like a grub in a cocoon. A tiny, shy grub, curled up in Myself—knowing nothing whatever of Real Life.

Then the shivery beginning of awakening . . . the prickling curiosity about the vast, strange world of grown men and women . . . the increasing ache to be Grown Up myself, to know what it was all about—

The sense of something in me rushing on and on . . . reaching out and out . . . the sense of something going to happen—

Suddenly, something happening with earthquake violence . . . the bursting of the cocoon . . . the beginning of womanhood—

Realizing myself—my female self—for the first time—

Realizing boys for the first time—

Realizing Love—that most tremendous adventure—for the first time.

Stepping out into a world that was filled with the whispering and uproar of love. Growing dizzy and feverish with the wonder and delight of it all—growing shivery and cold with the fear of it all. Happy one day, hurt the next. Lazy, industrious, gentle, cruel, meek, proud, generous, stingy—being all these things in the course of one day, until my heart and head were whirling with the confusion of it all.

BEING ALL THESE THINGS BECAUSE LIFE WAS HAVING ITS WAY WITH ME . . . AND BECAUSE I HAD NO KNOWLEDGE OF HOW TO CONTROL LIFE.

And all the time being scolded and lectured and told to explain myself, when I hadn't the slightest notion what it was all about.

And Boys! Every nerve of me thrilling to Boys. The wonder of being with Boys . . . the shame of liking Boys! I loved them. I hated them. I ran from them—and to them! Boys, like a fever, possessed me. I couldn't rid myself of them. "Boy Crazy"—that's what they called me too, and the sneer of it cut like a lash. But how could I help this craziness which had come upon me? Why couldn't Grown-Ups trust me instead of hurting me so? Why couldn't they explain it to me quietly, with respect and friendship, instead of treating me like an outlaw? Why couldn't they understand?

If I had a Boy Crazy Girl what would I do? That's what I'd do. I'd remember when I was boy crazy myself. I'd remember how natural it all was, and how right—and how it finally led me to the beauty and deep joy of motherhood.

AND I'D TELL MY LITTLE GIRL ABOUT IT.

That's what I'd do.

Statecraft Calls for Statesmanship

By Claude G. Bowers

It is evident from the statement of Senator Harrison that the Democrats in Congress are not going to fall into another "co-operation" trap with Mr. Hoover. Previous experience has shown his utter incapacity to play the game fairly. Nor can there be any "moratorium" in the expose of the futility and destructiveness of the administration policies. These must be thoroughly exposed by the party that has just been given a mandate by the people.

Approaching an election in which the people will pass upon the pledges and promises made by Mr. Hoover in 1928, these must be re-examined and tested by the results. That is the meaning of "government by the people."

With every effort being made by the apologists of the administration to ascribe the human misery in America during its regime to European conditions over which it has no control, the responsibility of this regime for the conditions here must be made clear. Mr. Hoover can be quoted as ascribing prosperity to government under the domination of his party. In his speech at Elizabethtown in 1928 he told us that "yearly the relations of government to national prosperity become more and more intimate." In his speech of acceptance he told us that prosperity after the economic disarrangement following the demobilization of the army was due to the statesmanship of the Harding regime.

He assured us that this statesmanship had made prosperity permanent in America, and he promised to proceed himself to the elimination of poverty. That, probably, was the most demagogic promise ever made—but it was made. "What is writ is writ, would it were worthier." We have had the pledges and promises; these must be reviewed in the light of the events that have followed.

M. Laval Is Now Treating With Germany

The European plan to dump the debts of the 14 nations into the lap of the American taxpayer gradually unfolds. M. Laval is now treating with Germany. We shall hear that Germany must be relieved of reparations; that this is possible only through relieving the nations collecting the reparations from the debts; and this can be done only by the people of the United States assuming the debts of the 14 nations and paying the cost of the war we did not will.

In his Guild Hall speech, Monday, Ramsay MacDonald let the curtain down a little more when he said:

"All states must make concessions for the simple reason that if they do not the world will go from bad to worse until collapse and revolution may be the only way out. What government and what nation is going to be responsible for that?"

And thus, playing the game, he points his finger directly at us.

The 14 nations having 60 years to pay will "concede" to us the right to pay for them, and we "concede" the obligation. Thus we have the "concessions" all around.

We Are Simple Simons Of the World

If there is a nation in the world that does not have the "capacity" to pay the debts of the world it is the nation that is running a deficit now of about two billion dollars; that has more unemployed proportionately than England; as many as Germany, and millions more than Italy and France combined.

Just how it is figured that prostrate America has an unlimited capacity to pay the debts of the world will puzzle the groundlings.

In no other nation on the earth would a government dare propose it. We are supposed to be the simple-simons of the world.

This bally-hoo to stampede us into a stupid act was given impetus by some understanding, not made public, in the conversations of Mr. Hoover and M. Laval.

One Way to Cancel The Debts

This gesture of generosity by Lady Bountiful in Rags was dictated by the bankers who naturally want to collect their bad private loans in Europe by relieving the debtors of the necessity of paying their debts to the American people. There is no such thing as a cancellation of the debts; there can only be a transfer of the obligation to pay from the debtors to the American people. There is just one way to cancel the debts and that is to persuade those holding the bonds to contribute them, as in Italy, to a patriotic bonfire. But the bonds are owned by the bankers also. They want that money, too. If they can collect that money from the American people who do not owe it they can more easily collect their private loans from Europe. The only cancellation is a bonfire. We have a few of these bonds we will contribute to a general conflagration. Are there any more?

Statecraft Is For Statesmen

All the bungling that has brought the world to its present plight was not by the politicians and statesmen. How well we remember how when the Dawes and Young commissions undertook to settle the financial ills of mankind the press rapturously exclaimed: "Now that governmental matters have been taken out of the hands of politicians and turned over to the bankers we shall have a speedy solution!" And now the bankers, up against it, throw the bad job they made of it into the laps of the politicians.

After all, statecraft is for statesmen.

How fortunate that the politicians disregarded the almost unanimous protest of the bankers in pushing the Federal Reserve law to its passage. The bankers in the large money centers were almost unanimously opposed.

At the convention of the American Bankers' Association in Boston in October, 1913, but two delegates tried to speak in favor of a Federal Reserve System and they actually were howled down until the chairman begged the bankers to at least give them a hearing.

How fortunate for the country and the bankers that politicians like Carter Glass and Woodrow Wilson were not impressed but pushed ahead until the bill was law. From our reading of history we should say that in statecraft statesmen are even wiser than bankers.

Specialists of a Higher Order

We Americans love money inordinately, and are prone to ascribe all wisdom to men who make vast amounts, even when, through governmental privilege, they get it out of our pockets. Thus we are hearing all the time that government ought to be turned over to successful manufacturers of pig iron, bankers and stock brokers. These men are specialists in their line and experts; but being an expert in the manufacture of pig iron no more qualifies a man for running government and determining governmental policies than for tampering with the delicate mechanism of a watch. Statesmen, who are genuine, are specialists of higher order than the manufacturers or bankers; for where the latter have to master only a business, the statesman must take all interrelated business into consideration, and all human relationships.

We have had too much business in government in America during the last 10 years and too little statesmanship. In 1928 we were told that for the first time the American people had the opportunity to turn down a politician like Smith for a business man like Hoover.

This first business administration has not been satisfactory; what we need is more statesmanship in the seats of the mighty.
